On the sound premise, therefore, that the federal government has the bulk of the resources and the cities the bulk of the problems, this projected relationship recognizes the dynamism of the federal-local axis and copes with it in a realistic fashion. We do not endeavor to project purely state needs but suggest that dialogue leading to proper assumption of responsibility by the states would indicate a sound projection of state fiscal needs is necessary.

Detailed Breakdown

A detailed breakdown of the TEMPO revenue projections is as follows:

Capital outlays for public facilities of municipalities and other local public agencies for the 1966-1975 period will range between $169 and $201 billion. This is estimated from studies made by more than 40 independent experts for the Joint Economic Committee of the U. S. Congress (published December, 1966).

These capital outlays will be about 19 percent of total local government expenditure, according to an economic study made for the National League of Cities.

Thus, total expenditures of local governments for the 1966-1975 period will range between $890 and $1,060 billion. Splitting the difference would place revenue needs of local governments at $975 billion over the next 10 years. To that estimate should be added an allowance of $50 billion of public funds to finance replacement of the 5 million urban slum dwellings classified by the U. S. Census Bureau as dilapidated or overcrowded, which is only part of the over-all cost of urban renewal.

This will bring total revenue needs to $1,025 billion for local government capital and operating purposes in the 1966-1975 period. This is actually understated because of the omission from this estimate of local costs of urban renewal (land acquisition and planning).

These expenditure needs will increase annually from $61 billion the first year to $150 billion the tenth year. Local government revenues will likewise increase with the growth in the national economy, but not enough to meet the needs. In fact, the estimated annual gap between the revenue needs and the actual revenues expected will range from $4.5 billion the first year to $50.3 billion the tenth. The total revenue gap for the 10-year period will be $262 billion.

Local Sources Far Inadequate

Local governments cannot fill this gap from local revenue sources. Increased property tax rates or other increased city taxes will only accelerate current urban deterioration, especially in core cities, according to the TEMPO report.

Nontax user fees and charges could increase local revenue by a maximum of 20 percent over the next 10 years, or a total incremental increase of about $25 billion.

Local government bonded debt might be expected to supply about $63 billion to finance at most only 23 percent of the $262 billion revenue gap.

Finally, TEMPO reports that since state revenue needs are not growing as rapidly as local revenue needs, state aid to local governments might be increased by 50 percent in the 10-year period ahead. This would provide $49 billion, or 19 percent of the $262 billion revenue gap facing local governments.

Summary of Funding Sources (in billions)

10-year local government revenue gap	$262
Increases in local nontax charges	$25
Increases in net local debt	63
Increases in state aid	49
Deficit remaining	$125

The federal government has the greatest potential for closing the localities' residual $125 billion revenue gap efficiently, fairly, and effectively. It can do so without increasing federal tax rates. In fact, since this amount would be equal to only 40 percent of the uncommitted cumulative increase in federal tax revenues estimated for this period, the balance would be available for expanding defense spending, raising the levels of existing grant-in-aid programs, rebating funds to the states, or even cutting federal tax rates. The TEMPO study points out that this is because under present federal tax rates we can expect 20 cents in federal tax revenues for each one dollar increase in the Gross National Product. In turn, this means that if GNP grows by 4 percent per year, federal tax revenues will be $32 billion greater in 1970 than in 1965, $62 billion greater in 1974, and $72 billion greater in 1975. Cumulatively, during the next 10 years, the increase would be $365 billion.

Of this sum, it is probable on the basis of trends in present federal grants-in-aid programs, that $60 billion is presently committed to states and cities—normal growth of presently programmed intergovernmental aid included above in the estimates of local government revenues to be available in the 10 years ahead.

The $125 billion of federal aid to meet the local revenue gap could start out the first year at $1 billion, increasing each successive year until in the tenth year the federal grant would be $26 billion.

Winterfest Scored Another Success—Plans Under Way for Third Festival Later in 1968

Boston's second Winterfest drew 300,000 men, women, and children to its exhibitions and 57 different programs carried out mainly at the War Memorial Auditorium.

From the standpoint of attendance attraction and presentation excellence it was a success from opening to close.

A large percentage of those attending were children enjoying their midwinter school vacation breaks.

Both Mayor John F. Collins and Cultural Foundation Committee General Chairman Eli Goldston were pleased and solidly convinced that such a civic-cultural festival is destined to become an annual important feature on the Boston scene.

Next year the War Memorial Auditorium has been committed to one of the major conventions being attracted to the New Boston during the school vacation week in February and a change both in date and format is dictated.

"The 1968 festival, projected for May or June, will be outdoors as well as indoors," Mr. Goldston said. And it will again be in the dedication business.

Now that Winterfest has become a household word in Boston, a new one is going to be coined — for the next large civic-cultural festival.

There will be no Winterfest next year, explains Eli Goldston, who has been general chairman of the two Winterfests in Boston.

The first Winterfest was to dedicate the War Memorial Auditorium at the Prudential Center in February, 1966. The second — also centered at the auditorium — finished recently on February 26. It attracted thousands of children on school vacation as well as a great many adults.

1968 Dedication Year

Boston's Government Center complex — including the new City Hall — will be ready. Some of the words being tossed about as names are Cityfest and Munifest (implying municipal, munificent).

Mr. Goldston said he is glad to see Boston getting away from the usual big-city dedications at which "the principal feature is high-priced tickets for the elite."

At this year's Winterfest, $10,000 worth of tickets were turned over without charge to Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD) for free distribution to culturally deprived children.

All the second balcony seats at Symphony Hall for the Boston Symphony Orchestra Winterfest performance were included in this giveaway. The night of the performance was very stormy. Although attendance fell off in other sections of the hall, Mr. Goldston noted, "there wasn't a single vacant seat in the second balcony."

Mr. Goldston also pointed out that most requests for tickets through ABCD were for the karate competition and the ballet. His curiosity piqued by such overwhelming interest in ballet (even more than in the New Orleans jazz concert), Mr. Goldston learned about Elma Lewis and her ballet school, which many Negro youngsters attend.

"This indicates that the capacity of impoverished areas to absorb something worthwhile is often underestimated," Mr. Goldston emphasized.

As the result of lessons learned last year, the specially built theaters had more seating and better soundproofing. Fifty-seven different events took place in three of the theaters while films were projected in the fourth.

Analyzing this year's fest, Mr. Goldston's report to Mayor Collins concludes:

The organization—also much better—still has a long way to go as evidenced at the dance program.

The financial picture was better. Winterfest broke even this year. It lost $300,000 last year.

About 1,200-1,500 unpaid workers volunteered for such aspects as manning the theaters and soliciting funds. There were 900 women volunteers who manned booths and watched children.

But the War Memorial Auditorium has already been signed up for an important convention during next winter's school vacation. And when a city is trying to break into the convention cycle, Mr. Goldston said, it doesn't turn down an important one.

City Hall Dedication

Mayor John F. Collins, commenting on this conflict, said, "Winterfest meant a lot to the city—to children and adults alike. It would be a shame to let it drop.

"I feel this would be an appropriate way," the Mayor continued, "to dedicate the new City Hall. This is the first municipal building designed through an international competition, and it should be dedicated in a special way."

At the close of Winterfest, the Mayor asked Mr. Goldston and the Cultural Foundation of Boston to begin planning a dedication festival.

City Hall chambers, Mr. Goldston feels, will be adaptable to avant-garde theater. The Winterfest mottoes of "something for everyone" and "from scuba divers to opera divas" will still apply.

Big Parade Planned

"Acoustical experts now are studying the possibilities," Mr. Goldston added, for indoor and outdoor events. And there will definitely be a parade—the largest and longest Boston has ever had.

Mr. Goldston tends to temper his enthusiastic description of the festival with concern for the city and its problems.

He points out that Boston subsidizes Winterfest. Suburban towns do not. To compensate, he would like to see our city children charged just 25 cents and suburban children a dollar for events that cost everyone 50 cents.

"The city has the problems," Mr. Goldston protested, "but others have the money."

"The awful part about suburbia," he continued, "is the feeling of falling back from the city."

Mayor Collins said the '68 Festival would be a combination of the visual and performing arts and would probably be week-long.

He said that although the new City Hall, now abuilding, was three months behind schedule the dedication and "Fest" possibly would be held in May.

Winterfest has been such a "great success" he said, that the city has no intention of dropping it.

Winterfest, '67, came to a close Sunday night, February 26, not with a whimper, but with a song.

Thousands sat in rapt attention in the main auditorium as veteran performer Martyn Green and a large cast offered a "Gilbert and Sullivan Showcase."

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, January 30, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Merciful and eternal God whose law is truth, and whose statutes stand forever we beseech Thee to grant us fervently to desire, wisely to comprehend, and obediently to fulfill all our obligations in a manner pleasing to Thee. Laying aside partisan division may we be tall enough to see above the walls of our own prideful opinions the good of the largest number in all our deliberations and decisions.

May Thy strength sustain us; Thy grace preserve us; Thy wisdom instruct us; Thy might protect us; Thy hand guide us this day and evermore.

The people of Boston share the common sorrow of this nation in the tragic deaths of our ambassadors to outer space, astronauts Grissom, White, and Chaffee. Our prayers and our genuine sympathy we offer to the bereaved families.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

REGULATION OF SALE OF HARMFUL DRUGS

Coun. LANGONE offered the following:

Whereas, In the past three years there has been a widespread use by teen-age residents of Boston of narcotics, so-called pep pills, airplane glue, L.S.D., and other harmful substances which cause severe injury and sometimes even death to the youth of our city; be it

Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the Boston City Council convene a conference on this matter to include the police, public health, probation, school, public welfare, and all other agencies which deal with the regulation of the sale of these harmful drugs and other materials, including enforcement agencies and legislative leaders, and private firms which deal with this problem.

In connection with the foregoing resolution, Councillor Foley moved that the resolution be amended by striking therefrom the preamble and inserting the following:

Whereas, The Boston City Council is concerned with the reported use by teen-agers and children in Boston of various stimulants and depressants, upon a scale not presently clear.

The amendment was carried, and the resolution as amended was adopted.

REQUEST FOR $5,000,000 FOR PURCHASE OF REPLACEMENT AND ADDITIONAL EQUIPMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 30, 1967.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

At my direction the Supervisor of Budgets has made a survey of the various departments of the city to determine if the equipment presently available was adequate to meet the needs of the departments in fulfilling the services expected by our citizens.

It has been my feeling for some time that even though we have carried forward a policy of annual replacement of equipment in the operating budget of the city, that the tools to render the necessary services were being increasingly strained by the demands for new and better services.

I am enclosing herewith a communication from the Supervisor of Budgets which indicates the need for $5 million for the purchase of replacement and additional equipment.

You will note that the proceeds of this proposed loan authorization will be expended mainly for police, fire, public works, park, and hospital requirements.

The Police Department, in addition to technical equipment necessary to a modern law enforcement agency, has requested eighty-nine pieces of rolling stock and a police boat. The Fire Department has requested funds for a special telescopic ladder truck, plus thirteen pumping engines and two ladder trucks in addition to the two presently on order, plus automotive and fire fighting equipment and a new fire boat to replace one of the existing boats constructed in 1942. The Public Works Department as part of its new equipment intends to purchase seventeen street sweepers, while only retiring ten. These will be used in the outlying sections of the city to augment the sweepers presently available.

The hospital equipment desired, contains in addition to new ambulances, modern X-ray and medical equipment, which will enable our Health and Hospitals Department to continue as one of the recognized medical centers in the country.

I feel that the proposed requests are not only desirable but necessary and I therefore respectfully request the adoption of the accompanying loan order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,
January 30, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

In late 1960 you requested of the City Council authority to borrow $3 million for the purchase of equipment for all city departments, which was subsequently authorized in March of 1961.

Under your direction, a policy of annually replacing obsolete equipment necessary to provide the services required of the various departments has been carried on.

It has recently become apparent that, in addition to replacement, the need for additional and new type equipment is required to improve the effectiveness of the constant demand for more and better services.

At this time the major portion of the equipment obtained under the previous loan authorization has been in operation since 1962 and the increased cost of maintenance dictates that serious consideration be given to a major expenditure for not only new but additional equipment.

After careful study and consultation with the various department heads who had requested in the aggregate, more than $6 million, it is felt advisable to request your Honor to submit a loan order to the City Council for authorization to borrow $5 million for departmental equipment.

The departments and the equipment needed by each, with the exception of the recently reorganized Health and Hospitals Department is enclosed herewith. The medical equipment needed is so voluminous and varied that it was felt that the allocation in this department of $1,322,051 could best be explained by the hospital officials to your satisfaction, and the City Council, at a later date.

The statutory requirement for a down payment contained in the first paragraph of section 7 of chapter 44 of the General Laws will be met by revenue appropriations in the 1967 city budget.

Respectfully,

HENRY T. BRENNAN,
Supervisor of Budgets.

Government Center Seen Stimulus to Most Nearby Eating Spots

(The following survey reported in the "Lodging and Food Service News" shows the reaction of eating place business in vicinity of the new Government Center. Full extent of the impact cannot be measured until the Center is nearer completion):

While restaurateurs in the new Government Center area of Boston registered mixed emotions about the effect of the partially completed project on business, all agree that the full impact of the complex, to employ 20,000 people when finished, is yet to be felt.

The News polled a number of restaurants in the area to measure the initial impact of the flood of workers who have converged on the area, and have found restaurateur reaction to the new business—or lack of it—to be mixed.

Some restaurants report tremendous increases in business. Among them is Dini's Sea Grill, reporting a 10 percent jump in both luncheon and dinner volume. Owner Louis Dini told the News that his Government Center trade is more restricted to the executives, with the "general employees coming in once or twice during the week."

Another food service operation reporting a substantial rise in "white collar" business is Slagle's. Owner-operator Bill Slagle told the News, however, that he does not attribute his high volume directly to the Government Center trade. Rather, he feels that the real impact of the area is yet to come, when the complex is completed.

While these operations report large increases, some have fared less well, but still report increases in sales volume.

Joseph Scali, director of food and beverages at the Parker House Hotel, affirmed a slight increase in luncheon business of 2-3 percent directly attributable to the employees, from the now-renovated Scollay square. His increase is from those workers "who need fast service at low prices."

Richard Greaves, a manager at the Union Oyster House, reports the same small increase in luncheon volume—2 or 3 percent—but none in dinner sales totals. He reports increases from parties and small groups coming from the project.

Volume Down

But Government Center has not meant better business for all. Restaurant and Waldorf Associates reports that the move of federal and state offices from their old locations has caused a noticeable decline in volume in certain stores. Carl Jensen, cafeteria division manager for the company, reported to the News that business is down at the 2 Beacon Street and 181 Tremont Street operations.

Waldorf has one operation close to the Government Center, St. Clair's Coffee Shop at 308 Washington street. Business at that location is up; but Mr. Jensen said that the rise there is so slight that it is hardly noticeable, and cannot be directly credited to the complex's impact.

Birth Defects Report

An impressive and well-attended international medical symposium, advance in birth defect research, heightening of patient treatment and some new faces marked the 1966 year at the March of Dimes Research and Educational Center at Boston City Hospital.

Research scientists and physicians from across the country, from Canada and from five European nations, participated in a National Foundation-sponsored symposium in April concerning the effects of diabetes on pregnancy and the newborn. Discussion centered about new research in the area and defining the attack on so-far unresolved related problems.

The teaching of the medical and social aspects of birth defect research finds its best—indeed, prime—home at a March of Dimes center for it is here that the congenitally malformed child is referred and where the wealth of knowledge thus gained from case histories may be relayed to staff, house officers, students, and nurses. The City Hospital installation caters to all in the Greater Boston area but research done at the Center in the past year has led to radio and television appearances as far west as Michigan by Center staff. Furthermore, research carried on at this March of Dimes Center yielded advances great enough in one area to be included in the Journal of the American Medical Association ("Levels of Penicillin in Serum of Newborn Infants") and another concerning placental transfusions is being readied for publication.

Training fellowships for young physicians are a regular part of the allocation from the National Foundation to the Center and this year was no exception. The Center draws from medical talent from both near and very, very far. Recently, a young physician from Hawaii returned to her native state after having been on the Center staff under such a research fellowship. Dr. A. B. Yee's place was taken by Dr. Athanassias Tsantouris of Athens, also a research fellow in the Newborn Nurseries. Soon to leave the Center after a distinguished stay at the Newborn Nurseries is Dr. Alistair Philip of Edinburgh, Scotland. Other young physicians have come from England, Japan and Johannesburg, South Africa. There can be little doubt of the heightened influence of the Birth Defects Center as these Doctors return to their native countries. In turn, good will is extended internationally to the March of Dimes and its all-important work in the prevention and treatment of birth defects.

John J. Sheehan

A concelebrated Requiem Mass for John J. Sheehan, of 17 Cass street, West Roxbury and Marshfield, longtime Boston police officer, was offered on March 21, at St. Theresa's Church, West Roxbury.

Mr. Sheehan died on March 18 at the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital after a long illness. He was 71.

A patrolman for 29 years, he worked in Division 4 and in the Accident Receiving Ward of Boston City Hospital. He retired in 1955.

He was a lifelong resident of Boston and a former member of the Pere Marquette Council, Knights of Columbus, and of the Boston Police Relief Association.

Mr. Sheehan leaves his wife, Mary Agnes (Hooley); four sons, Walter E., Paul F., and David R. K., all of West Roxbury, and John J., Jr., of Holbrook; a daughter, Mrs. Mary M. McManus of Canton; a brother, Daniel F., of Dorchester; five sisters, Mrs. Nora Fahey, Mrs. Charlotte Barthel, and Mrs. Margaret Lawles, all of South Boston, Mrs. Florence McDonough of Dorchester, and Mrs. Mary Mooney of Mattapan.

UCS and City Plan Close Cooperation

With three planning divisions in operation north and south of Boston, UCS is now preparing to bring regionalized health and social welfare planning to a fourth area—the City of Boston.

The first step toward this goal was taken recently when the UCS Executive Board voted to rename the Special Programs Department the Boston Planning Department.

The newly named department will have responsibility for health and social welfare planning within the central city. A primary task will be the relation of UCS's technical resources and its agencies' service resources to the city's problems.

"We really needed to have within UCS a structure that could deal with planning for the City of Boston as contrasted to the metropolitan area," Campbell G. Murphy, director of the Boston Planning Department, stated.

"The city is a nerve center and a repository for problems," he went on. "Making the best use of UCS's resources in this critical area is the big challenge.

The decision to designate the Special Programs Department as the UCS department concerned with problems centering in the inner city stemmed from a study done by the District and Neighborhood Services Committee.

In their report to the UCS Executive Board, the Committee cited the need for improved communication and coordination between the public and private agencies engaged in attacks on Boston's problems.

The Boston Planning Department will seek to fill this need by serving as a link between major organizations such as the Boston Redevelopment Authority, Action for Boston Community Development, the Health and Hospitals Department, and multi-service centers.

It is also anticipated that the department will be involved in planning for Boston's participation in the federally sponsored Demonstration Cities Program.

Details of the department's specific responsibilities in core city planning will be worked out by the Boston Planning Department Committee. The Committee has a membership of 16, representing both Boston and outlying communities.

Chairman of the Committee is Dr. Richard P. Stetson. Committee members include the following: Mrs. Erna Ballantine, Dr. James M. Baty, Louis Brothers, Daniel I. Cronin, Miss Velia DiCesare, Donald DeHart, Mrs. Richard A. Ehrlich, Mrs. Emil Hartl, Joseph Lund, P. K. McElroy, Rev. Eugene McNamara, Mrs. Reginald Robinson, Dr. Benjamin Rosenberg, Sherman Sass, and Dr. Leon J. Taubenhaus.

Dr. Stetson, Mrs. Ballantine, Mr. Sass, and Mrs. Ehrlich were also members of the Special Programs Department Committee.

Executives

Interesting to note at this point is that "executive" restaurants polled report major increases, while restaurants featuring fast foods service to general office help and blue collar workers report either little increase or none at all.

But this latter group, most of whom are allowed 30 minutes to 45 minutes for lunch, tend to take advantage of the in-plant feeding operations at both the federal and state buildings.

Glen I. Eubanks, manager of the Pickett Food Service cafeteria in the federal building, confirmed this and told the News that most of that building's 4,000 workers take advantage of his operation at least once during the day, if only for coffee breaks. The 650-capacity restaurant, he pointed out, serves lunch for two hours. "But at the same time," he went on to say, "it's impossible to serve that many people for lunch. There's bound to be some overflow to other restaurants in the area."

All restaurateurs polled seem to be of the same opinion—that it is still too early to tell what the Government Center project will mean to area business.

Optimistic

But while all are cautious, the mood of these men is optimistic. Mr. Dini sees business for restaurateurs increasing at a rate of about 10 percent every three years.

"The Government Center project will bring in many people from the suburbs who must conduct some sort of business at one of the buildings there," he pointed out, "in addition to the employees working in the center itself."

Mr. Slagle is in agreement with this position, and sees added business yet to come from tradesmen brought to the area through the egis of the complex.

At this early date, then, impact from the area is beginning to be felt both positive and negative. But much more business is seen as coming, indirectly rather than directly, from the new area construction.

Early Glass Exhibit

Over 700 pieces of rare early American glass and related books and documents have been lent by member museums and private individuals in the National Early American Glass Club for Boston's Central Library exhibit, "Facets of American Glass with Ancient and European Comparisons." According to Dorothy-Lee Jones, of Wellesley Hills, president of the national organization of 2,000 men and women members, the display shows the evolution in glassmaking from the days of ancient Egypt to the present.

The main emphasis of the display is on American glass pieces, which reflect the early growth of the United States. Ancient and European examples demonstrate how techniques and designs have been reinterpreted by Americans. The exhibit will continue through April 9 and is free of charge.

Several famous examples signed by Louis Vaupel, from the New England Glass Company of East Cambridge, c. 1865, have been lent, along with several other delicate pieces, by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Other superb pieces from the glass collections of the Bennington Museum in Vermont and the Corning Glass Museum in New York are in the exhibit. American glassware from the Wadsworth Athenaeum, Hartford, Connecticut; the Sandwich Historical Society, Sandwich, Massachusetts; Ford Museum, Dearborn, Michigan; Yale University Art Gallery, New Haven, Connecticut; and the Portland Historical Society, in Maine, may be seen.

Among the rare types of glass are several pieces of Eastern lacy pressed glass, c. 1835-45; among the Amberina pieces, an extremely rare Russian patterned lemonade pitcher. Included are some from the English Cameo School of the Art glass period, an early 19th century Irish Compote, a Pittsburgh celery glass of the later 19th century and at least five pieces of blue opaque in the Chrysanthemum Sprig from Wheeling, West Virginia, c. 1898.

There are choice examples of early blown glass, engraved and cut glass, iridescent glass, Ancient and Continental glass, early flasks, bottles, lamps, candlesticks, and paperweights.

Air Express Way Up

Air Express handled record shipments in Boston during 1966.

Figures released by Emil Seerup, vice-president, Air Express Division of REA Express, show Boston area shipments amounted to 334,155 amounting to $1,513,779.

Over-all figures for the year were 9,495,593 shipments amounting to $87,812,276. Revenue was up 10 percent over 1965.

Air Express, a partnership between REA Express, with its fleet of 13,500 green trucks, and all scheduled U. S. airlines has a 48-man round-the-clock staff at Logan Airport.

The Boston operation is managed by Leonard P. McArron of Lynn. Shipment from Boston, all on 24-hour delivery, include electronics (largest single category), radioactive isotopes, automotive supplies and specialties, foam rubber goods, canceled checks, lobsters, laboratory rats and mice, salesmen's samples, pawntickets, and newspaper plates.

Each city has its own characteristic mix of cargo. Washington, D. C., for instance, ships money and news releases. Detroit ships auto parts and New Orleans dispatches frozen seafood and special French dishes for banquets in other cities.

Research Bureau Believes State Police Should Patrol New Inner Belt; Cites Cost of MDC

(The following article is contained in the March 13 issue of "Bureau Brief," a publication of the Boston Municipal Research Bureau):

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works soon will decide what police agency will patrol the Inner Belt. Both the Metropolitan District Police and the State Police are vying for the role.

Boston, as a member of the Metropolitan Parks District and as one community through which the Inner Belt will run, has a stake in that decision.

Put very simply, Boston and 35 other Metropolitan Parks District communities should not be forced to pay increased assessments as a result of MDC patrol of the Inner Belt when the alternative is nothing with State Police patrol.

Moreover, there is no reason to suppose that MDC patrol would be superior. In fact, substantial evidence to the contrary could be gathered.

The fact that Boston's assessment increase could be as little as $20,000 or less than 1½ cents on the tax rate does not alter the basic proposition that there does not have to be any increase.

MDC Formula

Thirty-nine percent of the maintenance expense of the Metropolitan Parks District is assessed upon member communities, one third in proportion to their populations (last State or Federal census) and two thirds in proportion to their equalized valuations. Sixty percent is paid from the Highway Fund and 1 percent from the State's General Fund.

Using the 1965 State census and the 1963 equalized valuations now in effect, Boston's share of the assessable maintenance expense comes to 32.6 percent. Even if the most up-to-date valuations could be used, Boston's share would still be 23 percent.

Boston's expense for Parks District maintenance is now about $1.5 million. With its multitude of financial problems the city should not have any needless additional burden imposed, no matter how small.

Cost of MDC Patrol

As a result of 1958 legislation the MDC patrols the Fitzgerald Expressway and the Suffolk County portions of the Southeast and Northeast expressways.

Based on current staffing of these expressways, it is estimated that the MDC will need 24 additional patrolmen and one supervisory person plus equipment to police the Inner Belt. To say that no additional MDC personnel would be needed would imply current overstaffing.

Minimum cost of new MDC manpower would be $150,000, assuming patrolmen started at the present minimum base salary. Only 39 percent or $58,500 would be assessed upon member MDC communities. Boston's share would be close to $20,000. Although overtime costs are possible, none are estimated.

Once patrolmen reached maximum salary, however, Boston's share would rise to about $24,000. As salary increases were given, Boston's costs would rise proportionately.

Other Factors

The Inner Belt, or Interstate 695 as it is officially known, soon to be constructed, covers seven miles through Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, and Somerville. It is not a local roadway nor a metropolitan parkway. It will be an integral part of the national system of interstate and defense highways.

The MDC would need legislation authorizing it to patrol the Inner Belt if the State DPW chose it. The injudicious precedent of the 1958 legislation should not be used as a guide for similar legislation for the Inner Belt.

As the MDC put it in 1966, the MDC Police operate in "specialized area of responsibility far removed from the State Police line of duty." Since policing of the Inner Belt and other state highways legally is in the line of duty of the State Police, it would follow that the MDC Police should not have Inner Belt patrol responsibility.

Any desire to develop the MDC Police into a broader metropolitan police agency is a separate matter that should be discussed apart from the question of Inner Belt patrol.

Finally, without debating the professional superiority of either police agency, economy, together with other factors of tradition and logic would make State Police patrol Boston's choice.

New Raymond's O.K.

Construction of a new Raymond's Department Store and multi-level garage was assured on March 20 with the signing of a land disposition agreement between the Boston Redevelopment Authority and development officials.

The agreement was executed between Development Director Edward J. Logue and officials of Raymond's Redevelopment Associates.

The land to be sold to the developers is on the block presently bounded by Washington and Franklin streets which houses the old Raymond's Department Store.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has started demolition work on the site to make way for a new seven-story structure.

The first two floors of the structure and the basement will be leased to Raymond's, Inc., headed by President Robert C. Schaye. The department store space will total some 150,000 square feet of retail space. Also listed as a retail tenant will be Lauriat's bookstore.

The developer is Raymond's Redevelopment Associates, whose principals include Murray W. Finard, Herbert S. Hoffman, Theodor H. Kaufman, and Marvin A. Meyers.

Meyers Brothers Parking Systems will lease the five levels of parking area for 850 cars which will form the top part of the new structure designed by Samuel Glaser Associates.

Estimated cost of the project, which will get under way in mid-summer of this year, is $8 million. Construction will be completed in two years. The structure will contain off-street trucking and loading areas in the basement area.

The existing land was taken by eminent domain by the BRA, as part of an early land acquisition program under proposed Central Business District renewal project program. Raymond's is temporarily doing business in the old White department store at Bedford and Washington streets.

Christian Science To Postpone Razing Plan

The Christian Science board of directors announced on March 20, the church will delay demolition of Back Bay buildings until June, 1968, on behalf of the Opera Company of Boston, the Boston Ballet Company, and the Post Office.

Church officials announced previously they planned to begin demolition in October of the Back Bay Theater and surrounding buildings on Massachusetts avenue, between Burbank and Norway streets.

"It has become apparent," the directors said, "that the Opera Company of Boston and the Boston Ballet Company urgently require continued use of the theater facilities for another season.

"We also realize that continuation of the adjacent Post Office in its present location for another year would mean a great deal to merchants and residents in the community. Therefore, after making a careful reappraisal to find alternate steps for carrying out the church's development program in that area, we are pleased to announce that razing of the theater and Post Office will be postponed from October, 1967, to June, 1968," the Church officials said.

The immediate reason for the earlier plans to raze the property along Massachusetts avenue was the lack of parking in the Back Bay area. With the December, 1967, timetable for construction of the denominations high-rise Church Center on Huntington avenue much parking space near the Prudential Center will be taken out of use.

Mayor Calls Special Meeting of City Council to Meet Debt Limit Deadline

For the first time in his eight years as the city's administrative head, Mayor John F. Collins called a special meeting of the City Council on March 30 to consider freeing $8.6 million for essential city projects.

The call was made necessary by an April 1 deadline for the city to certify its debt limit.

The city has used all but $5.5 million of its $78 million debt limit.

The Mayor asked the councillors to withdraw a $5.7 million loan order passed in 1954. This would free the city to carry out the $8.6 million of street and school repairs and sewer construction.

The Mayor warned that these city repairs would be reduced, or the tax rate increased about $4, if the loan authorization is not wiped out.

If the Council does not withdraw the loan order, the money can be used only for the construction of a city chronic disease hospital on Long Island — a plan that has been abandoned.

The Mayor has been seeking Council approval since January 23. Two weeks ago he withdrew the $8.6 million of loans from the Council, according to his aids, to shock the lawmakers into realizing the importance of their inaction.

The loans are: $3 million for remodeling and repairs to schools; $3 million for street construction and resurfacing; $1.9 million for construction of sewers and storm drains; and $590,000 for remodeling and repairing four police stations.

The Mayor at the same time withdrew three appropriation orders totaling $288,000 that were the down payments for these projects.

When the loan rescission was presented to the Council again on Monday, Councillors Katherine Craven, William J. Foley, Jr., Peter F. Hines, and Gabriel F. Piemonte were able to defeat the Mayor's proposal by a parliamentary device, refusing to suspend the Council's rules.

Mayor Collins needs six of the nine Council votes to have the loan order withdrawn.

The Mayor, at a press conference Tuesday, said the Council's action forced him to convene a special meeting "because this is a matter of great significance."

"I can't speculate on what the Council's motives were," the Mayor declared, "but extraordinary things happen in election years."

Councillor Hines, who has announced he is a candidate for mayor, says he wants the $5.7 million used for construction of a new hospital.

The Mayor does not plan to make any personal pleas to the councillors.

The Mayor's fiscal advisor, Dr. Roy Hamilton, said the city has two alternatives if the money remains frozen. "We can reduce alterations and repairs to schools and streets or we'll have to raise the tax rate."

The Council meets Thursday to vote on an application to the federal government to pay half of a $1.2 million urban beautification program.

They forgot to take the program up Monday and application must be submitted by April 1.

Exodus Federal Grant

The continued busing of Negro children to predominantly white schools in Boston through Operation Exodus was assured recently by an award of $69,994 from the U. S. Office of Education.

The grant under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act will finance the busing of 800 children to various schools. It will also be used to help finance a Harvard School of Education study of the effects of busing on the youngsters.

Mrs. Ellen Jackson, Exodus chairman, said she was very happy over the news, and that the award "guarantees we will be able to finish out the year." She said she also felt it would help their appeal to the Ford Foundation for funds.

Funds have been a constant difficulty with the program since its inception. Earlier the group fell behind in payments to the bus contractor and had to be rescued by an all-out community drive to keep the program going.

At one point there was some doubt expressed that the federal government would lend its support to this particular type of demonstration project. But today's action dispelled this fear.

United Community Services in Strong Appeal for Volunteer Workers in Many Fields

The Volunteer Bureau of United Community Services is marking its 40th anniversary by launching an intensive campaign to recruit Greater Boston citizens in volunteer service to more than 400 health and welfare agencies and to help improve conditions in disadvantaged neighborhoods.

The Volunteer Bureau estimates that if 1,000 persons were enlisted in volunteer service each working day of the next six months, the need for volunteers would still not be met.

The Bureau, which shares in the Massachusetts Bay United Fund, over the last 40 years has channeled thousands of volunteers to hospitals, neighborhood houses, day nurseries, youth groups, and public welfare programs in the metropolitan area.

More than 3,000 volunteers have served as tutors and study aides to help 11,000 school children, dropouts, and undereducated adults. Presently more than 84 tutorial programs alone need some 3,000 volunteer tutors this year.

It was through the Volunteer Bureau and 106 cooperating agencies that more than 8,000 high school and college youth served in the "Operation Kindness" volunteer project last summer alone.

The Volunteer Bureau, working through a Radcliffe College Alumnae committee, has been surveying some 400 civic, cultural, health, and welfare organizations for services volunteers can perform. All of these agencies are nonprofit and operate on a limited budget. Because of the increasing population, the demand for their services is accelerating, and volunteers are needed to help in many activities for which there is limited staff.

"Men and women of any age can help enrich the lives of the less fortunate," according to Robert B. McCreech, director of the Volunteer Bureau.

"New programs in the disadvantaged areas of Boston, Cambridge, and Somerville need the help of every concerned citizen, and downtown hospitals have a special need for volunteers," McCreech emphasized.

Volunteers are needed to help the sick, aged, and handicapped; the preschool child and the lonely aged; to bring music, art, and drama to neighborhood youth centers; to assist in leadership training; or to teach crafts, hobbies, and simple homemaking skill.

Most volunteers give a part of one day a week or two evening hours once a week, according to the Volunteer Bureau. Some serve on Saturday or Sunday.

"We are one organization that believes volunteering is an ingredient essential to American democracy," McCreech said.

The Jamaica Plain Neighborhood House at 276 Amory street has used volunteers for several years. Its director, William F. Flaherty, said: "I have the feeling that this year there is a growing movement of people taking stock to see what they can do to help."

McCreech urges those who are "taking stock" to call the Volunteer Bureau at 742-2000 and discuss the opportunities.

Labor Contracts OK'd

Mayor Collins announced on March 21 that collective bargaining contracts have been approved for 300 Suffolk County employees.

The agreement gives pay raises to guards at the Deer Island House of Correction, the Charles Street Jail, and to clerical assistants in the district courts.

The increases, to be paid in two stages, range from $6.50 a week for senior clerks to $13.50 a week for guards, and are expected to cost the city $100,000 a year.

Left without contracts are 1,500 other Suffolk County employees.

A vital feature of the contracts is a reduction—from 16 to six years—in the time required to reach maximum salary.

Allan W. Drachman, the city's chief labor negotiator, said the contract is part of an effort to "make us competitive with our biggest competitor, state government."

The contract for the 200 guards was negotiated with the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO. The clerical assistants contract was negotiated with an affiliate of the Building Services Employees International Union, AFL-CIO.

Boston Valuations Up $17.5 Million

Boston's total assessed tax valuation was bolstered by $17.5 million in the city's 1966 building boom. Chief Assessor Francis X. Cuddy told the City Council on March 14.

Testifying at a hearing of the Committee on Appropriations and Finance on his department budget for 1967, Chief Assessor Cuddy said the total valuation of the city stood at $1,507,495,500 as of last January 1.

"The $17.5 million gain registered last year will bring an additional $1.8 million into the city's treasury in tax revenue," he said.

As for 1967, Chief Assessor Cuddy predicted another healthy gain in valuation in the neighborhood of "several millions of dollars."

Boston School Teachers Granted Minimum Wage Boosts to $6,000

Boston public school teachers were unanimously awarded a $500 minimum salary increase to bring their minimum salary income to the $6,000 level by the Boston School Committee, March 27.

The increase places Boston teachers in the highest paid starting bracket of any in the state and in New England.

Effective in September, the schedule has four classifications governing teachers with a bachelor's degree, a master's, a master's plus 30 credits and a doctorate.

The vote followed lengthy negotiations.

The package agreement will cost the city $1.2 million for the calendar year or nearly $4 million for a full year. The increases represent a $2.80 hike in the Boston tax rate.

The salary raises are included in a total school budget of $56.8 million, up $8 million over last year.

The budget exceeds the statutory limit by $5.2 million, an amount that must be approved by the City Council.

Teachers holding master's degrees will earn $500 more a year than those with bachelor degrees. Holders of doctorates will be paid $11,500, or $1,000 above those holding master's degrees.

The new contracts also raise the salary for provisional teachers, who are awaiting permanent appointment, from $5,000 annually to $5,500. Substitute teachers will be paid $24 a day, an increase of $3.

Also, teachers in the city's 18 largest elementary schools will be granted duty-free lunch periods beginning in September.

The union also won paid time off for 10 teachers to recruit for the schools at colleges and universities.

NO GAS STATION

Turkish President Cemal Gursel beamed with pride as he roared away from Ankara's parliament building in the first auto ever made in Turkey, with a chauffeur at the wheel. A scant 100 yards later, Gursel's smile froze as the engine coughed and died. "We made this car with the Western part of our minds," he berated the chauffeur, "but with the Oriental part we forgot to put gasoline in it."

Monday, February 6, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present. The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Infinite and merciful God, may we begin and continue and end this new week of work with high hopes, placing our confidence in Thy divine and eternal certainties of Thy grace and Thy power. Make us ever conscious of Thy presence, giving us the wisdom and the power to meet worthily and courageously the stern duties and demands of this public office.

In the discouragement and the defeats, incapable in any walk of life, may we never lose heart nor hope, but go forward in our undeviating course following the lead of Thy spirit and that light that never fails. With the calm assurance that this city, in fact the whole universe is under the divine control of an omnipotent and omniscient ruler who has not abdicated His throne, and Whose purposes can never be defeated. Let us take up our work with sincerity, and with fervor we join in one glad expression of our faith that in God is our trust.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

BUDGET ALLOWANCES FOR CITY, COUNTY, AND INCOME DEPARTMENTS FOR 1967

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 6, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith the budget allowances for City, County, and Income Departments for the year 1967, which total in the aggregate $183,300,547.

The above figure represents an increase over 1966 appropriations of $16,991,394.50, or less than 10.22 percent. This increase compares favorably with the state budget submitted recently which indicates a 14.82 percent increase for fiscal 1967-68.

A further analysis of percentage increases on state and local levels produced the remarkable differences that while the state budget has increased 84.36 percent since 1959, the City of Boston budget has risen only 45.11 percent.

In the event Boston's expenditures had kept pace with state spending I would be presenting to you today a budget not of $183.3 million but a budget in excess of $232.8 million, or close to $50 million higher, which would increase the tax rate by approximately $35.

Original budget requests by Department Heads amounted to $190,124,368, which did not contain additional requests of over $6 million for equipment. Thus the final allowances recommended by me to your Honorable Body have been pared $6,823,821.

It has become apparent that increased services, to which the taxpayers of Boston are entitled, have placed an almost unbearable burden upon the existing equipment of the various city departments.

I therefore felt it imperative not only to carry out the normal replacement of worn and obsolete apparatus, but to implement the existing departmental equipment with additional and also new types of modern tools to more efficiently perform the functional services we need to move forward as a progressive city.

I have, therefore, presented to your Honorable Body, just one week ago, a request for authority to borrow five million dollars for this purpose.

There is no doubt in the minds of all of us that crime is our constant enemy, not only in our local community, but also on a national scale, although the crime rate did decrease slightly in Boston in 1966.

I have, therefore, taken steps to raise the living standards and working conditions of our law enforcement agency. I have further concurred in recommendations of our responsible police officials by allowing the full sum of money requested by them in their operating budget, plus all requests for equipment, totaling $418,540, which includes not only automotive and communication but also an additional police boat.

Beyond this I have further authorized the expenditure of $250,000 in the capital budget for a completely modern communication system which will permit a more expeditious and efficient evaluation of police activities.

I also am pleased to report to you that the modernization of Boston City Hospital is making excellent progress, and that once again appropriations for the Department of Health and Hospitals have been increased.

An increase of four and a half million dollars in the department's budget is being referred to you today, 50 percent of which is for salary increases and additional staffing for nurses and medical personnel.

Turning to other matters, once again we are confronted with ever increasing Welfare and Veterans' Services costs.

This budget contains additional funds in these two departments of $6,220,566.14. The total amount we are faced with in 1967 for these activities has reached the astronomical figure of more than $49 million.

It is anticipated that the state will recognize that the problems of our less fortunate citizens are no longer the prime responsibility of the local community but the concern of the Commonwealth as a whole, and that we can expect positive action by our Legislature this year to have the state assume this burden.

A further consideration by the state should be the assumption of the costs of our county government, which also should be accepted as a benefit to the Commonwealth as a whole and not confined to the local boundaries of our county framework.

The question of collective bargaining creates a delicate situation in requesting funds for the calendar year of an operating budget. This budget makes no allowance for any contractual agreements which have not been consummated to date, but I wish to express publicly that negotiations which subsequently will result in agreement will be funded through supplemental appropriations as deemed necessary.

Boston is faced with two serious financial problems which are presently before our courts.

The first concerns the withholding of state funds because of the decision by the Commissioner of Education, who deemed that the School Committee is not meeting the provisions of the so-called Racial Imbalance Law. It is my fervent hope that the members of the School Committee and the members of the State Board of Education will resolve this problem in the immediate future for the overall benefit of the community and the financial benefit of the city.

The second court case concerns the legal technicality as to what the true meaning of the Sales Tax Law is in respect to the valuation of Boston for distribution of Sales Tax Revenue. The resolution of this problem in favor of the city would be a financial gain which is sorely needed at this time.

There is no question that our tax rate will increase not only because of the legal problems which confront us but also due to the spiraling costs of government over and above this budget before you.

We have done remarkably well during the past seven years in living within our means. The year 1967 confronts us with many intangibles, some of which I have enumerated above, and others including MBTA assessment and school costs. I can say, however, that every effort will be made to hold the inevitable tax rate increase within reason without neglecting the services which I feel are not only needed but also are justifiably expected by the residents of the city.

I respectfully recommend to your Honorable Body adoption of the accompanying appropriation and tax orders.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,

February 6, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR:

I have prepared, under your direction and after consultation with the Director of Administrative Services, in accordance with the provisions of Section 3, of Chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 as amended, in segregated form, the annual budget for City, County and Income Departments, for submission, by you, to the City Council for the year 1967.

GENERAL STATEMENT

The allowances recommended herein reflect an increase over the total appropriations authorized in 1966 of $16,991,394.50. The recommendations in the city budget contain funds to implement the new departments of Public Facilities and the newly created Interdepartmental Community Conservation Committee which will bring about, for the first time, a concentrated code enforcement program for several of Boston's residential neighborhoods and also the new Eastern Regional Library which will provide greatly expanded library services to all of eastern Massachusetts.

Department requests for 1967 amounted to $190,124,368. After careful scrutinization of the individual accounts these recommendations have been reduced to $183,300,547 or a decrease of $6,823,821 below the original proposals of the Department Heads.

A summary of appropriations and allowances for City, County and Income Departments are indicated herewith:

	1966 APPROPRIATIONS	1967 REQUEST	1967 ALLOWANCES
CITY	$149,941,109 50	$170,953,604 00	$165,315,854 00
COUNTY	10,712,006 00	12,492,270 00	11,938,540 00
INCOME	5,656,037 00	6,678,494 00	6,046,153 00
GRAND TOTAL	$166,309,152 50	$190,124,368 00	$183,300,547 00

The allowances for Income Departments will be met from the revenues collected by these departments and will not have any effect on the 1967 tax rate.

Information pertinent to the 1967 budget is presented herewith:

CITY BUDGET

Personal Services: The 1967 allowance reflects a net increase over 1966 of $6,392,811.30. During 1966 two appropriations for salary increases for city employees were approved by you. The first appropriation of $1,738,152 affected the entire year of 1966 and is incorporated in the 1966 appropriations. The second appropriation in September of 1966 for $1,000,000 was for the last four months of the year. The latter raise resulted in this year's allowance increasing over $2.5 million for permanent employees. City Hospital and Health Department represents further increases of more than $2 million in 1967. These increases were caused by the creation, of new positions in the hospital facility of $110,000 not provided for in 1966, nurses' and doctors' raises in 1966 for which additional funds of $200,000 is required; staffing requirements in 1967 of $900,000; increments during 1967 of $110,000 and a second salary increase for nurses effective January 1, 1967 amounting to $686,000. The firefighters through collective bargaining reflect salary increases of $775,000 and a reorganization of the Building Department resulted in an increase in this department of $130,000, library requirements as a result of pay raises increased $200,000.

Overtime and Temporary help reflect increases due to collective bargaining contracts signed in late 1966, Police School Crossing Guards, $70,000; Police Overtime, $660,000 (Court Time); Fire Department, $133,000.

Contractual Services: This account shows a marked increase over 1966 of better than $2.8 million. Departments which reflect a substantial rise are the Health and Hospital Departments of $752,000 for plant improvements; the Public Works Department for a downtown contract for street cleaning of $400,000; street lighting and rubbish contracts show normal raises of over $200,000; the Boston Redevelopment Authority for surveys and planning, $400,000; the Auditorium which was carried as a special appropriation in 1966 now is segregated for an increase in this account of $268,000; Building Department for demolition of unsafe structures, $151,000; Real Property Department for repairs and maintenance of our public buildings increased $114,000; while our Police Department received $134,000 above the 1966 appropriation for repairs and maintenance of police buildings and miscellaneous contractual services. Other city departments reflected normal increases over previous years.

Supplies and Materials: An increase in this category of $518,000 is attributable to the Health and Hospital Departments of $448,000; the Fire Department for automotive and office supplies of $22,000; and the Public Library for miscellaneous books and periodicals of $30,000.

Current Charges and Obligations: This account is up $6.4 million due mainly to the ever-rising costs of Welfare and Veterans' Benefits Relief of over $6.2 million.

Structures and Improvements: The increase in this item of $420,500, shows in the Hospital Department, $275,000; the Park Department of $110,000; and the Public Works Department of $24,500.

Special Appropriations: A net increase in this account can be explained by an allowance to the newly formed Public Facilities Department of $520,000; and the Eastern Regional Library of $150,000.

COUNTY BUDGET

County Budgets show an increase in 1967 of $1,226,000. Personal Services are up almost $850,000 due, for the most part, to salary increases to Judges, Clerks of various courts, Probation Officers and Court Officers approved by the General Court during 1966 for which funds were not appropriated at the time.

Contractual Services: Appropriations to this category have increased by $370,000; the major repairs to the Court House elevators represents $209,000; while Superior Court, Civil Session, Clerk's Office, is up almost $100,000; for the expenditures to Masters and Auditors of $50,000, and for Jurors, of $50,000. The Superior Court, Criminal Session, reflects an increase which can be charged mainly against jurors, fees and experts employed in the presentation of criminal cases of $143,000.

The remaining categories of the County Budget remained fairly constant.

INCOME BUDGET

The over-all increase in this budget of $390,116; is shown in Personal Services for $206,650, resulting from salary increases; $62,517 in Contractual Services; for Data Processing and Repairs and Maintenance of buildings and structures of the Water Division. An increase in Current Charges and Obligations of $47,791 is reflected for the major portion of the increase in the Water Division of the Public Works Department of $34,464; and under Structures and Improvements an increase of $100,000 is the result of additional extensions and improvements to water mains.

CONCLUSION

The preceding paragraphs summarize, in general, a comparison of the recommended budget allowances, for 1967 with the actual appropriations for 1966.

Respectfully,
HENRY T. BRENNAN, Supervisor of Budgets.

SALE OF FORT HILL WHARF TO SHERATON BUILDING CORPORATION

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 6, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I write you once again about a certain city-owned parcel of land under the charge of the Commissioner of Public Works, to wit, Fort Hill Wharf, which lies on Atlantic avenue, between the estate at the corner of Northern avenue and the Sheraton Building Estate. For many years this wharf was the Boston terminal for the scows which took downtown Boston's refuse to Spectacle Island for disposal. Since the South Bay incinerator put an end to the Spectacle Island operation, this wharf has lain dormant.

In February, 1961, I transmitted to you a notification from the then Commissioner of Public Works that in his opinion this wharf was no longer required for public purposes. Enclosed herewith is a like notification from the present Commissioner of Public Works.

Recently, the Sheraton Building Corporation has again renewed its offer to purchase this wharf for $50,000.

Accordingly, I submit herewith, and again recommend adoption of, an order authorizing the sale of this wharf site to the Sheraton Building Corporation for $50,000 with a collateral agreement to assure early removal of the hazardous and unsightly wharf structure.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
January 26, 1967.

To the Honorable the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Boston.

As the officer having charge of the hereinafter described land, I hereby notify you that in my opinion, such land is no longer required for public purposes, to wit: the parcel of land on the southeasterly side of Atlantic avenue, Boston, containing twenty-two thousand five hundred and forty-eight (22,548) square feet, more or less, and bounded and described as follows: Northwest by the southeasterly sideline of Atlantic avenue, one hundred three and 93-100 (103.93) feet; northeasterly by land now or formerly of Alfred Hook, James J. Hook, and Edward Hook, one hundred seventy-two and 32-100 (172.32) feet; southeasterly by Boston Harbor on the harbor line shown on plan hereinafter mentioned, one hundred thirty and 23-100 (130.23) feet; and southwesterly by land now or formerly of the Sheraton Building Corporation, two hundred twenty-three and 98-100 (223.98) feet; being the parcel of land shown on the plan marked "City of Boston, Atlantic avenue, Boston Proper, May 29, 1914, F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department."

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Whereas, The Commissioner of Public Works, who is in charge of the hereinafter described land owned by the City of Boston, has notified the City Council that in his opinion such land is no longer required for public purposes; now therefore it is hereby Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be, and he hereby is, authorized in the name and behalf of the City of Boston to convey to Sheraton Building Corporation, a Massachusetts corporation with a usual place of business at 470 Atlantic avenue, Boston, by a deed in form satisfactory to the Corporation Counsel, all right, title, and interest of the City of Boston in and to the parcel of land on the southeasterly side of Atlantic avenue, Boston, containing twenty-two thousand five hundred and forty-eight (22,548) square feet, more or less, and bounded and described as follows: northwesterly by the southeasterly sideline of Atlantic avenue, one hundred three and 93-100 (103.93) feet; northeasterly by land now or formerly of Alfred Hook, James J. Hook, and Edward Hook, one hundred seventy-two and 32-100 (172.32) feet; southeasterly by Boston Harbor on the harbor line shown on plan hereinafter mentioned, one hundred thirty and 23-100 (130.23) feet; and southwesterly by land now or formerly of the Sheraton Building Corporation, two hundred twenty-three and 98-100 (223.98) feet, being the parcel of land shown on plan marked "City of Boston, Atlantic Avenue, Boston Proper, May 29, 1914, F. O.

Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," such conveyance to be for a minimum price of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and a separate agreement of Sheraton Building Corporation to demolish before January 1, 1968, all structures now on said land so far as such structures extend above the grade of Atlantic avenue.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

REVIEW OF PROGRESS UNDER THE WORKABLE PROGRAM

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 6, 1967.

Honorable Boston City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am pleased to transmit the report on the progress under the Workable Program for Community Improvement in the City of Boston.

The Workable Program is a requirement of the federal government by which a city endeavors to show that it is doing its full share in the effort to prevent the spread of blight.

I commend this document to you for your review and consideration. I believe that our city has made substantial progress in our efforts to rebuild and renew Boston so that it can become a better and finer place to live.

The material in the Workable Program is divided into seven areas. These include Codes and Ordinances, Comprehensive Planning, Neighborhood Analysis, Administrative Organization, Financing, Housing for Displaced Families, and Citizen Participation.

In all these areas Boston has achieved a record of which we can all be proud. As Mayor I wish to congratulate the many hundreds of men and women who have given so freely of their time and energies in the common cause of preserving and renewing our city. The details of our record of progress are set forth in the document itself. I urge your favorable consideration so that the Workable Program may be recertified for the coming year.

Sincerely,

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor of Boston.

The complete text of this program will be on file at the City Clerk's Office.

APPLICATION FOR GRANT ASSISTANCE FROM FEDERAL DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 6, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith a suggested resolution authorizing an application to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for grant assistance in the city's 1967 Urban Beautification activities.

Last year the Council adopted a resolution approving the long-range Urban Beautification Program as a guide for beautification and improvement of the city's public urban land over a proposed ten-year period. The Council further authorized the submission of a 1966 application and separately appropriated funds to cover the city share for 1966. The attached resolution covers the second annual application.

I am not now requesting any appropriation of funds for the city share of the 1967 program. Orders and a message covering this will be included in the annual Capital and Operating Budgets to be submitted on February 6, 1967.

The figures in the submitted resolution are maximums and estimates only, and do not in any way commit the Council to appropriate any funds, or prevent you from reducing any appropriation order to be submitted. The federal grant received will be based on the actual amount of work we undertake in 1967.

Much of the indicated local share is either non-city money, or has already been appropriated. The single biggest item to be included in the application is construction of the new Copley square according to the winning design from the national competition conducted last year. Most of the local share of this project is to be raised by donations from the community, which donations, together with the anticipated federal grant, will allow us to proceed with this long-hoped-for improvement.

It is essential that early action be taken on this resolution so that the application may be submitted as soon as possible. We have learned from experience to expect lengthy federal review; and also know that the first applications in have better priority for the limited funds Congress has made available. In addition, we have just been informed, late in December, of an added new regulation: that applications sent in over ninety days past the start of the year will not be accepted.

I recommend and urge, therefore, your prompt and favorable action on this resolution.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOSTON CITY COUNCIL AUTHORIZING APPLICATION FOR URBAN BEAUTIFICATION GRANTS.

Whereas, Title IX of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 amends Title VII of the Housing Act of 1961 and provides for the making of grants by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to states and local public bodies to assist them in the beautification and improvement of open-space and other public urban land where such assistance is needed for carrying out a local program which is important to the comprehensively planned development of the locality; and

Whereas, The City of Boston desires to beautify and improve open-space and other public urban land to facilitate their increased use and enjoyment; and

Whereas, Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the regulations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development effectuating that Title prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin in the use of all facilities and improvements provided by federal assistance; and

Whereas, The City of Boston is cognizant of the conditions that are imposed in the undertaking and carrying out of programs assisted under Title VII of the Housing Act of 1961, as amended, including those relating to labor standards and equal employment opportunity; and

Whereas, It is estimated that the cost of the activities proposed to be carried out in performance of beautification and improvement of open-space and other public land exceeds the usual expenditures of the City of Boston for comparable activities by $1,202,300; now therefore be it

Resolved, by the City Council of the City of Boston:

1. That an application be made to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a grant in an amount authorized by Title VII of the Housing Act of 1961, as amended, for urban beautification and improvement of open-space and other public urban land, which amount is presently estimated to be $601,150, and that the City of Boston will provide the balance of the cost.

2. That the Mayor is hereby authorized and directed to execute and to file such application with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, to provide additional information and to furnish such documents as may be required by said department.

3. The Commissioner of Parks and Recreation is hereby authorized to execute such contracts as are required by said department, and to act as the authorized representative of the City of Boston.

Such a plan of use will be the basis for subsequent determination by the government as to whether the property is available for the proposed use and disposal thereof is authorized by applicable statutes and regulations.

In the absence of such written notice, or in the event a public use proposal is not approved, the regulations pursuant to authority contained in the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, provide for offering the property for sale for its highest and best use.

That the City of Boston Law Department check into the legality of requiring the landlords of waterfront property to erect fences onto the wharves to exclude the general public because of the danger to the public safety of such an open pier.

In connection with the foregoing order, Councillor Foley asked that the question be divided:

Coun. FOLEY offered the following amendment:

RAPID TRANSIT DEBT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, February 9, 1967.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

This is in response to your order of January 30 concerning the inclusion in financial statements of the city's Rapid Transit debt in view of the existence of sinking funds sufficient to pay the full amount thereof.

In issuing the Rapid Transit Bonds, the city pledged its faith and credit. Consequently, the city's financial statements must continue to carry these bonds among its obligations. When the financial world analyzes the city's financial situation, however, it concerns itself with gross debt less sinking fund reserves, so that while the Rapid Transit Bonds must be carried as an outstanding obligation, I doubt exceedingly that this requisite bookkeeping entry has any adverse effect upon the rate of interest at which Boston borrows. Since the Rapid Transit Bonds are outside the debt limit, they are not included in computing the city's debt-incurring power.

Unlike the Traffic Tunnel Retirement Bonds of 1946, which contained a provision for call on or after twenty years from their dates, the currently outstanding Rapid Transit Bonds have no similar provision for accelerated payment. In the jargon of the financial world, these bonds are noncallable. In recognition of this fact, the bonds of the Boston Metropolitan District held in the sinking funds are payable in installments keyed to the maturity of the city's Rapid Transit Bonds, so that, with unimportant exceptions, the sinking fund assets become liquid only as the Rapid Transit Bonds respectively mature. Accelerated payment of the Rapid Transit Bonds is thus not possible.

Respectfully,
JAMES R. SULLIVAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

In connection with the foregoing communication, Councillor Hines offered the following motion:

Moved, That the response of the Corporation Counsel be remanded for study to the Boston Municipal Research Bureau and the Boston Finance Commission.

The motion was carried and copies of the communication were ordered to be sent as directed.

1967 CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

The following was received:

Fire Department,
Fire Prevention Division,
February 3, 1967.

The Boston City Council,
City Hall.

Gentlemen:

With reference to the 1967 Capital Improvement Program for the Fire Department for the construction of new fire stations, submitted herewith are suggested sites, entitled Enclosures 1 through 5:

1. Engine 9 and Ladder 2, East Boston (Ward 1).
2. Engine 13, Engine 24, and Ladder Company 23, Grove Hall (Ward 14), and Roxbury (Ward 12).
3. Engine 12 and Ladder 4, Roxbury (Ward 12).
4. Engine 39 and Ladder 18, South Boston (Ward 6).
5. Engine 7, Engine 26, and Ladder 17, in-town (Ward 3).

The identified sites contained in each enclosure, except No. 5, are proposed for your consideration and approval.

In view of the reasons expressed in Enclosure No. 5 under Underwriting Requirements, serious doubts are raised as to the suitability of the previously approved site. It is recognized that land, plan money and construction funds have been made available. It is requested that this relocation be held in abeyance pending further study and that the funds be redesignated for the relocation of Engine 33 and Ladder 15, already approved by this department for relocation near the corner of Ipswich street within the Fenway Urban Renewal Area.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM J. FITZGERALD, Fire Commissioner.

Enclosure No. 1

Suggested Site for Fire Station.

Area Involved: East Boston, Fire District 1.

Present Station: 52 Paris street, Ward 1.

Fire Companies: Engine Company 9 and Ladder Company 2.

Reasons for Relocation:

1. Present fire station erected in 1859, according to records.
2. General change in the profile of the area and character of hazards. The population remains a mixed heterogeneous group. There is a slight lessening in density.
3. Logan International Airport, although a Massachusetts Port Authority property presents a target hazard with all its ramifications.
4. The station is antiquated, difficult to heat, and too expensive to modernize and maintain.
5. The heavy motor vehicle traffic as a result of the vehicular tunnels.

Suggested Relocation Area: 178 Border street at Central square, Block 37, Section 2.

Description of Suggested Area: Vacant land in part with small one-story dilapidated building adjoining a large shopping plaza. Level land adjacent to the waterfront.

Adequacy of Suggested Area: The size of the area is slightly smaller than considered sufficient for the purpose, however, the abutter, the owners of the shopping area might be disposed to relinquish a part of the excessive parking area to bring the size of the plot up to the needed area.

Underwriting Requirements:

1. The physical and environmental influences and population density would not be affected by the relocation of this station.
2. No significant change would be engendered in response time or in distance to be traveled as a result of the location.
3. Area hazards are in part mercantile, marine industrial, shipping, air and sea and closely built residential.
4. The relocation would entail no lessening of fire protection for the area.
5. The relocation should serve all areas more strategically than the present location.

Enclosure No. 2

Suggested Site for Fire Station.

Present Station: 36 Washington street, Grove Hall, Ward 14. 484 Warren street, Roxbury, Ward 12.

Fire Companies: Engine Company 13 and Ladder Company 23 (Grove Hall). Engine Company 24, Roxbury.

Reasons for Relocation:

1. There is a radical change in the fire protection profile in the area with a housing development complex predominating composed of first-class construction. The population remains a normal mixed heterogeneous group. The occupancy standards and arrangement will create a slight lessening of the density.

2. The station is antiquated, difficult to heat and maintain and modernization would be too expensive.

3. The Washington Park Development of the Boston Redevelopment Authority has caused a readjustment of the population and altered topographical layout of area and streets.

4. Funding is to be by sale of city property to the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

Suggested Relocation Area: Within triangular plot fronting on Warren street and backing on Blue Hill avenue, Block No. 255B, Lots 3870, 7000, and 6344 opposite Crawford street.

Description of Suggested Area: Facing on Warren street, the frontage is reasonably level. The rear backs onto Blue Hill avenue with a terrain considered relatively steep. It is occupied by assorted occupancies—mercantile and residential.

Adequacy of Suggested Area: The size of the area is considered sufficient for the needs of this department. Topographically, the rear of the building would permit a sublevel to be constructed which would permit the storage of spare apparatus available for replacement service.

Underwriting Requirements:

1. The physical and environmental influences and population density would not be affected by the relocation and consolidation of these two stations.

2. No significant change would be engendered in response time or in distance to be traveled as a result of relocation and consolidation.

3. Area hazards would be closely built residential in areas not within scope of redevelopment with lessening of hazard in redeveloped areas. Projected mercantile hazards may be anticipated in the future.

4. The relocation and consolidation would entail no lessening of fire protection for the area.

5. The relocation and consolidation should serve all areas more strategically for it would be in close proximity to the Washington Park Development. The suggested site affords direct response to all points of the compass. The relocation would contribute no significant changes for although there would be some increasing of distances, such as into the South Dorchester Area, access on available streets would permit more ready and rapid response.

6. It is anticipated that the function of Engine Company 13 will be increased to that of a rescue unit in order to provide this area with the services of a specialized rescue unit in addition to its normal mission.

Enclosure No. 3

Suggested Site for Fire Station.

Area Involved: Roxbury, Fire District No. 5.

Present Stations: 407 Dudley street, Roxbury. 198 Dudley street, Roxbury.

Fire Companies: Engine Company 12 and Ladder Company 4.

Reasons for Relocation:

1. Present location of Engine Company 12 is to remote to the Washington Park Development which could possibly cause a critical delay in response.

2. Engine Company 12 and Ladder Company 4 are both single houses.

3. In the interest of economy and better replacement for fire protection, consolidation is warranted.

4. Modernization of either current station would not give adequate space for the housing of two companies.

5. Relocation would more centrally locate the fire protection for the area, making it quickly available to the high density areas currently existing and anticipating the changing profile of the area and character of the hazards introduced by the renewal areas currently in process. The population remains a mixed heterogeneous group.

Suggested Relocation Area: On Harrison avenue, near Warren street, in Block No. 54, Lots 1898, 1549, 2227, 2212, and 2197 for a total of 10,083 square feet, more or less.

Description of Suggested Areas: Facing onto Harrison avenue, just before it meets with Warren street, the area is slightly inclined but not sufficiently to cause problem. Access and exit therefrom is satisfactory. The area is in existing high density residential, light manufacturing, and mercantile, in the vicinity of the Washington Park Redevelopment area.

Adequacy of the Suggested Area: The size of the area is considered sufficient for the needs of this department and includes land area amounting to 10,083 square feet, more or less.

Underwriting Requirements:

1. The physical and environmental influences and population density would not be affected by the relocation and consolidation of these two stations.

2. No significant change would be engendered in response time or in distance to be traveled as a result of relocation and consolidation.

3. Area hazards would be densely built residential in areas not within scope of redevelopment with lessening of hazard in redeveloped areas. Projected mercantile hazards may be anticipated in the future.

4. The relocation and consolidation would entail no lessening of fire protection for the area.

5. Relocation and consolidation should serve all areas more strategically, for it provides more direct response via wide and paved ways without any significant increase in distance.

Enclosure No. 4

Suggested Site for Fire Station.

Area Involved: South Boston, Fire District 6.

Present Station: 344 Congress street, Ward 6.

Fire Companies: Engine Company 39 and Ladder Company 18.

Reasons for Relocation:

1. Present fire station is antiquated and in the so-called wool and leather district.

2. General change in fire profile of the area with much trucking, transshipment, cargo storage, and heavy storage of a multitude of items other than wool and leather. The area would be generally classed as a heavy industry and mercantile storage area.

3. The Fort Point Channel is scheduled for filling which would cause a considerable increase hazard exposure in this area, with new construction and activities moving in this direction. Relocation of the fire protection is necessary to better serve the area of the future.

4. The relocation should provide more central response and better response time to all areas of Fire Districts 6, 4, and 3.

Suggested Relocation Area: 107 Dorchester avenue, at the corner of Broadway and Dorchester avenue, formerly a facility of the Boston Fire Department housing now-decommissioned Engine Company 15.

Description of Suggested Area: Generally level land with access to every part of South Boston via wide arterial highways and access to the South Station Area of Boston. Presently occupied by structures being utilized by city for other purposes.

Adequacy of Suggested Area: The size of the area presently incorporates 2,893 square feet. Any planning would have to involve the acquirement of sufficient area from abutting property to bring it to the size needed for a fire station to house an engine and ladder company.

Underwriting Requirements:

1. The relocation of the station would place it in a more favorable relationship to population density of South Boston. The current physical and environmental influences would not be materially affected by relocation.

2. The more central location would cause no significant change in response time insofar as all areas of Fire District are considered. It would cause an increase in distance to the heavy industrial and mercantile section but not to the extent that fire protection would be lessened.

3. The relocation should serve the area more strategically and place the activities of these companies in a position to better serve the entire area rather than on an almost previously industrial fire protection aspect which they might have been considered.

4. The relocation, in anticipation of changes in topography, should provide better fire protection and meet with every requirement of underwriting authorities for the future.

Enclosure No. 5

Suggested Site for Fire Station: Land and plans money available in 1965, construction funds available in 1966.

Area Involved: The South End, Fire District 4.

Present Station: 194 Broadway, Ward 3.
Fire Companies: Engine Company 7, Engine Company 26, Ladder Company 17.

Reasons for Relocation:

1. Boston Redevelopment Authority.

2. General change in the profile of the area and a lessening of the character of hazards in the South End as a result of demolition and redevelopment. The population remains a mixed heterogeneous group, with a slight lessening of density of population with its movement in a general southerly direction. The high hazard characteristics of the so-described "downtown" area currently remains approximately static. Mercantiles remain approximately static. Medical and institutional occupancies show a very definite growth trend.

3. The present station is very large and would be too expensive to modernize.

4. Current arterial planning requires the removal of the station.

Intended Relocation Area: A site at the intersection of Isabella street and Columbia avenue has been designated in previous correspondence on the subject.

Description of Suggested Area: A level area of land in a street arrangement with what may be considered limited access currently and as indicated by future planning.

Adequacy of Suggested Area: The size of the area has been covered by previous correspondence and agreement.

Underwriting Requirements:

1. The intended location for these companies does not make for easy radiation of fire protection.

2. Current traffic patterns and intended changes appear to place this location at a greater disadvantage than considered tolerable.

3. The high exposure hazards of the mercantile areas along Washington street will experience a significant delay in response time due to traffic density, route complex.

4. The movement away from the high exposure hazard in the mercantile will increase this time requirement to a point not considered acceptable when measured by fire protection standards in the safety of life.

5. The physical and environmental influences of this area have not changed radically or lessened nor has the fire protection need lessened for this area. The relocation suggested will tend to move fire protection to a point beyond that considered feasible, that is beyond the Park Square Area. This is in direct conflict with the fire protection concept held for this area, an installation in the heart of the hazard, or capable of communicating via fast arterial highways into the heart, not subject to delay by traffic and by excessive distance.

6. This area has a high density population during working hours and for the greater part of every day and night for it is a mecca which draws people to it all hours of the day or night. Situated on the so-called "Chinatown" area, it is heavily populated in the early morning hours, theatre crowds in the early evening hours, and manufactures in the daylight hours, as well as the department store complex with which the area abounds loaded with burnables which could immediately turn any building into a holocaust.

7. Beacon Hill an area of old construction and no doubt one which will retain its identity would be placed in a less favorable position insofar as fire protection with the movement of this apparatus to the intended location, for much of the fire protection on Beacon Hill is provided by fire companies involved in this shift.

8. A heavy school population appears to be a future exposure for the area and the intended change appears to act as a disadvantage with respect to this.

9. It appears that there would be a significant change in the response time or in the distance to be traveled as a result of relocation.

Recommendation:

It is recommended that any relocation of these companies be confined to that area in the immediate vicinity of Park square.

Eli Goldston Examines Performing Arts Role in Cultural Boston's Future

(Following is an excerpt from a book review written by Eli Goldston, Boston business executive who headed Boston's two highly successful Winterfests, for the February issue of "Boston" magazine. The book is "Performing Arts — The Economic Dilemma," written by William J. Baumol and William G. Bowen, distinguished Princeton economists):

Most businessmen fail to realize the relatively small scale budgets of the performing arts. A cultural conglomerate holding company which ran the Metropolitan Opera, the New York Philharmonic, along with the Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, and Philadelphia Symphonies, the largest American dance group (New York Ballet), a hit musical comedy, and hit play on Broadway, the largest off-Broadway theater, and finally, a successful regional theater would have gross revenues less than one fourth of the $110,000,000 in operating revenues which qualified Island Creek Coal Company as the smallest company to make the Fortune magazine directory of 500 largest industrial corporations in 1965.

Those who feel strongly about "mismanagement" in the arts might ponder the fact that ten of the Fortune 500 lost money in 1965, with the $19,000,000 loss by a single company (Cudahy) enough to meet the current "income gap" of all the performing arts.

But turn from the national to the Boston scene. In the important matter of modernizing physical plant, we are behind other cities. While 94 of 148 U. S. cities will have cultural centers by 1970, Boston has been demolishing its theaters. Except for university facilities and the outfitting of the stage at the War Memorial Auditorium under the leadership of Talcott Banks, no new facilities have been provided. The scheduled demolition of the Back Bay Theatre will, except for Symphony Hall, leave Boston one of the worst equipped cities in the country for professional performing arts.

In performing organizations, however, Boston is richly endowed. Most of the organizations, on the other hand, are rather poorly endowed with funds, and the "income gap" in Boston must soon be met from business or from government—otherwise several of our local performing arts organizations will founder.

The City of Boston under Mayor John F. Collins not only has taken an interest in the performing arts through the Auditorium Dedication in 1965 and Winterfests '66 and '67 but has the distinction of being the only American municipality which has commissioned original works of music, choral singing, poetry and graphic art.

Massachusetts Council on the Arts has a modest state appropriation with some matching federal funds and will report soon (at one of the Winterfest "intellectual feasts") on its initial plans for the Commonwealth. Meanwhile, The Cultural Foundation of Boston,

Fin Com Backs Bill For Quarterly Payment

(The following recommendation concerning H-1324 has been forwarded to the Legislative Committee on Banks and Banking by the Boston Finance Commission):

The Boston Finance Commission wishes to be recorded in favor of the principal set forth in H-1324 which requires quarterly payments to the City of tax anticipation payments held by banks.

The Finance Commission for many years has sought to channel tax payments to the City early in the year to minimize the need for temporary borrowing. The bill under consideration is one of several which moves in this direction and therefore accords with the financial needs of the City of Boston.

The Finance Commission carries a legal mandate to be officially concerned with those financial needs.

Each year Boston and many Massachusetts communities are forced to borrow millions of dollars because taxes are not due until late in the year, whereas obligations must be met by the municipality every month of the year.

The subject of interest cost in municipal borrowing at any time has been important. It has become increasingly important in recent years because the interest cost in all temporary borrowing has reached unprecedented highs. Legislation such as H-1324 would help to alleviate this unwarrantably backed by the Boston Permanent Charities Fund, has enlisted the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies to make a comprehensive review of the Boston scene along the lines of the Baumol and Bowen study to ascertain how the Boston "income gap" can be met for a balanced program of professional performing arts.

To obtain business and governmental support, the performing arts must broaden their audiences so that executives and officials doling out contributions will not be uncomfortable at the sight of a cultural mendicant in minks and diamonds coming straight from an opening night. Lower prices and popularized surroundings attract a much higher percentage of students, teachers, younger people, and lower income families.

Winterfest has achieved much of its foundation and business support by promising to have a good cross-section of the community in its audiences, with a substantial fraction of the tickets given away free through ABCD to families in poverty target areas and to other welfare organizations.

The Elementary and Secondary School Education Act has made millions of dollars available to enrich school curricula with an infusion of the arts, and such special sources of funding will be explored by the Joint Center study. Another interesting question will be the feasibility in Boston of a United Art Fund such as has been established in Cincinnati.

This fund gets 46 percent of its income from business corporations and an additional 16 percent from on-the-job pledges of executives and employees. Corporations can deduct 5 percent of their pre-tax income for contributions, but businesses are actually giving just a little more than 1 percent, with only about 1/30th of this amount going to the performing arts. The national total, however, comes to almost $17,=000,000, so business gifts will not have to increase at a dramatic rate to insure the continuance of healthy performing arts organizations if accompanied by some government support.

In any event, Boston can hope that it will shortly be able to narrow its cultural "income gap." The campaigns of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Boston Symphony Orchestra should condition a good many additional donors (private, business, foundation, and government) to include cultural organizations in their list of beneficiaries. These important campaigns, followed by the Joint Center study, may mark a turning point in support of the arts in Boston. The Baumol and Bowen findings certainly emphasize the desirability and essentiality of such a development.

ABCD Sends Fourteen Enrollees to Job Corps

By plane and bus 14 young men from Roxbury, Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, Columbia Point, and West Roxbury left Boston recently for assignments in Job Corps centers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and New Jersey.

The enrollees will undergo training for future jobs and many of them will continue their high school training to qualify themselves for diplomas which appeared forever beyond their reach when they dropped out of school.

The delegation was the largest single group yet enrolled by Action for Boston Community Development for the Job Corps program. Under Director John Calhoun of the ABCD Job Corps division a total of 155 youths between the ages of 16 and 21 have been enrolled in Boston since September and nearly 100 of these are now well advanced toward completion of their training.

street, all of Roxbury; James Bigley, 51 Ames street; Otho Brewer, 181 Magnolia street; Steven Maxwell, 43 Millet street, LeRoy Williams, 16 Shandon road, all of Dorchester; John Grant, 19 Dixwell street, and Stephen Reason, 40 Bickford street, Jamaica Plain.

Enrolled from Brighton was Walter Campbell, 28 Fidelis Way; from Columbia Point, Emmett Cole, 60 Monticello avenue, and from West Roxbury, Francis Hennessy, 127 Bellevue street.

Walter Campbell and Benny Evans have been assigned to Camp Kilmer, Edison, New Jersey; LeRoy Williams to the Blackwell Job Corps Camp at Laona, Wisconsin, and Nathaniel Doctor to the Tamarac Job Corps Center in Minnesota.

The other youngsters were assigned to Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan, where they will be trained in skills connected with the use of heavy equipment and automobile work.

costly situation. It would pump additional tax receipts into the City's treasury several times a year and facilitate financing of current operations.

It would reach, at regular intervals, certain property tax funds which are eventually destined for the City's treasury but held during the year until the due date of payment.

Former objections raised by banks to this proposal, pointing out the clerical cost involved in complying with a plan of several payments, lose much of their validity as data processing plays an increasingly important part in bank administration.

With so much attention focused on financial relief for municipalities, and in view of the effort that has been made by the Legislature to furnish such relief, the opportunity to assist municipalities by means of the kind of fair and equitable step contemplated in this legislative proposal should not be overlooked. The Boston Finance Commission feels that legislation such as H-1324 is of critical importance to the many municipalities which have to resort to temporary borrowing.

The Finance Commission appended statistics showing that Boston paid $320,251 in tax anticipation borrowing in 1964; $470,350 in 1965, and $556,678 in 1966, at rates ranging from 2.09 percent to 4.49 percent. Total cost for the three years was $1,347,319.

Baker Center Birthday

Founded in March, 1917, the Judge Baker Guidance Center, a general treatment clinic for children with behavioral and emotional problems, will observe its 50th anniversary in ceremonies of both scientific and social natures on Thursday and Friday, April 13 and 14.

Highlight of the 50th anniversary program will be a two-day Scientific Program bringing together leaders in child psychiatry, law, education, psychology, and community mental health from the United States and abroad. The Scientific Program will be presented in the Kresge Auditorium of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

At an anniversary dinner at the Harvard Club of Boston on the evening of Friday, April 14, the featured speaker will be President McGeorge Bundy, of the Ford Foundation.

The Scientific Program will open at 10 A.M. on Thursday, April 13, at the MIT auditorium. An afternoon session on Thursday and two sessions, morning and afternoon, on Friday, April 14, will complete the program.

Affiliated with both the Children's Hospital Medical Center and the Harvard Medical School, the Judge Baker Guidance Center is an outgrowth of the Judge Baker Foundation, a specialized child guidance clinic that had been set up to aid the Boston Juvenile Court in their work with child offenders. The name was changed in 1931 to the Judge Baker Guidance Center honoring Judge Harvey Humphrey Baker who served as the first judge of the Boston Juvenile Court. Originally housed at 40 Court street in Boston, the Center moved in 1930 to 38 Beacon street. A new building, the present locale of the Center at 295 Longwood avenue, made possible through a grant of $1,200,000 by the Hiram Edward Manville Foundation of New York, was occupied in 1957.

The new structure not only enabled the Judge Baker Guidance Center to continue its pioneering efforts on behalf of disturbed children, but enabled it to provide residence care for extremely ill children, adolescents as well as preadolescents, who would benefit from daily treatment, guidance, and education.

The Judge Baker Guidance Center, from its inception, has served as a center for teaching and research in child psychiatry, and is associated with the Harvard Medical School's training program in this field.

Judge Baker "alumni" now serve in nearly every large city in the United States and in every country abroad where child psychiatry services have been established. Its "graduates" include child psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, and psychiatric social workers.

The direction of the Judge Baker Guidance Center through the years of its most dynamic growth—1941 to the present—has been under Dr. George Edward Gardner, Psychiatrist-in-Chief at the Children's Hospital Medical Center and Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard.

Prior to Dr. Gardner's appointment as Director of the Center, the organization was under the co-direction of Drs. William Healy and Augusta F. Bronner (Mrs. Healy). Dr. William Healy, a native of England, graduated from Harvard College in 1891 and, at the invitation of Judge Frederick P. Cabot, joined the Judge Baker Foundation in 1917. He was, for a time, lecturer on Social Ethics at Harvard.

Chamber Asks Boston Retain First Naval District

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce has given its support to the Massachusetts Congressional delegation in its efforts to stop the Navy from relocating the First Naval District to New York City as part of a consolidation move.

In a letter to the delegation, Chairman Arthur F. F. Snyder of the Chamber's Federal Agencies Committee and Senior Vice-President of the New England Merchants National Bank, said the Chamber "takes serious exception to the assumption that New York City is a superior headquarters site than Boston."

"Businessmen are familiar with the current trend of leading national companies removing their headquarter's functions from New York City because of the high cost of office space and commutation and a generally poor physical environment," the letter said.

"At the same time Boston's appeal as a headquarter's location has been greatly enhanced by dramatic urban renewal and private development projects," it pointed out. Snyder concluded that the relocation to New York "flies in the face of current business practices."

He said the evidence presented by the Navy justifies the New York move only because of Naval reserve training activities there. Noting that the First Naval District and its Boston headquarters are responsible for a wider range of activities, he said that present-day communications and automated administrative capabilities weakened the reserve argument.

The New England Congressional Delegation met with Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze last February 20. Secretary Nitze said he would reconsider the decision. The Navy plans to effect the consolidation by July 1.

Seeds for Beauty

Spring was in the air at the office of Mayor John F. Collins when 5,000 packages of Burpee flower seeds were presented to the Mayor by Charles J. McCarthy, president, and Gerald R. Frazier, vice-president of Standard Household Products, Holyoke, makers of Lestoil and Bon Ami products. It's all for the beautification of Boston. On hand to assist in plans for distribution of the seeds were Mr. Frazier, Sam Messina, director of Neighborhood Improvement; Mr. McCarthy, Edwin Steffek, editor of Horticultural Magazine, and Mrs. Augusta Bailey of the Roxbury-Dorchester Community Beautification Program.

VIII. HIGH COMMENDATION

At 4:23 A.M., February 23, 1967, the department responded to Box 175 (two alarms) for a fire in the dwelling house at 30-32 Dennis street, Roxbury.

Engine Company 13 was ordered to run and operate a 2½-inch line to the second floor over a ground ladder at the rear of the building. Fire Fighter John F. Reilly climbed through a window into a room which was fairly clear, and this allowed the company to haul enough line inside the room for future operation. Lieut. Edward T. Saniuk, who was on the ladder, turned around and ordered the line filled; and, when he turned back toward the window, he saw that Fire Fighter Reilly was engulfed in flames and that the room was an inferno.

Fire Fighter on Probation Joseph J. Gaffney of Engine Company 13, who was on the ladder, climbed to the top, reached into the window and pulled Fire Fighter Reilly on to the ladder. He then slid him down the ladder to the ground. During this rescue Fire Fighter Reilly's clothing was aflame and a water stream was played on him to extinguish the fire.

Fire Fighter Gaffney performed this rescue work at extreme personal risk and with complete disregard for his personal safety. It appears that by his quick action he saved Fire Fighter Reilly from severe injury or even death. Fire Fighter Gaffney suffered burns to his head, ears, and hands and was removed to the Boston City Hospital in the ambulance with Fire Fighter Reilly.

Because of the extreme risk to which he exposed himself, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend Fire Fighter Gaffney, and his name is referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

Fire Fighter John T. Maher, of Engine Company 21 is hereby commended for sounding an alarm from Box 1866, at 8:49 A.M., February 26, 1967, for a building fire, and for working at said fire during an off-duty period.

Mayor Says Council Action Will Block

Repairs; Affect Tax Rate

(Following is the statement of Mayor John F. Collins re the action by a minority of the City Council in refusing to rescind a 1954 loan order of 5.7 million dollars which would have permitted the city to expend this sum for extraordinary repairs):

The rejection by the City Council of my order to rescind 5.7 million dollars of an original 7.5 million dollar loan appropriation outstanding since 1954 makes it impossible for the city to borrow money for necessary improvements.

It appears fantastic to me that a Council which has consistently cried out for more and more money for schools would force me—because of their refusal to vote for the rescission of this order—to withdraw an appropriation order of three million dollars to be spent for school extraordinary repairs.

It amazes me that a Council which complains of potholes in the streets should withhold funds for their repair.

It astonishes me that a Council which consistently clamors for improved city services should deny funds for the modernization of public buildings.

It appalls me that a Council which seeks fiscal responsibility should act in such an irresponsible manner by refusing even to provide the money for matching federal funds.

I would like to think that the citizens of Boston are entitled to a better performance than this. Today's action by a minority of the Council was unsound financially and petty politics—and both the tax rate and people of Boston will suffer as a result.

Family Doctor Study

A fellowship program for physicians already engaged in the practice of family medicine has been established by Harvard University with a grant of $54,000 from the Family Health Foundation of America and with additional support from the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The grant also will support a collaborative research program in Family Medicine.

The program, to be started on July 1, 1967, will be under the supervision of Dr. Joel Alpert, director of the Harvard Medical School's Family Health Care Program, a cooperative venture established in 1953 with the Children's Hospital Medical Center, the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, and the Boston Hospital for Women.

"For the initial year," said Dr. Alpert, "one Fellow will be enrolled in the program. Thereafter, two fellows will be enrolled annually."

"There has been," said Dr. Alpert, "a clear need for fellowships in family medicine that would enable men now in practice to have fellowship experience and following this year join medical facilities or return to practice."

"These Fellows," he explained, "will work out a program to meet their individual needs. They will participate in our Family Health Care Program, in our medical care research unit (currently evaluating the effectiveness of comprehensive medical care given children in low-income families), in the collaborative research program, and in the teaching of medical students and other Fellows. They may pursue academic courses at the Harvard Medical School, Harvard School of Public Health, and at Harvard University."

"Opportunities will be provided to enable them to learn the skills of behavioral scientist."

Community Health Concepts Changing

Commissioner Dr. Andrew P. Sackett of Boston's Department of Health and Hospitals believes that the philosophical foundation for the concepts upon which health administrators base their practices is changing.

"Our concepts of responsibility, authority, and accountability need to be modified, so that we can carry out the broader mandate in health services necessary to meet fully the future requirements of our communities," he told the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Public Health Association at Holy Cross College, Worcester.

Dr. Sackett cited the action of his department in seeking to make high level health services readily available to all through the medium of representatives of an advisory group of public and voluntary agencies which would include the Boston Welfare Department, the State Health Department, Action for Boston Community Development, the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the Boston Housing Authority, United Community Services, the Medical Schools of Tufts University, Harvard University and Boston University, and other agencies, to discuss and deal with community problems in the area.

Such a body will greatly eliminate the need for an individual to be referred to many different agencies, since the group comprises an important cross section representation from several agencies within the city.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

March 22.

General Order No. 295

NATIONAL CRIME INFORMATION CENTER

This department is one of fifteen law law enforcement agencies initially participating in the National Crime Information Center, (NCIC) maintained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. NCIC is a computerized information system established as a service to all law enforcement agencies, local, state, and federal. Its objective is to improve the effectiveness of law enforcement through the more efficient handling and exchange of documented police information.

Policies and procedures governing the operation of the NCIC have been and will continue to be established in accordance with decisions made by the Advisory Group to the Committee on Uniform Crime Records, International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), which group is made up of law enforcement representatives from local, state and federal agencies located throughout the United States.

DESCRIPTION OF SYSTEM

The NCIC System consists of a most up-to-date computer located at Federal Bureau of Investigation Headquarters in Washington, D.C., and typewriter-like terminals located in the communication centers of the participating law enforcement agencies. This system can store vast amounts of information which can be instantly retrieved and furnished through these terminals. As soon as is feasible, the system will be gradually expanded until a network encompassing the entire United States is achieved.

The information contained in the system is gathered and fed into the computer through terminals by participating agencies. Because of this it may be said that it is our system and the information contained therein is our information. It will be our responsibility to keep this index accurate and up to date, and to carefully follow the established standards and procedures.

EVALUATION OF NCIC DATA

It is important to remember that the data contained in the NCIC is lead-type information. When information is received from NCIC it should be evaluated along with other information available for any action decisions. Professional police procedures demand that the agency originating the record in file be contacted immediately by the inquiring agency to confirm the data, obtain further details, and initiate any formal process.

OPERATIONAL PARTICIPANTS

At the present time NCIC contains information relative to stolen motor vehicles, stolen, missing, recovered guns, other stolen articles and wanted persons, gathered by the following agencies for their respective jurisdictions:

City Police Departments

Boston, Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Washington, D.C., New Orleans, Philadelphia.

State Agencies

Maryland State Police, Texas Department of Public Safety, Virginia State Police, Georgia Department of Public Safety.

As agencies are added, notification will be given to the department. Until such time as a fully operating national network is developed, a "No Record" response to an inquiry should not preclude any additional logical checks of other sources of information.

CRITERIA FOR ENTRY IN FILE

The criteria as set forth is that formulated by the Advisory Group. As the system develops and experience is gained, modification will be made.

VEHICLE FILE:

- (a) Unrecovered stolen vehicles after 24 hours with the exception of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, and all other states to the east thereof where stolen unrecovered after 12 hours will be entered.
- (b) Vehicles wanted in conjunction with felonies for which the states will rendite will be entered into file immediately.
- (c) Unrecovered stolen engines and transmissions identified by all or part of the VIN number will be entered in file on the same basis as stolen vehicles.

LICENSE PLATE FILE:

- (a) Unrecovered stolen license plates will be entered on the same basis as stolen vehicles provided all plates issued are missing.

GUN FILE:

- (a) Serially numbered weapons (stolen or lost).
- (b) Weapons recovered in connection with an unsolved crime for which no lost or stolen report is on file may be entered in the file as a "recovered" weapon.

ARTICLE FILE:

- (a) Individual serially numbered property items valued at $1,000 or more.
- (b) Multiple serially numbered property items totaling $5,000 or more in one theft.
- (c) Other serially numbered property items may be entered at the discretion of the reporting agency if (1) the circumstances of the theft indicate that there is a probability of interstate movement, or (2) where the seriousness of the crime indicates that such an entry should be made for investigative purposes.

WANTED PERSONS FILE:

- (a) Individuals for whom federal warrants are outstanding.
- (b) Individuals who have committed or have been identified with an offense which is classified as a felony under the existing penal statutes of the jurisdiction originating the entry and felony warrant has been issued for the individual with respect to the offense which was the basis of the entry. Further, the agency originating the entry must stand ready to rendite the individual and return him for prosecution immediately upon notification of his arrest and availability.
- (c) A "Temporary Felony Want" may be entered when a law enforcement agency has need to take prompt action to establish a "Want" entry for the apprehension of a person who has committed, or the officer has reasonable ground to believe has committed, a felony, who may seek refuge by escape across jurisdictional boundaries, and circumstances preclude the immediate procurement of a felony warrant. A "Temporary Felony Want" shall be subsequently identified as such and subject to verification and support by a proper warrant within 48 hours following the initial entry of a temporary want. The agency originating the "Temporary Felony Want" shall be responsible for subsequent verification, or re-entry of a permanent want. A "Temporary Felony Want" will be automatically removed from the file after 48 hours.

OPERATING PERIODS

Effective on Monday, March 27, 1967, NCIC will be in full operation between 12 noon and 8 P.M. each day of the week. Until that date, operation will be limited to those periods between 12 noon and 2 P.M., and 9 P.M. to 11 P.M., daily. Inquiries received at the Central Complaint Section during operating periods will be processed with a minimum of delay, usually not more than five seconds. However, inquiries will also be accepted at all other times and held until such time as NCIC is in operation. Eventually this system will be available for use on a twenty-four-hour basis.

PORT AUTHORITY TO PAY FOR POLICE PROTECTION

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Law Department, February 13, 1967.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

An order passed by your Honorable Body on February 6, 1967, requests that this office institute some form of legal action to require the Massachusetts Port Authority to pay the City of Boston for furnishing fire protection to its property as provided under "legislation passed two years ago."

I assume that the reference is to Chapter 288 of the Acts of 1963 entitled "An Act Authorizing the City of Boston To Contract To Provide Fire-Fighting Services for the Tax-Exempt Property of the Massachusetts Port Authority in Said City," the text of which is as follows:

"The City of Boston, acting by its fire commissioner with the approval of its mayor, and the Massachusetts Port Authority are hereby respectively authorized to make contracts from time to time whereby for such annual fee as said city and authority shall mutually agree the city will provide fire-fighting services for the tax exempt property of said authority in said city."

"The Legislature must be presumed to have meant what the words plainly say" (Condon v. Haitsma, 325 Mass. 371, 373), which is that the City and the Authority are "authorized" to contract with each other respecting the subject. They are not "directed" or "ordered" or otherwise compelled by the statute to do so. The statute is thus a mere enabling measure, creating no legally enforceable rights by its own force. Lavelle v. Beverly, 330 Mass. 72, 74.

Hence I am unable to institute the legal action you request.

Respectfully,
JAMES J. SULLIVAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

Coun. LANGONE moved the communication be sent back to the Corporation Counsel for further clarification and possible action on his part.

The motion was carried.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

Coun. LANGONE, for the Committee on Appropriations and Finance, submitted the following:

Subject Matter: Return of $7,750,000 Loan Order Authorized for a Chronic Disease Hospital at Long Island.

The meeting was held on January 31, 1967, in the Council Chamber and present were Arthur Coffey of the Public Facilities Commission; Malcolm Dudley; Edmund Holmes, Collector-Treasurer; Dr. Sackett; Dr. Lezer of the Boston City Hospital; Joseph Lally of the Boston City Hospital; Daniel Cronin, Commissioner of Public Welfare; Frank O'Brien of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, and William Kerr of the Law Department.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider a request by the Executive Department to rescind a previously authorized order dated September 23, 1964, which provided for a loan under the debt limit of $7,750,000 for the construction of a 600-bed chronic disease hospital at Long Island.

All the above persons testified before the Committee. Dr. Lezer, who represented the Board of Trustees of City Hospital, stated that the Board of Trustees did not feel that a chronic disease hospital should be constructed as proposed at the Long Island Hospital, that Long Island was now being used as an extended care facility. He stated that the difference between an extended care facility and a chronic disease hospital is that a chronic disease hospital requires laboratories and more medical facilities than now exist at the Long Island Hospital.

He further stated that the Trustees do not intend to phase out the operation at the Long Island Hospital and likewise that Mattapan Sanatorium is being converted from its former use as a T. B. Sanatorium to a hospital for extended care facilities similar to Long Island Hospital.

The extended care facilities are for ambulatory patients who do not require extensive medical care such as would be required for a chronic disease hospital. This means that when a person has been treated at the Boston City Hospital and no longer requires the intensive care of the general hospital, then the patient is transferred to the extended care facility at Mattapan.

It has been so clarified under the new medicare provisions so that it is eligible for funds under the new program.

Dr. Lezer stated that 400 out of the 600 beds are used at Mattapan Sanatorium at the present time.

He likewise stated that it is the intention of the Board of Trustees and the Hospital Staff that a 300-bed chronic disease hospital is being planned at the present site of the Boston City Hospital.

Patients who are now using the facilities of the Dowling Building will be transferred over to the surgical building as soon as renovations are made and by 1970 the Dowling Building will be outfitted to accommodate 300 chronic disease patients.

At the present time there are about 890 patients at the Boston City Hospital, but after the extensive alterations which are now going on, there will be accommodations for some 300 more patients for this purpose.

Dr. Lezer also stated that the program of treatment of alcoholism is inadequate at the present time. The facilities and programs are not what they are intended to be. However, steps are being taken to expand that program.

Dr. Lezer stated that at the present time there are only about 1 or 2 percent of the patients at the City Hospital who are waiting for admission to the chronic disease hospitals, such as Cushing, Holy Ghost, and Lemuel Shattuck Hospitals. He stated that the number and the need is not so great that they cannot be kept at the City Hospital until such time as beds are available at these chronic disease hospitals.

Mr. Edmund Holmes, the Collector-Treasurer, stated that the bond counsel in his letter of October 4, 1966, informed him that Boston has some $78,000,000 within the debt limit under the statute. The city is allowed to borrow up to 5 percent of the average for three years of all the real estate valuations which roughly amounts to some $78,000,000.

Seventy million dollars of this amount is now encumbered which leaves approximately $8 million unencumbered. However, at the present time before the City Council, there are some $5 million in equipment loan orders which must come out of the $8 million and there are plans for the other $3 million for annual repairs which must come under Chapter 44 of the statute which sets up the debt limit. Another 3.6 million dollars is needed for new sewerage, water mains and brook enclosures.

School repairs cannot be financed out of this but must be borne out of the money borrowed within the debt limit.

Another million dollars is needed for street reconstruction program as part of the city's share under Chapter 90 for major construction of streets.

This means that approximately $11 million is needed for the city services which cannot be provided for unless the $5,750,000 is turned back to the city because there is not enough money within the debt limit to provide these services.

The Public Facilities Commission was present and Arthur G. Coffey, a member thereof, stated that the Public Facilities Commission was authorized under the new statute which was passed creating the public facilities, commission to borrow $115 million outside the debt limit.

In addition they have some $53 million authorized loan orders for public school construction. This would leave sufficient funds for construction of public buildings and schools to take care of public building construction under the program.

Daniel Cronin of the Welfare Department stated that the daily rate at a chronic disease hospital is about $20 a day, at the General Hospital about $50 per day, at an extended care center about $17 per day, and at a nursing home about $8 or $9 per day. But at a nursing home the Welfare Department must pay extra for medicines or doctors. This is for old age and welfare recipients; therefore, it is the opinion of the chairman to cite all these facts and to leave it to the discretion of the majority of the City Council to decide what need at the present time is greater.

The Hospital Trustees do not intend to use this money for the construction of a chronic disease hospital at Long Island and the money would remain encumbered on the books charged against our debt limit, whereas there is a need for approximately $3 million of this money to provide essential services for which the entire city would benefit.

This $3 million is over and above what now remains within the debt limit to provide these services and the only source left is the $5,750,000 which has been encumbered since 1954.

Respectfully submitted,

FOR THE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE,

FREDERICK C. LANGONE,
Chairman.

The report was accepted, yeas 5, nays 1:

a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The motion was carried and the Council recessed

Nays—Councillors Kerrigan, Langone—2.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President HYNES at 5.10 P.M.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

Coun. LANGONE, for the Committee on Appropriations and Finance, submitted the following:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

Subject Matter: Three Resolutions of Public Works Commissioner re Sewerage, Water
Lines, and Brook Enclosures.

These are three resolutions made by the Public Works Commissioner requesting Council approval of a resolution authorizing the Public Works Commissioner to apply for federal funds to carry out a massive reconstruction of Boston's sewerage, water lines, and brook enclosures.

This entire matter will cost approximately $6.7 million of which the federal government will put up some $3 million and the city will put up approximately $3.6 million.

The reason that it is costing the city more money is because the engineering of these projects and administrative costs have to be borne by the city.

The construction costs will be borne on a 50-50 basis by the federal government and the city.

This work is to be done wherever necessary throughout the city to provide adequate water pressure wherever needed.

Obsolete sewerage lines will be replaced and the enclosing of brooks is being done to prevent children from falling and drowning in these brooks in some suburban areas of the city.

The cost of these jobs is as follows:

Water lines and mains—city share, $1,- 868,000; federal share, $1,500,000.

Brook enclosures—city share, $1,351,000;
federal share, $1,023,000.

Construction of new sewerage—city's share,
$643,000; federal share, $456,750.

In view of the condition of our sewerage in many of the older sections of the city, it is not only obsolete but antiquated and when we have severe storms such as in the South End and in the Back Bay and in other areas, particularly along the waterfront, it backs up and it is a very unhealthy situation.

As to the water pressures in homes, because of the installation of new modern air conditioning and other appliances, there are many complaints about the lack of water pressure.

There have been many accidents whereby children have fallen into brooks in the suburban Boston area and this is a much needed improvement.

Therefore, it is recommended that the Council Committee on Appropriations and Finance recommend the passage of these three resolutions.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK C. LANGONE, Chairman,
Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

The report of the committee was accepted.

PROPOSED SALE OF LEATHER SQUARE TO FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF BOSTON

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 20, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication received from John F. Flaherty, Chairman of the Public Improvement Commission, advising of the discontinuance of Leather square, Boston Proper, as a public highway, and recommending the sale to the First National Bank of Boston of the City of Boston's interest in Leather square subject however, to the retention by the city of water and sewer easements. The bank has offered the sum of $26,400 for the City of Boston's interest in Leather square. The discontinued area of Leather square consists of 4,233 square feet of land, 1,320 square feet of which is owned by the City of Boston, and the remaining 2,913 square feet is owned by the bank.

The purchaser desires to acquire the City of Boston's interest in Leather square for the purpose of assembling all the parcels located in the block between Federal street, Franklin street, Congress street, and Matthews street, and to construct a bank building which will be the main office of the First National Bank of Boston and containing space for office rental. The structure contemplated will be approximately 35 stories in height, containing approximately one million square feet of floor area, and when completed will be the largest office building in the downtown area.

I transmit herewith a proposed form of order which would authorize the sale of the City of Boston's interest in Leather square to the First National Bank of Boston for the sum of $26,400 and recommend the adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Improvement Commission,
January 17, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins, Mayor of Boston, and
The Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen:

A joint petition from the First National Bank of Boston and the Sager Electrical Supply Company, dated November 9, 1966, requesting the discontinuance of Leather square, Boston Proper district, from Matthews street approximately 160 feet northwesterly, was received by the Public Improvement Commission, together with an offer to purchase a portion of the discontinued area containing approximately 1,320 square feet as shown on the attached plan as Parcels A and B.

A title examination shows that this portion of Leather square (formerly Sister street) was taken for a widening in 1866 by a resolve of the Board of Aldermen of the City of Boston and recorded in the Registry of Deeds, Book 890, page 30, and 230.

A public hearing for the discontinuance of Leather square was held on January 10, 1967. At the hearing, a representative of the First National Bank of Boston reported that it is in the process of acquiring all of the abutting land in the entire block for the proposed erection of a new high rise First National Bank building.

Following the public hearing, the Public Improvement Commission has voted to discontinue Leather square, excepting and reserving to the City of Boston all existing sewer and water utility rights and easements; and has further voted to accept an offer from the First National Bank of Boston to purchase the discontinued portion owned in fee by the City of Boston and any interest the city may have in the remaining portion of Leather square for $20 per square foot.

Accordingly, the commission determines that the land lying within the entire discontinued area of Leather square is no longer required for public purposes and further determines that the portion of land owned in fee by the city containing approximately 1,320 square feet has a fair market value of $26,400 and, therefore, recommends that a sale be made to the First National Bank of Boston for this sum.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY, Chairman,
Public Improvement Commission.

Whereas, By an order of the Public Improvement Commission of the City of Boston dated January 17, 1967, Leather square was discontinued as a public highway; and

Whereas, The City of Boston is the owner in fee of two parcels of land, being portions of the discontinued area of Leather square; and

Whereas, The First National Bank of Boston is the owner of lands abutting Leather square and desires to acquire all of Leather square for the purpose of constructing a building thereon and has offered to pay the City of Boston the sum of twenty-six thousand four hundred (26,400) dollars for the entire interest of the City of Boston in Leather square; and

Whereas, The Public Improvement Commission has determined that the entire discontinued area of Leather square is no longer required for public purposes and has recommended the sale of the City of Boston's interest to the First National Bank of Boston for the sum of twenty-six thousand four hundred (26,400) dollars; now therefore it is hereby

Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to sell at private sale and to execute and deliver an instrument in writing conveying to the First National Bank of Boston, its successors and assigns, for a price of not less than twenty-six thousand four hundred (26,400) dollars the following described parcels of land, together with all the right, title and interest of the City of Boston in the discontinued area of Leather square, subject to the right and easement of the City of Boston to lay, construct, maintain, repair and renew water and sewer works, as shown on a plan herein-after described:

A certain parcel of land, being a portion of Leather square (discontinued), bounded and described as follows:

Southeasterly by Matthews street, nine and 40/100 (9.40) feet; southerly by the northeasterly line of Sister street (Leather square), as it existed prior to the widening of Sister street July 16, 1866, as shown on Plan L-330 on file with the Public Works Department, three and 25/100 (3.25) feet; southwesterly by the northeasterly line of Sister street (Leather square), as it existed prior to the widening of Sister street July 16, 1866, as shown on Plan L-330 on file with the Public Works Department, seventy-four and 21/100 (74.21) feet; northwesterly by Parcel B on plan hereinafter described, eleven and 34/100 (11.34) feet; northeasterly by land of Sager Electrical Supply and land of First National Bank, seventy-six and 76/100 (76.76) feet; containing eight hundred forty-three (843) square feet, more or less, and being shown as Parcel A on plan hereinafter described.

A certain parcel of land, being a portion of Leather square (discontinued), bounded and described as follows:

Northeasterly by land of First National Bank, forty-one and 04/100 (41.04) feet; southeasterly by Parcel A, hereinbefore described, eleven and 34/100 (11.34) feet; southwesterly by the northeasterly line of Sister street (Leather square), as it existed prior to the widening of Sister street July 16, 1866, as shown on Plan L-330 on file with the Public Works Department, forty-three and 05/100 (43.05) feet; northwesterly by former property line between land of Wm. Spooner and land of Henry F. Cragin and Wm. Blanchard, Trustees, as shown on aforementioned Plan L-330 on file with the Public Works Department, eleven and 89/100 (11.89) feet, containing four hundred seventy-seven (477) square feet of land, more or less, and shown as Parcel B.

PROPOSED SALE OF CERTAIN DISCONTINUED STREETS TO CHURCH REALTY TRUST

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication received from John F. Flaherty, Chairman of the Public Improvement Commission, advising of the discontinuance as a public highway of Falmouth street, from Massachusetts avenue to Belvidere street, the discontinuance of St. Paul street, from Falmouth street to Norway street, the discontinuance of portions of Clearway street, Norway street, and Dalton street, and recommending the sale to Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alford, and George H. G. Coulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, of the City of Boston's interest in the discontinued areas of the aforementioned streets, subject, however, to retention by the City of Boston of certain water and sewer easements.

The Church Realty Trust, which is the abutting owner of the discontinued streets, desires to acquire the same for the purpose of land assembly and proposes to develop and improve the area by the construction of a 26-story administration building, an underground garage with 624-car capacity, and related structures consistent with the Fenway Urban Renewal Plan. The Church Realty Trust exists for the sole benefit of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, a body corporate under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and is the Developer of the Project Area which lies within the Fenway Urban Renewal Area.

I transmit herewith a proposed form of order which would authorize the sale of the City of Boston's interest in the aforementioned discontinued street areas to the Church Realty Trust for the sum of $486,126, and recommend the adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Improvement Commission,

February 14, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins, Mayor of Boston, and the Boston City Council.

Gentlemen:

On June 28, 1966, the Public Improvement Commission received a request from the First Church of Christ, Scientist, for the discontinuance of certain streets in the immediate vicinity of the church adjoining Prudential Center on one side and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society and Symphony Hall on the other.

A duly advertised public hearing was held on August 16, 1966, for the discontinuance of these streets in the above-mentioned areas. At said hearing a representative of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, explained that these discontinuances were required for the development of the proposed Christian Science Church Complex site.

A title examination of the discontinued areas revealed that the City of Boston owns in fee approximately 81,021 square feet of the total discontinued area of 110,059 square feet.

At its meeting held January 10, 1967, the Public Improvement Commission voted to make the following discontinuances:

Falmouth street, Boston Proper, from Massachusetts avenue to Belvidere street.

St. Paul street, Boston Proper, from Falmouth street to Norway street.

Dalton street, Boston Proper, from Falmouth street to approximately 110 feet northwesterly.

Clearway street, Boston Proper, from Dalton street, approximately 40 feet westerly.

These discontinuances were made, excepting and reserving to the City of Boston all existing sewer and water utility rights and easements.

The Public Improvement Commission determines that the land lying within the entire discontinued area of said streets, containing approximately 110,059 square feet, are no longer required for public purposes. The Commission further agrees to accept an offer from Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alford, and George H. G. Coulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, of $6 per square foot for the discontinued portions owned in fee by the city containing approximately 81,021 square feet, for a total value of $486,126 and, therefore, recommends that a sale be made to Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alford, and George H. G. Coulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, for this sum in accordance with their offer of purchase.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY, Chairman,
Public Improvement Commission.

Whereas, By separate orders of the Public Improvement Commission of the City of Boston dated January 17, 1967, Falmouth street, from Massachusetts avenue to Belvidere street, was discontinued as a public highway; St. Paul street, from Falmouth street to Norway street, was discontinued as a public highway; and a portion of Clearway street, from Dalton street, forty (40) feet westerly, a portion of Norway street, from Massachusetts avenue to Huntington avenue, and a portion of Dalton street, from Falmouth street, one hundred (100) feet northwesterly, were discontinued as public highways; and

Whereas, The City of Boston is the owner in fee of approximately eighty-one thousand twenty-one (81,021) square feet of land within the discontinued areas above-referred to; and

Whereas, The Church Realty Trust is the owner of lands abutting the discontinued portions of the aforementioned streets and desires to acquire the interest of the City of Boston in these areas for the purpose of re-development and has offered to pay to the City of Boston the sum of four hundred eighty-six thousand one hundred twenty-six (486,126) dollars; and

Whereas, The Public Improvement Commission has determined that the discontinued areas of the aforementioned highways are no longer required for public purposes and has recommended the sale of the City of Boston's interest to the Church Realty Trust for the sum of four hundred eighty-six thousand one hundred twenty-six (486,126) dollars; now, therefore, it is hereby

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO BE AN INTEGRAL PART OF POLICE DEPARTMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Corporation Counsel relative to your order of recent date, with reference to considering the advisability of instituting a program whereby the District Attorney of Suffolk County be made an integral part of the police administration of the City of Boston for the limited purpose of from time to time advising the Police Department of the changes in laws governing police work and recent interpretations of same.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, January 31, 1967.

Mr. Mayor:

This is in response to your request that I consider the advisability of instituting a program described in an order passed by the City Council (at behest of Councillor Piemonte) on January 23, 1967, as "a program whereby the District Attorney of Suffolk County be made an integral part of the police administration of the City of Boston for the limited purpose of from time to time advising the Police Department of the changes in laws governing police work and recent interpretations of same."

The District Attorney of Suffolk County is a public officer having only such duties as are explicitly or by reasonable implication imposed upon him by statute. Under existing statutes, he has no duty to consult with or advise the Police Commissioner of Boston. However, since the work of the District Attorney is in large measure closely interrelated with much of the work of the Boston police, there should, of course, be close cooperation between the District Attorney and the Police Commissioner. The police must conduct their investigations of criminal offences in such a manner that the evidence adduced is, when proffered by the District Attorney, admissible in court. The District Attorney and the Police Commissioner, if they do not already do so, should thus confer from time to time at the invitation of the Police Commissioner, with a view to developing and pursuing such programs in the Police Department as may tend to keep the police abreast of new statutes and court decisions and generally improve police work. They cannot be formally integrated even for the limited purpose the Council order suggests.

J. J. SULLIVAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

Coun. PIEMONTE moved the communication, together with the reply, or the original order, together with the reply, be forwarded to the Director of Administrative Services for his study, and further, that he make known his observations, after study, to this Honorable Body.

The motion was carried.

PROGRAM PERMITTING LAW STUDENTS TO PROSECUTE CASES

Coun. FOLEY offered the following:

Whereas, Law students presently prosecute law cases in various lower courts of Suffolk County; and

Whereas, Such a practice raises certain public policy questions which ought to be considered by professional organizations; be it Resolved, That the Boston Bar Association be requested by this Board of County Commissioners of Suffolk County to assess professionally the program permitting law students to prosecute cases in the courts of Suffolk County; be it further Resolved, Comments from the American Civil Liberties Union be also solicited.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

APPROPRIATION TO TRAFFIC AND PARKING DEPARTMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1967.

To the City Council,

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith an appropriation order for the sum of three hundred twenty-one thousand two hundred and sixty-seven dollars and seventy cents ($321,267.70) for the care, maintenance and collection of parking meters and the regulation of parking and traffic activities incident thereto.

REMOVAL OF CITY DEBT ON CITY STATEMENTS

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Finance Commission, February 27, 1967.

The Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen and Madam:

On January 30, 1967, the Council moved that the opinion of this Commission be sought on the question of the "feasibility and legality of removing as a liability or contingent liability on city statements that amount of city or municipal debt for which there exists a 100 percent sinking fund. . . ." In addition, the Commission has received under your order of February 13, 1967, a copy of the response to your Body by the Corporation Counsel on the above question.

Two primary factors determine the answer to your inquiry. The first is the fact that the city's financial position, from a securities marketing standpoint, turns on the amount of "net" debt and not "gross" debt. Secondly, since the bonds do not contain a "call" provision, action by the city by way of accelerated retirement is not available.

The Commission concurs with the opinion expressed by the Corporation Counsel.

Respectfully,

JOHN LARKIN THOMPSON, Chairman.

Placed on file.

APPOINTMENT OF RICHARD R. THUMA, JR.

Notice was received from the Mayor of the appointment of Richard R. Thuma, Jr., 2 Allen road, Winchester, to be Commissioner of the Building Department for the term expiring May 15, 1971, vice Robert E. York, retired.

Placed on file.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

Coun. LANGONE submitted the following:

Subject Matter: Report on Appropriation of $200,000 To Purchase Liquor Licenses Displaced by Urban Renewal.

At a meeting held January 31, 1967, by the Committee on Appropriations and Finance, a request was considered for the appropriation of $200,000 under chapter 804 of the Acts of 1965 to purchase liquor licenses from those business which have been displaced by urban renewal projects.

Two hundred thousand dollars has already been expended under chapter 804 to purchase twenty (20) licenses which were in various urban renewal projects which have been approved to date.

Two applications are now pending before the Boston Licensing Board and one has already been approved by said Board.

Commissioner Chairman Elam and Commissioner O'Neil were present.

There are in the city today some 757 all-alcoholic on premise licenses and 288 package goods licenses.

There will be some 50 to 150 licenses involved in the future to be purchased under chapter 804 for which the city has been authorized to borrow some $2 million. This money is coming out of the increased license fees which have been in effect since 1965.

According to Chairman Elam there is an adequate amount of money under chapter 804 to purchase all these licenses if the moving of these displaced businesses is done in an orderly procedure.

A 1937 act of the Legislature provided that 700 all-alcoholic beverage on premise licenses be authorized and 250 package store licenses. This is the amount of licenses set as the limit by this act and no new licenses have been granted since 1937 by the Licensing Board. The only licenses that have been issued have been through charitable and civic and veterans organizations by an act of the Legislature.

Chairman Elam stated than an amendment to chapter 804 has been offered to the Legislature to change the commencement date of the statute in order to be eligible for the $10,000 first year amount set by law. That is, that the commencement date for the first year would start as of the date of displacement by the land-taking rather than the date of the filing of the land-taking in the Registry of Deeds.

This has worked a hardship on some requests and they are making an effort to revise the law.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK C. LANGONE, Chairman,
Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

Report on message of the Mayor and order (referred January 16) for $200,000 from additional license fees for payments under chapter 804—recommending that order ought to pass.

Committee to Study Non-Educational Aspects of 1967 School Budget

For the first time in the city's history public hearings will be held to examine the high rise in the cost of noneducational items in the Boston School Committee's proposed 1967 budget.

The School Committee last week submitted a proposed budget to Mayor John F. Collins of $59.2 million—an increase of $8.7 million over last year.

The Mayor, in announcing formation of a committee to review the school budget, said "it is neither our desire, right or responsibility to make or effect educational policy, however, recent reports of extraordinary increases in salaries to noneducational personnel and related matters should be fully explained at public hearings."

The Mayor noted that the School Committee has approved $10 across-the-board salary increases for school custodians. Wage scales would thus increase to $115 for junior custodians and to $194 per week for senior custodians. In addition Boston's 500 custodians average $900 per year per man for overtime.

Mayor Collins stressed that the hearings would in no way concern themselves with Boston teachers' salaries which will become the highest in New England in September.

Both the Teachers Alliance and the Boston Teachers Union have praised Mayor Collins for approving hefty hikes in salaries for teachers and for the support he gave teachers in their collective bargaining procedures.

Teachers' salaries during Mayor Collins administration have increased since 1960 from $4,020-$6,420 for bachelor degree holders to $6,000-$10,000. Educators earning master degrees have had salary increases at maximum from $6,900 in 1960 to $10,500.

Mayor Collins said that members of the School Committee, the Business Manager, and all members of the school system will be "asked to appear at hearings and substantiate allowances under their control."

The Mayor pointed out that in 1960, the year he took office, the school budget totaled $33,766,699. The school budget has increased 75 percent since then, or an average increase of $3,000,000 per year.

In commenting on the proposed hearings the Mayor said "this action, although unprecedented, is a sound administrative practice and should be endorsed by all concerned."

Named to the committee by the Mayor were: Budget Director Henry T. Brennan; Financial Advisor to the Mayor Roy Hamilton; Municipal Research Bureau Director Joseph Barresi; Chairman of the City Council Committee on Appropriations Councillor Frederick Langone; and Park Commissioner John J. Tierney, a former member of the School Committee, former City Councillor, Budget Advisor to the Boston City Council in 1966.

Successful Conference

More than 1,000 young men and women from many parts of New England attended the second annual Young Adult Conference on Birth Defects at Sargent College of Allied Health Professions recently. Dean George K. Machecnie was awarded a plaque for his work in organizing the conference by the March of Dimes organization. Making the presentation were Mrs. Winifred S. Hotch, Massachusetts volunteer advisor and James M. Connolly, New England regional chairman of the March.

ABCD Aids Plan for Off-Hour Use of 3 School-houses for Tutoring and Culture

A major breakthrough in the long fight to put Boston schoolhouses to work for their communities during idle late afternoon and early evening hours was achieved when the Boston School Committee voted the off-hour opening of three schools serving areas in Roxbury, Jamaica Plain, and East Boston.

Open for community tutorial, cultural enrichment, and adult educational programs starting this month will be the Charles Bulfinch Elementary School, 841 Parker street, Roxbury; the Lewis Junior High School, 131 Walnut avenue, Roxbury, and the Theodore Lyman Elementary School, 10 Gove street, East Boston. The Bulfinch School serves areas in Roxbury and Jamaica Plain.

The School Committee vote, opening the doors of the schools for worthwhile off-hour community services, was unanimous.

The vote followed a campaign pressed by Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD) through its Community Action Program Committee and the Citizens Educational Advising Committee (CEAC), chaired by Mrs. Judith Rollins of Roxbury.

The campaign was initiated as a major priority issue following a recommendation made by ABCD's Board of Directors in April, 1966.

Plans for setting up and implementing the off-hour programs were worked out by the CEAC, ABCD, and the local Area Planning Action Councils and the Boston School Department.

Supervising operations will be Assistant School Principals Rollins Griffith of Roxbury, I. Michael Sallen of Jamaica Plain, and John Cuono of East Boston.

Serving liaison between the schools and the APACs will be Mrs. Betty Warnum of Roxbury, Mrs. Lillian Overshown of Jamaica Plain, and John Cuono of East Boston, all School Department employees.

The programs will be funded through Section I of the national Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

NOT FOR KOOKS

Maurice Dolbier, New York book reviewer, reports Little, Brown's plans for publication of a book called What's Cooking in Texas by Mary Kooek. He adds, "I hoped I could refrain from calling it a Kooek-book, but I koodn't."

Declan W. Corcoran

Attorney Declan W. Corcoran, 80, died on March 23 at his home at 83 Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton.

He was a graduate of Boston Latin School and Boston University Law School. He served as a captain in the U.S. Army Office of the Judge Advocate during World War I.

He was admitted to practice in 1909 and thereafter maintained law offices in Boston. From 1916 to 1942 he was associated with Walsh and Walsh under the late Senator David I. Walsh. Mr. Corcoran held a distinguished position in the field of probate law, was a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Bar and had been admitted to practice in the U.S. Supreme Court. For over 50 years Mr. Corcoran was a member of the American, Massachusetts, and Boston Bar Associations.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Fitzpatrick, of Natick.

Right Addresses

Veterans or the dependents of veterans receiving compensation or pension payments from the Veterans Administration should report immediately any change of address to avoid delay in receipt of their benefit checks.

William F. Connors, manager of the Boston VA office, said that both the old and the new address should be given in notifying the VA of the fact that they had moved.

CENTAUM Continued

President Louis P. Smith of the Board of Trustees of the Department of Health and Hospitals announced that CENTAUM (Committee for the Educational Needs of Teen-Age Unwed Mothers) will be funded by the city while his department continues to negotiate with ABCD and the federal government to secure outside financial support.

Director Julia Stern, who pioneered the program, personnel, students, and the teachers who have been loaned by the Boston School Department, advised the school would be operated as usual, pending outcome of the negotiations.

HE WANTS OUT

Michael G. Prell of Carbondale, Ill., is probably the youngest person to volunteer for duty with the Peace Corps. This is his letter:

"Dear Peace Corps, I want to join up. I am seven years old. I want to get rid of my two sisters. Please let me join."

The Peace Corps director's office did the only thing it could do. It notified the volunteer he would have to wait until he was 18, but said his two sisters would be welcome to join up too, and "we will send them to countries where you are not."

The Mayor concluded "the recommendations of this committee will be carefully weighed to determine how much of an appropriation, if any, I will request approval from the City Council over the statutory limit permitted by law.

"The hearings," the Mayor said, "will begin at a time acceptable to the School Committee but hopefully within the next ten days."

It's That Time Again

"We are now in the first week of the spring motor vehicle inspection which runs through May 15," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announces. We have certified 3,100 stations to inspect these vehicles but we urge drivers to present their cars as soon as possible to avoid crowded conditions."

Examiners will check the following equipment on passenger and other types of motor vehicles including trucks, trailers, motorcycles, motorscooters and motor-bikes, school buses, and vehicles with farm dealer, repair and owner-repair plates:

1. Brakes.

The National Triennial Convention of the Young Women's Christian Association will be held in Boston from April 24 to 28, Monday through Friday, at the Sheraton Boston and War Memorial Auditorium.

Some 2,500 delegates from YWCA's across the country are expected to attend the primarily legislative session. The national commission of the organization will report on the YWCA as a Christian movement.

In 1866, the Boston YWCA was the first in the United States to use the organization's present name.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will address the convention at the opening session.

Culture for Business?

The solution to Boston's weekend occupancy problem may lie in this city's cultural promise.

Paul Lanigan, manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, told a reporter for the Lodging and Food Service News that a possible answer to the lack of business in Boston's hotel on weekends would be to provide "draws" to induce businessmen meeting in Boston toward the latter part of the week "to make a weekend of it."

Mr. Lanigan pointed out that Roger Saunders, general manager of the Lenox Hotel and president of the Greater Boston Hotel and Motor Inn Association, was right in pointing to the need for more weekend business in the Hub; but that getting people to the city on the weekend wasn't easy.

"What we must do," said the Chamber of Commerce executive "is set up inducements for business meetings in the Hub to be moved from the middle of the week towards the weekend. This would both bring weekend occupancy up, and would free the middle of the week for needed convention space."

When questioned whether the offering of more cultural and other special events on weekends might help reach that end, Mr. Lanigan said he felt that it would. He pointed to the past summers when the now-defunct Boston Arts Festival induced a number of people coming to the town on business to stay on for the cultural program.

Frank Sidlauskas, executive director of the Cultural Foundation of Greater Boston, told the News that he agreed more cultural events would definitely encourage more people to hold meetings closer to the dates of scheduled events.

"It isn't true that businessmen are not interested in the arts," he pointed out. "More and more we see that the intellect goes hand-in-hand with money." He stated that there could be no doubt that more business visitors to Boston would stay for any artistic endeavor.

VI. HIGH COMMENDATION

At 9.07 P.M., March 4, 1967, Engine Company 12 responded to a still alarm for a fire in the dwelling house at 45 Forest street, Roxbury. Box 2135 was struck, and upon arrival of Engine 12 at the fire, a second alarm was sounded because of the extent of the fire and the apparent life hazard.

Fire Fighter Robert L. Mayhew was informed that a child was trapped on the third floor of the building. He proceeded over the front inside stairway, past the second floor which was fully involved in fire to the third floor which was heavily charged with heat, smoke, and gases. After checking the third floor front rooms, he groped his way down a long inside stairway, past the kitchen which was totally involved in fire. Fire Fighter Mayhew heard a faint cry and at the threshold of a back bedroom he found a small child lying on the floor. He picked her up and carried her past the kitchen fire that was now extending into the hallway. He carried her down the front stairs to the street where the child was taken in an ambulance to the Boston City Hospital.

Fire Fighter Mayhew performed the rescue work before any hose lines were in operation and before any ventilation work had been accomplished.

Because of the fact that Fire Fighter Mayhew performed this rescue at great risk and without thought of his own safety, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend him highly, and his case is referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

VII. COMMENDATION

Fire Lieutenant Walter J. LaMontagne of Engine Company 39 and Fire Fighter Anthony J. Serra of Engine Company 43 are hereby commended for sounding an alarm from Box 7425 while off duty at 1.19 A.M., on March 12, 1967, and giving first aid to persons who were injured in a two-car collision.

VIII. LETTERS OF APPRECIATION

The following resolution is published for the information of the department:

"CITY OF BOSTON,
IN CITY COUNCIL.

Resolved, That on behalf of the people of the City of Boston, the City Council expresses to the chief, officers, and fire fighters of the Boston Fire Department, our sincere congratulations for a job superbly performed in the containment and extinction of the dangerous and hazardous fire of a large retail store on Saturday, February 18, 1967, once

School Volunteers

The Boston public schools are seeking the help of volunteers to work with teachers in the classrooms, to set up libraries in individual schools, to give special help to children who are getting behind in their work, and to perform many other services.

There is a greater demand from the schools for help than there are people to do the work. Citizens from the Roxbury-Dorchester area who can give at least three hours per week are needed. No special educational background is required, according to Mrs. Joan Nordell of the School Volunteer Project.

The project is sponsored by the Council for Public Schools, Inc., an independent organization which aids the public schools in Boston and other areas.

Cool Buses Coming

Bus patrons of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority will get a little relief this summer in time for the August dog days.

MBTA directors have ordered 35 air-conditioned diesel buses for delivery by August 1.

The buses will cost $1,076,217.45. The bid was higher than one submitted by Flexible Company, but General Manager Rush B. Lincoln said General Motors will deliver 99 days sooner. A saving of $15,832 in maintenance was indicated.

The new buses will make a total of 210 air-conditioned vehicles out of 350.

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, March 6, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Eternal God, shed the light of Thy holy spirit on the minds and the hearts of Thy servants in this place of civic responsibility and decision. Grant that we may have a clear perception and understanding of what is right, what is necessary, what is helpful, and what is worthwhile in our city government. Then may we be strong and courageous enough to do faithfully and well whatever the occasion or duty may demand. Sustain us always with the confident conviction that truth will prevail and Thy divine will shall be done on earth as it is in heaven.

Hear us, bless us, guide us, now and always. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

INFORMATION RE BRA ACTIVITIES, ETC.

The following was received:

Boston Redevelopment Authority.

March 6, 1967.

Councillor Barry Hynes,
President, Boston City Council.

Dear Mr. President:

Attached please find the answers to a series of questions set forth in an order adopted by the City Council with our apologies for the delay in assembling the material. We hope that you find it useful.

In addition, we have prepared a statistical summary as of March 1, 1967, bringing the material up to date. It indicates that the investment scheduled for this program in renewal areas public, private, institutional and governmental, exceeds one and one-half billion dollars. This major, dramatic total is, of course, made possible by the federal financial commitment of one hundred and ninety-five million dollars.

In the last six years, Boston has received more urban renewal monies than any other city in the United States.

We are pleased to have had this opportunity to give you a brief report of progress to date.

The consistent support of a majority of the City Council has encouraged us in this most difficult work.

Sincerely,

EDWARD J. LOGUE

Federal Regulations Limit Proposed Boston Model City Program to 65,000

On November 3, 1966, President Johnson signed the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966. Its purpose is to enable cities:

"To plan, develop and carry out locally prepared and scheduled comprehensive city demonstration programs containing new and imaginative proposals to rebuild or revitalize large slum and blighted areas; to expand housing, job and income opportunities; to reduce dependence on welfare payments; to improve educational facilities and programs; to combat disease and ill health; to reduce the incidence of crime and delinquency; to enhance recreational and cultural opportunities; to establish better access between homes and jobs; and generally to improve living conditions for the people who live in such areas and to accomplish these objectives through the most effective and economical concentration and coordination of federal, state and local and private efforts to improve the quality of urban life."

The Demonstration Cities legislation recognizes that no single program can solve the interrelated problems of low-income neighborhoods. The law, therefore, provides incentives for greater coordination of new and existing federal and local programs within the Demonstration or Model City area.

It is proposed that Boston after having obtained the approval of the Mayor and the City Council apply for $240,000 in planning funds under this new legislation to develop a five-year Model City program.

May 1, 1967, is the cut-off date established by the federal officials for submission of the application. It must be in by that date if Boston is to be funded by currently appropriated planning money.

Model City Area

Federal legislation requires that the Model City Demonstration program take place in a low-income residential section of the city. Guidelines established by federal officials limit the area selected to no more than 10 percent of the city's population. In Boston's case this means a community of not more than 65,000. Because of the 10 percent limitation, not all low-income neighborhoods of the city can be included.

Careful review of the program and its potential leads us to believe that the area defined on the attached map should be selected for a model city program at this time.

In the proposed model city area, the need for a demonstration program is great—and it is this area of the city which is considered to be the least adequately covered by existing programs.

Franklin Park has also been included because of its potential for cultural and recreational programs for model city residents.

McCormack School

The most expensive school building ever constructed in Boston and the largest single building to be undertaken since the completion of Hyde Park High School in 1929 will be named in honor of John W. McCormack, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

The school, on Mt. Vernon street in Dorchester, is being constructed on a five-acre site and will accommodate 1,100 pupils. Total cost is three million dollars.

The Honorable John W. McCormack is a lifelong resident of South Boston. He was born on Mercer street, lived on Vinton street, and graduated from the John A. Andrew School.

Speaker McCormack was elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1920; the Massachusetts Senate in 1923, and was elected to the 70th Congress to fill the unexpired term of Congressman James A. Gallivan. He was elected Majority Leader of the Congress in 1940 and Speaker of the House in the 87th Congress.

Speaker McCormack holds honorary degrees from Boston University, Holy Cross, Boston College, Tufts, Providence College, Stonehill, Georgetown, and the Catholic University in Washington, D. C. He has been honored as a Knight of Malta and holds the Peace Medal of the Order of Catholic Laymen. The Speaker lives at 726 Columbia road.

Recruiting for City Police Officers Now Stretches Coast-to-Coast; Oakland Tests Signs Them on Spot

(The competition for young aspirants for Police Department jobs through the country has reached a point in which there are almost as many municipal recruiters traveling the nation as there are scouts seeking new Mickey Mantles for professional baseball. The following article concerning the search of Oakland, California, appeared under the by-line of Wallace Turner in the New York "Sunday Times"):

After 11 years of an open field, the Oakland Police Department found competition this year in its national recruiting program for new officers.

When Lieut. Eugene Souza and L. M. Vaughn, an Oakland Civil Service Commission personnel analyst, arrived at Northeastern University in Boston in mid-March, they found the New York Police Department had been there before them.

When they arrived at Michigan State University in East Lansing they found the Detroit police making a bid for patrol recruits. Police Departments in St. Louis, Chicago, and Los Angeles also have begun to reach out into other states for new officers.

This aspect of police recruiting is such an old story in Oakland that it has become institutionalized here. Line items in the city budget finance the recruiting trips. For 11 years recruiting teams have been beating through the Midwest and East, into the Pacific Northwest and even into Southern California.

About a third of the 670-man strength of the Oakland Force has been brought in by recruiting outside the San Francisco Bay area.

Place Ads in Papers

"It was unusual when we started," said Deputy Chief Charles Gain. "But in the past year or so, lots of others have started. We have it all worked out. We place ads in the papers. We talk to the college placement officers. We hold interviews."

The average education level in the Oakland Force is above one year of college. The educational requirement is for high school or the equivalent.

During March, Lieutenant Souza and Mr. Vaughn went to Boston, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Kansas City, Missouri, East Lansing, El Paso, and Phoenix. Their advance promotion had interviews lined up so that they were able to give examinations to 82 men although hundreds were talked with. They examined physical agility and knowledge in written and oral tests. Those who passed were then eligible for medical and psychiatric examinations, to be done by doctors in their home areas.

"If they pass all these," said Lieutenant Souza "we promise them that if they get themselves to Oakland, we'll put them to work the next morning. They'll have a job."

Beginning July 1, patrolmen in Oakland get $711 a month, with experience increases to $758. Chief Gain said this was by no means the top scale among California cities—Oakland has been 49th in the state in police salaries. But it is substantially higher than in many other cities in the Midwest and South. San Francisco patrolmen start at $726.

10 Vacancies Today

"We've been able to stay ahead of the attrition rate in a time of growth," said the deputy chief. "A year ago we had 48 vacancies, and today we had 10."

Of the 82 men to whom examinations were given by the Souza-Vaughn team, only 23 passed. Lieutenant Souza estimated that perhaps 15 of these might become Oakland policemen. The trip cost the city about $7,500.

Meantime, another team is making a similar recruiting swing through Northern California and into Oregon, while a third team will go into Southern California soon.

James Newman, Director of Personnel for Oakland, said three recruiting devices were worked carefully for new policemen. The tours are one. Another is the armed services. A third is the "walk-in."

The Oakland Army Base, a major receiving and shipping point, is the West Coast release center for many veterans from Vietnam. The Oakland police work this lode carefully, and find that their recruiters may later turn up a Kansas veteran who remembers Oakland fondly and wants to return. Others may sign up before leaving Oakland.

The "walk-in" recruits are brought in by such devices as the police van equipped with loudspeakers and literature that visits most big public events around the city.

"We're just unable to get enough qualified personnel around the Bay area," said Chief Gain. "So we worked out ways to get them from elsewhere."

Not nearly all the outside recruits remain in the Oakland uniform, but the deputy chief saw this as a "a healthy thing."

"It's good for professionalism among policemen to have them move on into security jobs, or administrative jobs in smaller departments," he said.

Model City . . .

Government Organization

The intensity of physical and social problems varies from section to section of the proposed Model City area. However, in spite of the heavy commitment of federal and local funds to some neighborhoods and to specific programs, it is recognized there are many gaps in the current effort.

A basic problem from the city's point of view continues to be the lack of funds necessary to meet, at the high level all would desire, some of its public service obligations in the community. To the extent funds become available through this program, they could be used to meet these obligations in as efficient and coordinated a manner as possible—as well as to develop new programs and services to fill the gaps in the current effort.

As is the case with most of the nation's cities, present efforts to provide needed programs are divided among many agencies and city departments and central, in-town administration of some programs has prevented effective contact and communication with area residents.

It is under consideration that the planning will be undertaken by a Demonstration City Department headed by a Demonstration City Administrator appointed by and directly responsible to the Mayor. The Administrator will be empowered to hire staff with Model Neighborhood funds, and with money from other sources that may be appropriated to the program. Staff will be assigned to the department from other city agencies and departments as may be required to carry out the planning program.

Citizen Participation

Participation by the community requires an effective means for continuous and informed review, evaluation, and program development. It is considered essential that some structure be developed which takes into account the need for effective representation of each neighborhood in this the model city program and of the existing community organization. Several organizational forms should be studied during the planning period.

1. Broad-based representation on a policy-making body of the Model City agency.

2. A Model City Development Council, which would be an organization consisting of representatives of all community organizations—with its own full-time professional staff.

3. A Community Development Corporation which could, on a contract basis, carry out some of the planning, action and evaluation functions of the Model City program.

In addition to institutionalized participation and decision making, the program should consider use of local residents and organizations to do some of the actual tasks of data collection, planning and operation of the Model Cities programs.

Jobs and Income

The goal is economic self-sufficiency of every individual and family unit residing within the area. Possible methods being considered for effecting this goal are:

1. Concerted identification of the available unused or underused labor force and of available job openings.

2. An accelerated training operation, including prevocational training.

3. A social service system supportive to manpower operations.

4. Major economic development efforts to attract new investment capital to the Model Neighborhood.

5. A program of income maintenance.

6. Development of transportation to jobs outside the Model Neighborhood.

Social Services

The overriding goal should be to help families and individuals help themselves toward economic independence by comprehensive delivery of social and welfare services.

The approach under consideration suggests a more highly developed coordination of all social services to meet many of the needs of the families in the area than has been available in the past. The approach should bring together, for the first time, public and private services, which could be organized in the form of a confederation.

Public-private neighborhood centers are one such arrangement to achieve this truly concerted impact.

The approach should also insure development of all possible program opportunities for the use of residents in both public and private social welfare programs.

Education

Generally, the goal is to provide a wide range of educational opportunities so that each resident can avail himself of as much education as he needs or wants. The many unrelated preschool, inschool, out of school and adult programs should be made part of an over-all network of educational services for the area.

The basic approach could involve the following interacting themes:

1. Intensive involvement of the community in the schools.

2. Development of a community school.

3. Intensive preparation of students, teachers and parents for a shift to racially balanced schools.

4. Construction of a community college.

5. Greater increased involvement of area universities as a major source of talent to achieve the kind of education desired by the residents of the Model City area.

Crime, Delinquency, and Justice

The long-range goal of the program is to control crime and delinquency in the Model Neighborhood by reducing them to a level within the limits of tolerance adhered to in the more favored areas of the city.

The approach for crime reduction could be:

1. Formulation of specific experimental programs related to particular problems of the Model Neighborhood.

2. Planning for crime reduction approaches which will ultimately become well-established patterns of community life.

As a result, on April 17, at 7.30 P.M., the Mattapan Branch Library will present "Narcotics, the Changing Trends." Patrolman Lawrence McNamara will be the speaker. He will show slides to illustrate his main points, and there will be an exhibition of materials which the audience may examine.

On the same night, April 17, at 7.30 P.M., at the Charlestown Branch Library, the subject will be the Police Department's Canine Corps. The film "Behind Every Shadow" will be shown, and an officer using his own dog will demonstrate the basic methods used to make the dog an effective agent in police work.

A similar program for children, in celebration of National Library Week, will be held at the Roslindale Branch Library at 3 P.M. on April 21.

All three programs have been arranged through the cooperation of the Boston Police Department.

For Never-Too-Laters

Older patrons of the Boston Public Library will see quite a bit of their city this month, either through actual tours or by means of prints and slides.

On April 26, at 10.30 A.M., Sinclair Hitchings, Keeper of Prints, BPL, will speak on "Old Boston" at the Roslindale Branch. He will bring with him historical prints of the city to show to his audience. Mr. Hitchings has been the head of the Library's Print Department since 1961. He is well known throughout this country and Europe for his high standing in the fields of the graphic arts and historical scholarship.

At the Adams Street Branch this week Joseph Cartier spoke to the Group about "Historic Boston and Eastern Massachusetts." Mr. Cartier, a well-known traveler, is himself a Never-Too-Later.

Serious Teen-Agers

Many of the Boston Public Library branches sponsor young adult groups which keep the librarians up to date on new trends in teen-age reading habits and new interests among high schoolers. One of the functions of these groups is to choose the subjects of the programs that the Library sponsors for young people. Right now drugs and crime control are their topics of concern.

Mayor Seeks Funds To Raze Abandoned Buildings in Next Two Years; U. S. To Pay Two Thirds of Cost

Mayor John F. Collins last week submitted a resolution to the Boston City Council requesting approval of a city-wide demolition grant totaling $1,419,000.

The grant will make it possible for the city, within a two-year period, to demolish all abandoned buildings.

Mayor Collins said that approval of the grant by the City Council and the federal government "will do much to help us rid our city of 946 uninhabited buildings which not only blight our communities, but also are potential fire menaces."

The Mayor added that in the past, Boston has expended almost twice as much money for demolition as cities three times its population and size.

The Mayor said in addition to the safety and blight factors "approval will relieve many property owners of undue financial hardships created when their fire insurance has been canceled because of an abandoned building in their neighborhood.

"In many instances," the Mayor added, "such property owners have had to pay many times the normal rate for fire insurance protection."

The Demolition Program will be financed by the federal government, whose two-thirds' share totals $946,000, and the City of Boston paying the remaining $473,000.

The application for the grant, which involves the Building Department and the Department of Housing Inspection, was prepared under the direction of Salvatore J. Messina, Chief of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Improvement, and his staff.

BCH Research

Evidence that antibody formation in response to selected antigens may occur within a relatively few minutes—rather than over a period ranging from a few days to a week—has been advanced by Dr. Mortimer Litt of the Harvard Medical School and the Boston City Hospital.

Speaking at the 51st annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Chicago, Dr. Litt described a set of experiments in which nucleated (possessing a nucleus) red blood cells obtained from chickens were injected into the footpads of guinea pigs. (The red blood cells of the latter being mammalian, have no nucleus.)

The nucleated red blood cells (erythrocytes) are "foreign" (antigenic) and trigger a reaction in the recipient. Specific proteins are produced which react with and destroy the antigens.

Dr. Litt found red blood cells from the chicken in the lymph nodes of the guinea pigs within 10 seconds after they were injected and established that within 10 to 15 minutes they were under attack by antibodies and were systematically being destroyed.

When the lymph nodes possessed preexisting antibody, as caused, for example by repeated injections of the nucleated red blood cells, Dr. Litt reported, the red cells were destroyed more rapidly (within five minutes) and in larger numbers.

Dr. Litt also reported that the antigen-antibody reactions in the guinea pigs could be eliminated, almost entirely, by whole body x-irradiation and the administration of cyclophosphamide (a chemical that prevents the synthesis of new antibody) prior to the injection of the nucleated red blood cells.

Helen Popkavich

Miss Helen Popkavich, Director of Public Relations for the Boston Housing Authority, died on April 8 at Carney Hospital.

She was a graduate of Radcliffe College and for many years served as movie critic for the old Boston Post. Funeral services were held on April 11, at St. Peter's Church, Cambridge.

Charlestown Branch

A modern branch library building is on the planning boards for Charlestown. Scheduled to be erected in the spring of 1968, the branch will be one of the first public buildings to be built under the Charlestown renewal program.

Sears-BCH Unit Develops Blood Test Procedure

A simple, reliable, and rapid method of obtaining the blood concentration of anesthetic gases as well as that of oxygen and carbon dioxide without the taking of blood samples, has been developed in the Sears Surgical Laboratory of the Harvard Medical School's Department of Surgery at the Boston City Hospital.

The method is extremely stable, is not affected by temperature changes, nor by changes in blood pressure. It holds great promise for clinical use in cardiac surgery, in cardiac catheterization, and for patients with respiratory insufficiency (particularly in infants), where it is important to know, at any given time, the blood levels of anesthetic agents, or of blood oxygen or blood carbon dioxide content. Because the time element in the determinations is brief (a matter of a minute) corrective steps can be taken immediately if the levels of either anesthesia or blood gases rise or fall to abnormal or critical levels.

An initial report on the finding which utilizes the principle of gaseous diffusion through silicone rubber tubing, was presented in Chicago recently at the 13th annual meeting of the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs, by Dr. M. Judah Folkman, Associate in Surgery at Harvard and Assistant Surgeon at the Boston City Hospital. Associated with Dr. Folkman in the research were Dr. H. Stuart Winsey, Research Fellow in Surgery from Aberdeen, Scotland, where he is a Registrar in Surgery, and a second-year student at the Harvard Medical School, and Benjamin Cohen.

Their discovery is an outgrowth of prior research (1966) by Dr. Folkman and his associates at the Boston City Hospital Laboratory, in which it was found that common anesthetic gases and vapors diffuse rapidly through silicone rubber and that these anesthetic agents may be administered to the blood stream through arteriovenous shunts (as used in hemodialysis in conjunction with an artificial kidney) or, directly into the blood stream via intravenous catheters made of silicone rubber. Based on current animal research it is believed that the catheter can be left in place for an indefinite period of time without harm to the patient.

"In the process of perfecting one of these catheters for the eventual administration of intravenous anesthetic gas to patients," explained Dr. Folkman, "we encountered unexplained pressure changes in the catheter. It occurred to us that this might be gases from the blood coming back into the catheter—a back-diffusion of gases. The phenomenon was noted on the reading of an aneroid manometer which was attached to the catheter to measure the pressure of the anesthesia gas entering the catheter.

"Our theory was immediately put to test with a 'foreign' gas, nitrous oxide, that is not present in the blood. We administered nitrous oxide, via inhalation, to a research animal.

"When the dog inhaled nitrous oxide," said Dr. Folkman, "we immediately noted a rapid pressure rise within the intravenous catheter, as registered on the manometer, indicating that the nitrous oxide from the blood was entering the catheter."

"The next question that occurred to us," Dr. Folkman recounted, "was whether or not we could measure the level of blood gases, as oxygen and carbon dioxide. We discovered that by flushing the catheter with a gaseous mixture of 95 percent nitrogen and 5 percent oxygen we could obtain an accurate measure of the blood oxygen level. And, by again flushing the catheter with air, we would obtain an accurate measure of blood carbon dioxide."

The blood oxygen and blood carbon dioxide levels, as well as the levels of anesthetic gases, can be obtained in approximately one minute without recourse to the time-consuming method necessary to the testing of blood samples. Comparable blood tests, for example, would require a minimum of 25 minutes.

Dr. Folkman also reported that a problem of fibrin (clot) formation in intravenous catheters which remained in the blood stream for more than four hours had been avoided by administering an anticoagulant—heparin. Tests are now being conducted with catheters externally coated with a layer of heparin-silicone. The layer, in preliminary research, has stopped the clot formation without affecting the normal clotting time of the blood, though it does reduce the permeability of the catheter membrane somewhat. The latter may be avoided by producing catheters with slightly thinner walls.

Dr. Folkman, in the paper presented at the Chicago meeting, pointed specifically to the contributions of Benjamin Cohen, who worked in his laboratory as a second-year student at the Harvard Medical School.

"Mr. Cohen," said Dr. Folkman "was of major help in the earlier portion of the research, then continued on his own to demonstrate that a very thin tube of silicone rubber could be filled with 20 percent potassium hydroxide and inserted into the interior of an intravascular catheter. The inner tubing" he said, "immediately absorbed all the carbon dioxide diffused from the blood into the larger catheter so that the resulting pressure changes within the catheter reflected only the blood oxygen pressure."

Mr. Cohen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen of Macon, Georgia. He entered the Harvard Medical School in 1965 after receiving the A.B. degree from Columbia University.

The new John W. McCormack School will house 32 classrooms, 4 special classrooms, a remedial reading laboratory, library, art room, sewing room, food laboratory, drafting room, special guidance and administrative offices, metal and electronics shops and science laboratories. The school will serve grades 4 to 8 and will be comparable to any in the nation.

Model City . . .

3. The development of programs which depend upon community residents for the work of crime control.

4. Assuring the residents representation by accessible, competent counsel for both civil and criminal cases.

Physical Improvement Programs

The goals for physical improvement planning are considered to be:

1. A significant increase in the supply of standard low- and moderate-income housing.

2. Replacement of obsolete schools and municipal buildings, fire and police stations, court-houses and health units.

3. Bringing all streets up to an acceptable level of maintenance and repair.

4. Replacement and addition of street lights.

5. Rehabilitation of existing parks and playgrounds and the creation of new areas.

6. Provision for a limited number of sites for development of new commercial facilities which could be neighborhood based, owned and managed.

7. Encourage maximum opportunity for the community to participate in the planning, construction, and operation or management of all improvements through some form of area-wide Model Neighborhood community organization and/or Model City Community Development Corporation.

Housing

The goals of the program could include the following:

1. The elimination and prevention of blight and substandard housing conditions through selective removal of unsalvageable buildings and widespread rehabilitation of basically sound dwellings.

2. The creation of new rehabilitated standard housing at cost levels which neighborhood residents can afford.

3. The regeneration of a sound real estate market.

4. Increase in the number of owner-occupied structures through the development of additional financial aids and incentives, and through technical and social supportive services.

5. Programs which encourage: (a) a diversity of housing types, including low, moderate and a limited number of high income dwellings, and (b) reduction of the costs and risks of home ownership and property improvement.

During the planning period it is proposed that a community-based development corporation be formed which could implement many of the housing programs and be directly involved in the planning, construction, and management of the housing. The corporation could also undertake—under contract—specific programs in such fields as recreation, education, and city service programs.

Health

The over-all goals of the health program in Model Cities are:

1. Reduce the incidence of illness and death in the Model Cities area to a level consonant with good health.

2. Provide available comprehensive and coordinated family-directed health care.

3. Develop community action in health programming.

4. Integrate health services in the over-all Model City program by effective delivery of these services at the neighborhood level.

Under the aegis of the Department of Health and Hospitals, a plan for comprehensive family health services in the Model neighborhood will be developed, utilizing local service facilities, serving not less than 10,000 people, nor more than 30,000. These services will treat the family as a whole unit, providing interrelated medical, social, psychological care, as needed, as well as other connected and free services. Possible starting points for planning would be:

1. In Highland Park: with New England Hospital.

2. In Jamaica Plain: with the Bromley Heath Family Health Center, and the Harvard Street Health Unit.

3. In Roxbury-North Dorchester: with the comprehensive community health center proposal, which has been submitted to OEO.

4. In Dorchester: possible expansion of Harvard Street Health Unit, coordinated with Boston State Hospital's Community Mental Health Program.

He placed the victim over his shoulder and removed her to the street.

This rescue work was performed before ventilation had been effected or before a hose line had been placed in operation.

The following letter received from Representative Anthony J. Scalli by the Fire Commissioner is published for the information of the department:

"March 7, 1967.

DEAR COMMISSIONER:

This morning approximately 100 passengers were injured when two MBTA trains accidentally collided on the superstructure on City square, Charlestown.

Among those who answered the emergency call were officers and men of the Charlestown Division of the Boston Fire Department.

The exceptional speed with which these able men responded was both heartwarming and encouraging. Their training and experience brought order, where there was confusion; instilled courage, where there was fear; and infused hope, where there was despair.

Their complete understanding of the problem, and the clear thinking manner in which they unselfishly confronted it is most commendable.

Congratulations to the Boston Fire Department, particularly to the dedicated officers and fire fighters of Charlestown for a job well done.

We are indeed grateful and fortunate to have such an excellent fire fighters division in Charlestown.

Sincerely yours,

ANTHONY J. SCALLI,
Representative.

The following letter was addressed to the Honorable John F. Collins:

"February 22, 1967.

DEAR MAYOR COLLINS:

I wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere debt of gratitude to the Boston Fire Department for the outstanding service these men rendered Saturday, February 18, in connection with the C. Crawford Hollidge disaster.

There is no doubt in our minds that our building at 145 Tremont street, adjacent to the Hollidge Building, would also have been destroyed were it not for the outstanding efforts of the firemen to save it.

Not to be overlooked was their courteous, cooperative manner and their concern for our equipment and furnishings. They should be officially commended.

Most sincerely,

REXFORD A. BRISTOL, President,

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, March 13, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 p.m., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Reverend Michael Bowab, of St. James Catholic Church, Harrison Avenue, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY REVEREND MICHAEL BOWAB

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

We stand before You this day, O God, in humble and earnest prayer. It is said that prudence is the handmaid of all virtues. We can not help but wonder if this is not a lost art. We seem to be immersed in an age which knows only extremes. As a consequence, bitterness, hatred, strife, these become the ingredients of our lives. Freedom is used as a respectable term for idoltry, lawlessness and licentiousness. This superficial rationalization has made a great contribution to the breakdown of family life—ultimately to the breakdown of law and order.

O God of wisdom, restore to us the beauty of prudence. Revivify within the bosoms of mankind the need and necessity of this virtue. Strip from our souls the pride that is the cause of these extremes. Restore within us this handmaid of life that we might always act as the dignified creatures You intended to create. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

APPOINTMENT BY THE MAYOR

Subject to confirmation by the Council, the Mayor submitted the following appointment:

Weighter of Goods for the term ending April 30, 1967:

Thomas F. Connolly, 4 Chase Street, Dorchester.

Referred to the Committee on Confirmations.

PROPOSED REDUCTION IN $7,500,000
ORDER

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1967.
To the Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen:

Your Honorable Body rejected my order, dated January 23, 1967, which proposed an amendment to a 1954 loan order of $7,500,000 for the construction of departmental buildings.

For the following reasons, I am herewith resubmitting my order of January 23, 1967:

1. The action of your Honorable Body has left standing an authorization of $5,750,000 which will not and cannot, in the opinion of bond counsel, be used for the purposes of the original authorization.

2. The action of your Honorable Body makes it impossible to go forward with the repairs to schools, which would be authorized under my order submitted January 23, 1967, providing for the borrowing of $3,000,000 for Alterations and Repairs of School Buildings.

3. The action of your Honorable Body makes it impossible to go forward with the planning and construction of new streets and sewer facilities, and modernization and improvements to four police stations authorized under my orders submitted as a part of the 1967 Capital Budget on February 6, 1967, which orders total $5,888,000.

If the order which I am herewith resubmitting for your consideration is not adopted, I shall have no alternative except that of withdrawing from consideration the order for Alterations and Repairs to Schools dated January 23, 1967, and the chapter 44 loan orders made a part of the 1967 Capital Budget dated February 6, 1967. The total chapter 44 authorizations requested in those orders, in addition to the departmental equipment order, would exceed the debt limit of the city by $3,143,608.34.

As a matter of sound fiscal policy, we require, in addition, a reserve borrowing power within the city's debt limit of at least $2,500,000. This means that our borrowing requirements will exceed the debt limit by a total of $5,643,608.34, unless the accompanying order is adopted.

Chapter 93 of the Acts of 1891 requires that the year's current debt limit be certified to the City Council prior to April 1. If the order which is herewith resubmitted is not adopted by the City Council prior to April 1, 1967, this office, regrettably, will have no alternative except that of resubmitting loan orders which will reduce alterations and repairs to school buildings, construction of new street and sewer facilities, and modernization of police stations by the amount of $5,643,608.34.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the order appropriating $7,500,000 for the construction of departmental buildings which order was passed by the City Council once on September 7, 1954, and again on September 27, 1954, and approved by the Mayor on September 28, 1954, be, and the same hereby is, amended by striking out the sum of "seven million five hundred thousand dollars ($7,500,000)" and inserting in place thereof the sum of "one million seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($1,750,000)."

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION FOR DEMOUNTABLE
CLASSROOM UNITS

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 9, 1967,
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am enclosing herewith a communication from the Director of Public Facilities in which he has requested the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) for the construction and originally equipping thirty-eight (38) demountable classroom units requested by vote of the Boston School Committee on March 6, 1967. This order is also enclosed.

The Public Facilities Director makes note of the time limitations, imposed by law, which might result in a delay of completion of these units beyond the September 1st scheduled date. Barring any unforeseen circumstances, however, the Director has assured me he will make every effort to meet the tight schedule.

I am therefore submitting the enclosed order with my approval and a request that this order be considered by your Honorable Body as expeditiously as you feel proper.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Facilities Department,
March 8, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Enclosed is a certified vote of the Boston School Committee requesting funds for constructing and originally equipping thirty-eight demountable classroom units. It is my opinion that such funds should be made available in an estimated amount of one million dollars.

Because of the legal limitations for approval of a loan order under chapter 642 of 1966, a period of fourteen days is required by the City Council between readings of approval and further the request must be approved by a two-thirds vote. In addition, section 8A of chapter 44 of the General Laws requires that, after such approval, a period of twenty days must elapse before the City Auditor can legally certify funds. It would appear then, that the earliest date for certification will be April 23, 1967.

We have already been forced to postpone bid opening from March 15 to March 29 in order to allow time for all these steps to be taken within the allowable period of thirty days after bid opening, during which a contract can be awarded. This removed two weeks from what was always a painfully tight schedule. Any further postponement would make completion of these units by September 1st extremely doubtful.

Advertising as we did before approval of funding offered the only possibility of timely completion of this project. By this means we are obtaining dual use of the two-month period from March 1 to April 30. Pursuing the normal procedure we would have advertised about April 29, opened bids about May 29, and awarded a contract about June 15, leaving only two and one half months to obtain and install thirty-eight classroom units.

Very truly yours,
MALCOLM E. DUDLEY, Director.

Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be requested to provide funds for constructing and originally equipping thirty-eight demountable classroom units.

On roll call the order was passed by the following vote:

Yeas—Mr. Eisenstadt, Mrs. Hicks, Messrs. O'Connor and McDonough—4.

Nays—Mr. Lee—1.

A true copy.

Attest:

EDWARD J. WINTER, Secretary.

Ordered, That the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated for planning, designing, acquiring land for, constructing and originally equipping structures and facilities the City of Boston is authorized to construct for the purposes of its School Department; and be it hereby further

Ordered, That to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized, under the provisions of section 7 of chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966, to issue from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. LANGONE moved the order be referred to the Executive Committee to hold an executive meeting this afternoon at an hour to be specified, an hour from now, 3.30, and to have the Director of Public Facilities appear before the City Council to explain this particular matter to us.

The motion was carried, and the order was so referred.

PROPOSED SALE OF CERTAIN LAND ON WEST EIGHTH STREET TO JOSEPH SCHNEIDER

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 9, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication received from John F. Flaherty, Chairman of the Public Improvement Commission, advising of the discontinuance as a public highway of a portion of West Eighth street, from D street approximately 90 feet northwesterly.

Joseph Schneider, Trustee of the 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust, is the owner of all the land abutting the discontinued portion of West Eighth street and has offered to purchase the discontinued area of 3,124 square feet for the sum of $1,500. I submit herewith a proposed form of order authorizing the sale and recommend the same for adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Improvement Commission,
February 28, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins, Mayor of Boston, and the Boston City Council.

Gentlemen:

By letter dated March 11, 1966, Joseph Schneider, Trustee of 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust, requested the Public Improvement Commission to discontinue a portion of West Eighth street, South Boston. The petitioner owns both sides of the discontinued portions requested and intends to construct a security enclosure to prevent acts of vandalism to their property.

A duly advertised public hearing was held on May 31, 1966. On August 16, 1966, this Commission prepared an order for the discontinuance of a portion of West Eighth street, South Boston district, as a public highway, from a point approximately 163 feet northwest of D street approximately 90 feet northwesterly, containing 3,124 square feet, in accordance with Joseph Schneider's request. Said discontinuance was made subject to all existing easements for utilities.

It is the recommendation of this Commission that the land be sold to Joseph Schneider, Trustee of 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust, for $1,500 (approximately 50 cents per square foot).

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY, Chairman,
Public Improvement Commission.

Whereas, By an order of the Public Improvement Commission of the City of Boston dated August 16, 1966, a portion of West Eighth street, South Boston district, was discontinued as a public highway; and

Whereas, The City of Boston is the owner in fee of the aforesaid discontinued area of West Eighth street, containing three thousand one hundred twenty-four (3,124) square feet of land; and

Whereas, Joseph Schneider, Trustee of 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust, is the owner of all the land abutting the discontinued portion of West Eighth street and has offered to pay the City of Boston the sum of fifteen hundred (1,500) dollars; and

Whereas, The Public Improvement Commission has determined that the discontinued areas are no longer required for public purposes and has recommended the sale of the discontinued portion of West Eighth street to Joseph Schneider, Trustee of 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust; now therefore it is hereby fifteen hundred (1,500) dollars, the following-described parcel of land subject to the right and easement of the City of Boston to lay, construct, maintain, repair and renew water and sewerage works as shown on plan hereinafter referred to.

Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to sell at private sale and to execute and deliver an instrument in writing conveying to Joseph Schneider, Trustee of 60 Old Colony Avenue Trust, for a price of not less than

A certain parcel of land, being the discontinued portion of West Eighth street, South Boston, bounded and described as follows:

Southeasterly by another portion of West Eighth street, thirty-seven and 70-100 feet; southwesterly by the southwesterly line of West Eighth street as hereby discontinued, seventy-six and 31-100 feet; northwesterly by the northwesterly line of West Eighth street as hereby discontinued, thirty-nine and 91-100 feet; and northeasterly by the northeasterly line of West Eighth street as hereby discontinued, eighty-nine and 41-100 feet, containing three thousand one hundred twenty-four square feet, more or less.

(Attached hereto are supporting documents.)

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 9, 1967.

Gentlemen:

Whereas, There is currently pending before the Committee on State Administration of the Great and General Court of the Commonwealth a bill numbered Senate 804 containing proposed legislation relative to the reorganization of the State Department of Public Welfare and Administration of the Public Welfare system of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Under said bill there would be a consolidation of the present 240 local welfare units throughout Massachusetts into 50 "Community Service Centers" for the distribution of social and legal services designed to help recipients who, through age, illness or other reasons, are not capable of earning a living wage; and

Whereas, In recognition of the fact that the obligation to contribute toward public assistance programs is in no way related to and should in no way be dependent upon the part of the Commonwealth in which a citizen resides, said bill would require the state to assume that part of the cost of the welfare program presently borne by local government; be it therefore

Ordered, That the Boston City Council records itself in favor of the passage and enactment of Senate Bill 804; and be it further Ordered, That a copy of this order be forwarded to His Excellency the Governor, the Honorable Senate President, the Honorable Speaker of the House, and the Honorable Chairman of the Legislative Committee on State Administration.

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, March 20, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Eternal Father, in these sacred solemn hours of Holy Week, reverently do we consider, openly do we confess, shamefully do we admit our human weakness if not our malice in offending Thee, by disobedience of Thy law, revolt against Thy authority, denial of Thy wisdom, ingratitude against Thy friendship, our iniquities are multiplied above the sands of the sea. Now is the time to ask for mercy and forgiveness. Have mercy on us O God according to Thy great mercy. Let the full free tide of Thy tender mercy cleanse our souls so that no trace, no mark, no scar, no stain, not the slightest sign remain. May the message and the meaning of this Holy Week, its sacrifice and its love, be embraced by the citizens of our city that they may be cleansed from all sin.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

HOSPITAL, MEDICAL AND SURGICAL BENEFITS FOR EMPLOYEES OF SUFFOLK COUNTY

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 9, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

On March 6, 1967, the County of Suffolk contracted with "Massachusetts Hospital Service, Inc." and "Massachusetts Medical Service" providing for Hospital, Medical and Surgical benefits to all employees, of Suffolk County during the calendar year 1967. These insurance companies now propose that a new contract be executed with the County of Suffolk, covering the period April 1, 1967, to December 31, 1967, both dates inclusive, under the terms of which the County of Suffolk and the employees would expend less money and yet the benefits would become available to many more County of Suffolk employees than heretofore. The existing contract would of course terminate, effective April 1, 1967.

I therefore transmit herewith an order under which the County of Suffolk would contract with the aforementioned insurance companies, so as to provide Hospital, Medical and Surgical benefits for the period April 1, 1967, to December 31, 1967, both dates inclusive, for all employees of Suffolk County; and further authorizing the Mayor to enter into the said contract. I urge the passage of this order by your Honorable Body, in order that the employees of the County of Suffolk may be afforded the insurance coverage now proposed through the execution of this contract.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Voted, That the County of Suffolk make application for and enter into a contract with "Massachusetts Hospital Service, Inc." and "Massachusetts Medical Service" for Hospital, Medical and Surgical benefits for its employees for the period April 1, 1967, to December 31, 1967, both dates inclusive, and further that the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and hereby is, authorized to execute said contract and such application as may be necessary therefor.

Referred to the Committee on Public Services and Recreation.

WITHDRAWING LOAN ORDERS UNDER CHAPTER 44

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1967.

To the Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen:

Because your Honorable Body has rejected my order, dated January 23, 1967, which proposed an amendment to a 1954 loan order of $7,500,000 authorized for the construction of department buildings, and because your action has, in effect, thereby reduced the available borrowing power of the City of Boston, I am today withdrawing those loan orders related to chapter 44 descriptions of which are attached, which were submitted under dates of January 23, 1967, and February 6, 1967.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

3. An order for five hundred and ninety thousand dollars ($590,000) for remodeling, reconstructing, or making extraordinary repairs to public buildings owned by the city.

4. An order for sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) to be raised by taxation to be expended for remodeling, reconstructing or making extraordinary repairs to public buildings owned by the city.

5. An order for three million one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($3,150,000) for the original construction of public ways or the extension or widening thereof, including land damages and the cost of pavement and sidewalks laid at the time of said construction, or for the construction of stone, block, brick, cement concrete, bituminous concrete, bituminous macadam, or other permanent paving of similar lasting character.

6. 7. An order for three million dollars ($3,000,000) for remodeling, reconstructing, or

COMMUNICATION RE LAW STUDENTS PROSECUTING CASES

The following was received:

Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts,
3 Joy Street, Boston, March 15, 1967.

City Council,
City of Boston.

Dear Sirs:

We have received a copy of the resolution dated February 27 concerning the use of law students to prosecute cases in the lower courts of Suffolk County, and asking for the comments of the Civil Liberties Union.

I understand that this practice is by a recently adopted rule of court. The Executive Committee of the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts has considered this matter and does not feel that there are any constitutional issues involved in this practice which concern the Civil Liberties Union.

Very truly yours,

HOWARD S. WHITESIDE, Chairman.

RELOCATION OF AMVETS POST NO. 128 IN WASHINGTON PARK

The following was received:

Boston Redevelopment Authority.

Coun. Barry T. Hynes, President, Boston City Council.

Dear Councillor Hynes:

In reply to City Council order adopted on January 30, concerning the relocation of 366 Infantry AMVETS Post No. 128, please be advised as follows:

The AMVETS' property on Walnut avenue in the Washington Park Urban Renewal area was acquired by the Boston Redevelopment Authority on November 8, 1963. Since that time, the staff at Washington Park has kept in constant touch with Post No. 128 in a continuing effort to find quarters for rent or for sale that would adequately relocate the organization.

Discussions were held to consider the possibility of securing a neighborhood facility grant for AMVETS. Attempts were made to secure the availability of a community room at the Academy Homes site. A list of tax-foreclosed properties has been reviewed with the result that two of these properties were determined by the BRA to be suitable for rehabilitation and organizational use by Post No. 128. A privately owned building on Thornton street in Roxbury, suitable for rehabilitation has also been discussed. In the event that Post No. 128 wishes to proceed with a building program instead of renting or purchasing, an offer to review Boston Redevelopment Authority owned lots has also been suggested.

When AMVETS Post No. 128 makes its final decision, the staff of the Washington

Park Renewal area has already indicated to the Post officers that all possible assistance will be made available to them.

Sincerely,

EDWARD J. LOGUE.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON URBAN RENEWAL

Coun. McDONOUGH, for the Committee on Urban Renewal, submitted the following:

1. Report on message and report (referred February 6, 1967) on review and progress under workable program—recommending placing the same on file.

The report was accepted, and the report was placed on file.

2. Report on message of the Mayor and order (referred February 20) approving Urban Renewal Workable Program—recommending that the order ought to pass.

The report of the committee was accepted, and the order was passed, yeas 6, nays 3:

Yeas—Councillors Hines, Hynes, Iannella, Kerrigan, Langone, McDonough—6.

Nays—Councillors Craven, Foley, Piemonte—3.

In connection with the two foregoing reports, Councillor Piemonte, member of the Committee on Urban Renewal, submitted the following minority report:

MINORITY REPORT

BY

COUNCILLOR GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE, MEMBER OF THE BOSTON CITY COUNCIL, COMMITTEE ON URBAN REDEVELOPMENT, REHABILITATION AND RENEWAL

Action on the resolve before the City Council of the City of Boston requesting approval of the "Workable Program" is supposed to be predicated on the contention that the "Workable Program" was carefully studied and reviewed by the City Council. The order and resolve read as follows:

"Whereas, The City of Boston has undertaken a comprehensive program of urban renewal designed to eliminate slums and blight from the city; and

"Whereas, The National Housing Act of 1954, as amended, required that a community seeking urban renewal funds demonstrate through a 'Workable Program' that the city is doing its part to prevent the spread of slums and blight; and

"Whereas, The City of Boston recognizes its responsibilities and has in operation a 'Workable Program' of urban renewal which was approved by the Administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the previous year; and

"Whereas, An annual restatement of the 'Workable Program' is a requirement of the National Housing Act; and

"Whereas, The 'Workable Program' contains a statement of the city's progress in seven areas as follows:

- (1) Codes and Ordinances
- (2) Comprehensive Community Plan
- (3) Neighborhood Analysis
- (4) Administrative Organization

- (5) Financing
- (6) Housing for Displaced Families
- (7) Citizen Participation; and

"Whereas, The 'Workable Program' has been carefully studied and reviewed by the City Council after public hearing; now therefore be it

"Resolved, By the City Council of the City of Boston that:

"The Review of Progress under the Program for Community Improvement (Workable Program), herein incorporated by reference, be, and it hereby is, approved; therefore it is "Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to notify the Administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development of such approval; it is further

"Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to supply such additional information or make such modification in the Review of Progress under the Program of Community Improvement (Workable Program) as may be necessary to serve the approval of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Administrator, provided such modification shall not substantially change any of the provisions thereof."

The order was submitted to the City Council by the Mayor on February 6, 1967. Hearings were held by the Committee on Urban Redevelopment on March 2, March 3, and March 7, 1967.

The Boston City Council consists of nine members elected at large. Only four members of the Council ever attended any of the aforementioned hearings. Transcripts were taken at the hearings and as yet have not been made available to any of the councillors. Yet, today, we are voting on this resolve indicating that the "Workable Program" has been carefully studied and reviewed by the City Council."

Likewise, we are voting on the Review of Progress under the Program for Community Improvement (Workable Program), incorporated by reference in the order. This was presented to the Council for the first time at the hearings and today we are by our action indicating that it "has been carefully studied and reviewed by the City Council."

1. Codes and Ordinances. Many words have been spoken and written about "Code Enforcement" in the Boston program. The fact is that though enforcement of minimum standards for dwelling units has been a requirement for Urban Renewal participation since 1955, Boston today, twelve years later, finds itself without a coordinated program to carry out the same.

The Housing and Environmental Sanitation Unit is made up of fifty (50) inspectors and ten (10) senior inspectors. Of these thirty-two (32) are permanent Civil Service employees. The other twenty-eight (28) are provisional employees, hired by the City Administration at random and with no regard for qualification requirements.

Boston also has an Office of Neighborhood Improvement. This unit works out of the Mayor's Office and also has twelve (12) Code Enforcement Officers. These, too, are hired by the City Administration at random and are not taken from any qualified list.

In addition, there are inspectors operating from the Building Department and other inspectors from the Fire Department.

2. Comprehensive Community Planning. The lack of any comprehensive community plan in Boston is obvious. The recent hearings on the "Campus Site" furnish a good example. At these hearings no mention was made of any plans for the pupils attending the two grammar schools that are contained in this site. Those testifying showed no awareness of the fact that these two schools were contained in the site which called for demolition.

3. Neighborhood Analysis. As might be expected whenever a program is spearheaded by groups who are themselves receiving funds from the program, oftentimes the emphasis is directed towards the side most favorable to the program and not to a true reflection of the neighborhood.

A good example is the hearing held in March of 1966 to vote on whether or not public housing should be included in the Washington Park Project. The meeting was held at the Freedom House. Some two thousand (2,000) families were being displaced from the project area, the vast majority being low income. At this meeting there were only seventy-four (74) in attendance. The vote was forty-five (45) against including public housing, twenty-nine (29) for.

This vote remains unchallenged despite the fact that only seventy-four were in attendance. As a result, no low-income public housing is being provided for, despite the fact that two thousand low-income families have been displaced from the project area; nor is there any provision for any private low-income housing.

4. Administrative Organization. Heralded by the cry, "This is Federal money," the Boston Redevelopment Authority has been able to carry on a spending spree, subject only to its own whims; although the Authority is made up of five (5) members, four (4) appointed by the Mayor of Boston, and one (1) by the Governor.

As a result of carefully planned and directed public relations, the Administration has been successful in creating the impression that Logue is responsible for the administration of the program.

This year's payroll for personnel in the Boston Redevelopment Program will exceed $3,800,000. The number of employees has mushroomed to five hundred (500). These employees are not hired from any qualified or established public list, but are hired at random.

This does not include the personnel in the planning and zoning division; nor does it take into account, the hundreds of thousands of dollars that are paid annually by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for outside services of consultants, engineers, and architects.

By placing emphasis on their success in the vast amount of monies obtained from Washington, the Administration has successfully obscured the real question. How much has the Urban Renewal program done for Boston and its people?

5. Financing. Sufficiency of data on this phase may be determined by the answers to questions submitted by the Council by my orders, first filed in January of 1966, and which were received on March 6, 1967, and only after the Redevelopment Authority has been prodded by four or five other orders, dates of which are January 17, May 2, 16, 23, September 19, 1966, January 3, February 13, 1967.

6. Housing for Displaced Families. It is obvious that this is one of the biggest failures of the program. How can it be stated that the Redevelopment Authority has satisfied this important phase when according to its own testimony during these hearings, they displayed a lack of knowledge of the number of families to be displaced by governmental action for highways, etc.; also the lack of the number of large-sized units to take care of the families displaced and lack of the knowledge of the economic factors such as income and rents of families being displaced, even in its own projects.

An attempt is made to cover this phase on Page 26 of the Review submitted; however, I refer to the transcript of the hearings which clearly indicates that is not the picture.

7. Citizen Participation. The Review of Progress of the Workable Program submitted at the hearings and which is to accompany the resolve contains a list under the heading of Citizens Advisory Committee and also sets forth dates on which it is alleged meetings were held of the Citizens Advisory Committee.

The fact of the matter is that the meetings held were those of the "Executive Committee." How this Executive Committee is created or its membership selected is unknown. Certainly not by an election of the Citizens Advisory Committee. There is every indication that the list of membership as shown is for window dressing. There is no active participation by the "Citizens Advisory Committee."

The facts presented at the hearings and all of which one can take public notice of do not warrant approval of the Workable Program. Accordingly, I do not approve the same and cast my vote as opposed.

The report was accepted.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR
WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR., WORKABLE
PROGRAM, 1967

I. CODES

FIRE.—Chief Clougherty testified on the Workable Program. He is the Chief of the Boston Fire Department. During his career with the department he has specialized in fire prevention. The Chief testified the first line of defense against fire is the so-called "in service" inspection. The equipment while alert to respond to a fire, travels through the streets and the firemen inspect properties in their districts. The Chief indicated every property should be inspected once a year. He reported that about 37,000 inspections were made in the pertinent year. Since there are about 235,000 living units in Boston, and since there are at least 90,000 buildings, we are falling far short of an adequate fire inspection system in the City of Boston, and a fire code without inspection is meaningless. The Chief testified the department is unable to achieve the target of an annual inspection of every property because of lack of men. Lack of adequate service, of course, is common to most of the activities of the present administration.

BUILDING.—We have been revising our Building Code now for about six or seven years. The Building Commissioner year after year has testified the present system of doing it on an amateur basis is getting nowhere, and getting nowhere not very rapidly. The revision of the Building Code must be accomplished in other ways, yet all of this was known years ago and nothing has been done by this administration.

The old chestnut, inspection of elevators in the City of Boston, is as far from an effective program as ever it was in these eight years of the Collins' administration.

The same layer upon layer upon layer of housing inspection program offered for public relations purposes and nothing else was apparent again this year, all with respect to the area of Housing Inspection.

CONCLUSION.—For the Council under these circumstances to say that we have sufficient codes and effective enforcement is beyond all reason. We do not. The Collins' administration has failed and failed miserably and the City Council ought to say so.

II.

The federal urban renewal program is one which is designed for cities with reasonable strength economically speaking, and with bad social problems. Boston hasn't the acute social problems of other cities, although we have some, but Boston has a very delicate economy with which to support itself. Boston's problems in this area are tricky and difficult but must be faced. Logue's solution is to excuse himself from the battle. This Council ought to say so. Without sound economic policies there is no Workable Program for Boston. Destroying 42 industrial acres in Charlestown. Destroying 55 acres of a lumber yard complex in Charlestown. Converting 28 acres at Castle Square to residential reuse. Driving the produce merchants out of Boston. All those policies are senseless, and the City Council ought to say so. If it did, there is an excellent chance there would be a change; that is, if it did say so here and now on the Workable Program.

For years I have suggested that the one employee which the Boston Redevelopment Authority really needs is an economist with a substantial reputation, because no economist in the world with a substantial reputation would certify that this urban renewal program we have in Boston, Logue's urban renewal program, makes any sense with respect to Boston's economic needs. Logue, therefore, doesn't dare hire such a person, even though many years ago he acknowledged on the record such a person was needed.

III.

To sit through these workable program hearings at those times when mathematical support was required is to realize how thoroughly Logue's policy vis-a-vis the Council has permeated the BRA. Logue on every occasion afforded him demonstrates his contempt for the Boston City Council, the local governing body of this city. This year was no different, but now his subordinates do so as well. The first day on as simple a matter as the accounts from which Logue's own salary is drawn, a deliberate misrepresentation was offered the Committee on the cynical theory that nobody in this Body knows enough about renewal to question the BRA on that minor point.

Figures, numbers and totals are hurled without end but never the important ones. It seems never to occur to any employee of the Redevelopment Authority that an important statistic ought to be supplied. For example, who were the people driven from Roxbury by the Washington Park urban renewal plan? Was it the poor living there or the middle class, or perhaps the people with something more than that? They don't know. It never occurred to them somebody might ask. Ask them how many units they managed to produce in their eight years of operations, and they will then give you a figure which represents the sum total of all units that Ed Logue ever dreamed of multiplied by 4. But if you ask how many units are actually available for occupancy after eight years, they find it very difficult to lay their hands on that figure. With respect to the provision of units for the lowest of income classes we serve in public housing, when we made inquiry as to what happened to the 1,000 units which the City Council approved in 1960, we are given a torrent of figures showing they are practically all built. When we ask flatly how many units out of a 1,000 are available for occupancy after eight years, the answer is 146. Disgraceful. I challenge anyone to say that this program is working, if this administration is able to open up and make available only 146 out of a 1,000 in eight years. But the Council tolerates this sort of deception, this sort of contempt. I predict that as surely as the sun comes up in the east the Council will continue to be offered this sort of contempt until it exercises its undoubted powers and forces a change.

IV.

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION.—This is the biggest joke of all. The Citizens Advisory Council hasn't offered a constructive suggestion yet to my knowledge. In the areas with which I am familiar, South Boston, Jamaica Plain, Mission Hill, and Charlestown, those citizens participating with the BRA run grave danger from their fellow citizens of that ancient British punishment, banishment. The voters have made it quite plain what they think of the BRA and those who help in those areas.

V.

These hearings, however, offered me my greatest satisfaction in many a long day. We discovered that a project in South Boston which supposedly never was, was, in fact, ended by the Development Administrator; the project in East Boston which supposedly never was, was, in fact, ended by the Development Administrator; the project in Jamaica Plain which supposedly never was, was, in fact ended by the Development Administrator. We discovered, further, that several thousand families in the City of Boston had held over their heads unnecessarily the threat of eviction long after the projects, had, in fact, been ended by the Development Administrator in a secret correspondence with Mr. Horan in New York City. If this is a Workable Program, then the city should adopt as its anthem the march Cornwallis' band played at Yorktown, "The World Turned Upside Down."

However, my judgment of the Development Administrator has, at last, been confirmed. He was caught at the Workable Program hearings in a gross act of political treachery to the man who appointed him and provided him with $30,000 annually these eight long years. I only conclude that they deserve one another.

WILLIAM J. FOLEY, Jr.,
Member, Committee on Urban Renewal.
The report was accepted.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONFIRMATIONS

Coun. FOLEY, for the Committee on Confirmations, submitted the following:

On motion of Councillor Piemonte, the Council voted to take a recess at 3.55 P.M., subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President HYNES, at 5.45 P.M.

INCREASING PERMISSIVE INCOME TO RETIRED VETERANS

Coun. LANGONE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston City Council record itself in favor of the acceptance of General Laws, chapter 733 of the Acts of 1964 relative to increasing the amount of permissive income for certain veterans retired from public service because of disability; further

That a copy of this order be sent to the Director of Administrative Services for the purposes of obtaining the number of veterans eligible under this act.

Passed under suspension of the rules.

JOB BY JOB SURVEY OF EMPLOYEES OF BOSTON REDEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

Coun. LANGONE offered the following:

Whereas, The Federal Housing Act of 1965 as amended has developed a new concept for rehabilitation and renewal of cities through a new program of code enforcement which will give this program a new concept of rehabilitation of cities through expansion of code enforcement laws and standards.

Whereas, These funds will be channeled through agencies other than the Boston Redevelopment Authority and decrease the planning functions of said Authority; be it

Resolved, That the Boston City Council record itself in favor of a job by job survey of all the planning jobs in the Boston Redevelopment Authority with the idea of determining the future need for such positions; and

Further, That the expansion of the code enforcement agency of the city, namely, the Housing Inspection Department and the new Public Facilities Commission which is responsible for the construction of all public buildings in Boston, might be used to utilize the experience and knowledge of any of the qualified persons who might be needed in these new areas of responsibility for rehabilitation and renewal; and Further, That the survey should be conducted with the future needs of the rehabilitation and renewal programs of the city.

On motion of Councillor McDonough, the resolution was referred to the Executive Committee.

CONGRATULATIONS TO BASKETBALL SQUAD OF TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

Coun. McDONOUGH, for all the Councilors, offered the following:

Whereas, The basketball squad of the Technical High School has brought great honor to itself, its school, and its city by the series of victories culminating in the championship of the Class A Division of the Eastern Massachusetts Interscholastic Basketball Tournament, the so-called "Tech Tourney," on Saturday, March 18, 1967, at the Boston Garden; and

Whereas, This is the first time a Boston high school has achieved such a notable success in the sport of basketball; be it therefore

Resolved, That the Boston City Council extends its congratulations to every member of the Technical High School basketball squad and to its coach, Ed Grant, for their achievement in bringing great honor to Boston Technical High School and also expresses its appreciation to them for bringing this honor to Boston.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

COMMENDATIONS TO NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND BOSTON GAS COMPANY

Coun. McDONOUGH offered the following:

Whereas, In Boston today there exists a threat to the public health and safety as the result of contaminated air, and

Whereas, This threat increases year by year as the amount of polluting emissions increases due to increased numbers of motor vehicle and other forms of combusive emissions, and

Whereas, It is therefore important that all agencies, private or public, demonstrate their commitment to obtaining and then maintaining cleaner air; and

Whereas, The two hereinafter named companies have taken a significant step to demonstrate such a commitment; be it therefore

Resolved, That the Boston City Council commends the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Boston Gas Company for their initiative in furthering the community's effort to reduce the amount of dangerous and offensive materials in the atmosphere by voluntarily equipping their newly acquired motor vehicles with pollution control devices.

The resolution was adopted under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 6.01 P.M., on motion of Councillor Iannella, to meet on Monday, March 27, 1967, at 2 P.M.

Mayor Pledges Congress Every Local Resource for Model City Success

Mayor John F. Collins told a House Subcommittee in Washington on April 20 the $412 million Model Cities Program "Offers this nation the greatest opportunity it has ever had to search for a meaningful solution to urban problems."

Mayor Collins, speaking as a former president of the National League of Cities, told the members of the U. S. House of Representatives that Boston "is willing to commit every local resource necessary to achieve the goals of the Model Cities Program."

Mayor Collins told the Committee "Urban problems are so critical that local governments will not be able to pay for needed services and programs without federal help."

The Boston Mayor told the Washington audience "Every member of our society is affected by the urban crisis." He said "Rising crime rates threaten the moral fiber of our nation. Air and water pollution know no boundaries. Traffic congestion endangers our economic well-being. And finally, problems in the field of health and education will, if we do not find solutions, jeopardize the lives of our children and our grandchildren."

Following is an abstract of the Mayor's remarks:

"It is a pleasure to appear before you to discuss the important matter of appropriations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's vital grant programs.

"My position on the financing of federal urban development grant programs is well known—our efforts at the local level to find adequate financing for critically needed programs is hamstrung by inadequate, short range, stop and go funding of federal grant programs. Today we are discussing programs that have been subjected to this sort of approach. They offer many, many promises—but without adequate, long range funding, they are only empty rhetoric in the face of critical urban needs.

"All of these programs deserve the minimum funding requested by President Johnson. I believe he has been realistic in his requests for HUD appropriations. He realizes that the federal government's commitment should be greater, but he has tempered his requests for funds in light of the war in Vietnam and uncertain economic conditions.

"But he has requested, on behalf of urban America, enough funds to get us started. Congress has authorized all of these funds in recognition of the critical needs of our nation's local governments. I strongly urge you to fulfill our nation's commitment to these needs by appropriating the funds the President has requested.

Fenway Renewal OK'd

The Federal Housing and Urban Development Department has approved the 507-acre Fenway Renewal Project and has allocated a grant of over $9 million to the Boston Redevelopment Authority to carry out renewal plans. The project notably comprises the heart of Boston's major medical and educational institutions. It is anticipated that there will be public and private construction investments of about $125 million in the project area including a $70 million development by the Christian Science Church.

Major features of the plan include:

1. Rehabilitation of 80 percent of the existing residential structures.
2. Construction of 4,000 units of middle and upper middle income housing.
3. Realignment of Parker and Hemenway streets and Westland avenue; widening of Massachusetts and Longwood avenues.
4. Expansion programs by Northeastern, Emmanuel College, Wentworth Institute, Children's Hospital, and Harvard Medical Center.

Park League Opening

The Boston Park Department's Senior baseball league, believed to be the oldest twilight league in the United States, will open Monday, May 8, League Director Bob Cusick

The Silversmith

The man who "spread the alarm through every village and farm" was more famous in his own time for his very considerable talent as a silversmith than for his ability in rousing the countryside.

For the 50 years that Paul Revere plied his art there was no better silversmith in America. His reputation has never diminished, and his works are as much appreciated today as they were by the prosperous merchants and shipowners who ordered them 200 years ago.

Paul Revere's shop for many years was at the head of Clark's Wharf in the North End of Boston. This teeming wharf, with its busy shops, counting houses, sail lofts, and warehouses along one side, and vessels of all types tied up at the other, was second in size and importance only to Long Wharf.

The shop, like the wharf, is long gone. However, a representation of its interior—as accurate as available records of the period will allow—may now be seen in a fascinating miniature diorama being completed for Boston's Museum of Science.

A gift of Reed and Barton, the well-known Taunton, Mass., silversmiths, the exhibit will be the fourth in the Museum's growing series on Historic New England Industries. It will be opened to the public next Tuesday, April 25, following an official presentation on Monday evening, attended by representatives of Reed and Barton, and trustees and friends of the Museum.

Still Champions

Mayor John F. Collins said, following the Celtic elimination in the NBA play-off, "The Celtics always will be champions to their hundreds of thousands of fans in Boston."

Mayor Collins, who watched Philadelphia defeat Boston on his home television set, said "of course we are disappointed that the long reign of the Celtics has come to an end, but the hours of pleasure and the years of glory which they brought to Boston will live forever.

"Boston," Mayor Collins said, "is the birthplace of champions and although one era ended last night, I am sure next year will be the beginning of an even greater era and that the Celtics will bring back the NBA flag to the place where it flew proudly for eight years. The Celtics never quit on us, we shall never quit on them."

Home Repair Month

May—National Home Improvement Month—a 31-day effort to encourage home owners to remodel, improve, and modernize their dwellings, has been established by the National Home Improvement Council, the National Association of Home Builders, the National Lumber and Building Material Dealers Association, and the National Established Repair Service and Improvement Contractors' Association.

In 1965 the national remodeling expenditure was approximately 13 billion dollars. That's approximately $235 for every American family. For every $10 spent on new home building another $8 was spent on home improvement. And yet millions of homes still need remodeling if the Great Society is to come into being.

Death Spot Studies

"In a stepped-up effort to correct high accident locations as quickly as possible, I have instructed Registry of Motor Vehicles enforcement personnel to transmit significant and vital information concerning fatalities on state highways to the Traffic Engineering Section of the Department of Public Works," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announced.

The release of this information directly to the traffic engineers will assist them in analyzing current data and also expedite corrective measures to promote highway safety.

While this is not a new program for the Registry, the streamlined "flash report" system should be of great value to our Department of Public Works in accelerated analysis and remedial action.

Research Grant for BCH-Thorndike Doctor

Dr. Charles S. Davidson, associate director of the Second and Fourth (Harvard) Medical Services and the Thorndike Memorial Laboratories at Boston City Hospital, is one of 11 members of the Harvard Medical School faculty awarded a grant of more than $50,000 for basic research, teaching, and training in the medical sciences.

The grant is one of a total of $3,290,572 made by the National Institutes of Health of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to Harvard's Medical, Dental and Public Health Schools. Dr. Davidson, long associated with Boston City Hospital, is associate professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School. His research work under the grant will be carried on at BCH.

Model City . . .

Offers Greatest Opportunity

"My statement focuses in some detail on the various appropriation requests. I would like to mention several of them briefly at this point.

"The Model Cities Program offers this nation the greatest opportunity it has ever had to search for meaningful solutions to urban problems. It will allow us to couple physical with social renewal programs, and it will enable us to intensify necessary municipal services in those areas which need them most. The results of this program will be transferable to every urban situation in the country.

"As I have indicated in my statement, we in Boston have undertaken the development of a program for an area of the city with the greatest needs in an effort to qualify for the Model Cities Program. We are willing to commit every local resource which is necessary to achieve the goals of this program; we only ask that the federal government's commitment be equal to the promise this program holds for the future of the people who live in our target area.

"The Title II Metropolitan Development appropriation request is equally important to our metropolitan area. Through the Metropolitan Area Planning Council of the Greater Boston Metro Area, we are seeking area-wide solutions to common problems.

"While we may not be ready at this moment to qualify for the grants authorized by this title, we will be soon. We hope that your willingness to fund this program now will lead to positive demonstrations of the fact that this program will lead to sound urban development.

Technical Assistance Vital

"Finally, the other new program authorized by the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966, the Title IX Urban Information and Technical Assistance Services program, offers a great deal of opportunity for the smaller units of local government. These units lack the resources to employ or retain adequate technical and professional staff, but this program will enable them to get the technical services they so vitally need.

"Through our association, the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns, we are developing a meaningful proposal under Title IX. Therefore, it is our hope that you will fund this program at the level requested.

"My entire statement indicates that we seek all that the President requested. We are making this request in light of the overwhelming needs of local government over the next decade.

"Urban problems are so critical that local governments will not be able to pay for needed services and programs from their own resources. A recent study conducted by General Electric Company's TEMPO Center for Advance Studies indicated that local governments' total revenue needs over the next decade will be $1,025 billion. Of this amount, local governments will be able to raise all but $262 billion.

"This gap must be filled by our federal and state governments. We look to you to start by meeting a portion of the commitment our nation has made to the solution of its urban problems."

Park League . . .

announced following a meeting of managers at Park Department Headquarters.

Cusick said that the Senior Division again will be an eight-team league.

An expected boon to attendance this season is the installation of lights at Dorchester Town Field to permit night ball. Work on the project is going on, but the field is not expected to be ready for opening night.

Cusick said that the three teams which use Town Field as their home park, the defending champion Connelly Club, the Kelly Club, and the Supreme Saints, will be assigned other home fields until Town Field is ready.

John Tosko

A Requiem High Mass was sung on April 25 at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Jamaica Plain, for retired Boston Patrolman John Tosko, 72, of 7 Lourdes avenue, Jamaica Plain. He died on April 21.

A native of Poland, he lived in Boston for more than 50 years. He retired from the department in 1959 after 32 years on the Force. He was assigned to the Jamaica Plain Division.

He was a charter member of the Chelsea American Legion Post and was a member of the Boston Police American Legion Post. He was a veteran of World War I.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Rose Dudewach of Pawtucket, R. I., and Monica, in Poland, and a brother Joseph, in Poland.

India Wharf Plans

Construction is scheduled to begin this summer on a $25 million complex consisting of two 39-story apartment towers and a 1,500-car garage on India Wharf. The site for the luxury apartment houses is adjacent to the nearly completed Aquarium on Central Wharf in the Waterfront Project area. Designed by S. M. Pei & Associates, each structure will contain 300 units with a completion date tentatively set for the summer of 1969.

"It's true that I've driven through a number of red lights," confessed Glenn Gould, the eccentric Canadian concert pianist. "But, on the other hand, I've stopped at a lot of green ones I've never gotten credit for."

MODERN ART

A Boston mother was pleased but puzzled with the Christmas card her son brought home from kindergarten. It showed a scraggly looking tree with presents dangling from it, and in the center something that looked strangely like a bullet. Explained the youngster, "It's not a Christmas tree— it's a cart-ridge in a pear tree."

Annual Weekend Retreat

The Annual Weekend Retreat of the James Michael Curley Retreat Group will be held at the St. Francis Retreat Lodge, Sharon, Mass., from Friday evening, May 5, through Sunday, May 7. More than 50 friends of the late Governor and the deceased members of his family are expected to be present.

This year marks the 36th year in which the Curley Group have been assembling annually, formerly at the Franciscan Friary in Brookline and presently at the Franciscan Fathers Retreat Lodge in Sharon. It also marks the ninth year since the death of the late Governor, who made it a point previous to his demise, to attend these annual retreats, which originated in memory of his late son, James M., Jr.

The group is headed by Lawrence W. Costello, who served as Administrative Assistant to the late Governor for a period of 25 years.

Rev. Francis X. Curley, S.J., son of the late Governor, has signified his intent to offer the sacrifice of the Mass on Sunday, May 7, at the Retreat Lodge.

Any other male friends of the late Governor desirous of making the 1967 Retreat are requested to contact Mr. Costello, Room 50, City Hall, for reservations.

Municipal Clerks' Dance

The Annual Dinner-Dance of the Municipal Clerks' Association will be held at Moseley's on the Charles, 50 Bridge street, Dedham, Mass., on Tuesday evening, May 23, at 7 P.M.

As on previous occasions the affair is being held for the members, each of whom may bring a female guest. The dinner, which will consist of tenderloin of beef, will be served with all the fixings promptly at 7 P.M., during and after which they will be entertained by a special program of talent hired exclusively for this event. There will also be dancing and refreshments.

As is the custom at our Association affairs, tickets will be issued to members individually, or for a member-and-female-guest. The burden of the cost, including tips for the meals, will be borne by the Association, with the assessment on tickets set at $3.50 for a member, or $5.50 for a member-and-female-guest. Because arrangements must be made in advance, No Tickets Can Be Sold at Moseley's. Tickets will be sold to members (and members only) up to and including Friday, May 19.

In the light of the successes of previous years, the Committee anticipates another enjoyable evening for the members and their wives or sweethearts.

Reservations can be made through Martin A. Fulton, at the Auditing Department (Room 11), or John T. Gorman, Room 403, City Hall Annex, or your department representative. Timothy J. Coffey of the Auditing Department is Chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

U.S. Aids B.P.D.

Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara announced that the federal government will grant $15,000 to instruct Boston policemen in the newly created science of police and community relations.

Commissioner McNamara said that about 20 top-level police officers will attend courses at Boston University, Northeastern University, and the Dale Carnegie Institute. When they have finished their studies, Commissioner McNamara said, the officers will convey what they have learned to the other 25,000 policemen on the force.

Capt. Jeremiah P. Sullivan will be local coordinator for the program; Supt. John T. Holland will serve as liaison officer between the police and neighborhood groups.

Officers who attend the classes will be instructed on how to talk effectively to other groups or to individuals and how to conduct workshops and seminars in similar subjects.

RULES ARE RULES

Singer Margaret Whiting overheard a woman ask the owner of a plush restaurant if she could enter wearing pants. "Only, madam," he said, "if you are a lamb chop."

Know Your Zip Code

Letter carriers in the 25 cities and towns in the Boston Postal District are delivering notices to 565,000 families and business firms, advising them of their own Zip Code for use in return addresses.

The $9,500,000 worth of equipment ordered for the South Postal Annex will include optical readers to electronically sort 36,000 pieces of mail an hour by "reading" Zip Codes.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin said distribution of the notices will continue through this week.

WHAT WAS IT?

Sam Hinton, curator of the museum at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, tells of a time the museum was consulted about a strange fish. The man who caught it described it over the phone to a Scripps janitor, the only person around at the time. The janitor couldn't identify it. Next morning the story made headlines: "Strange Fish Baffles Scripps Scientists."

SALE OF DISCONTINUED PORTION OF BELVIDERE STREET TO CHURCH REALTY TRUST

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication received from John F. Flaherty, Chairman of the Public Improvement Commission, advising of the discontinuance as a public highway of a portion of Belvidere street, at the intersection of Falmouth street, Boston Proper, and recommending its sale to Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alvord, and George H. G. Caulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust.

On February 27, 1967, I transmitted to your Honorable Body a message and order recommending the sale of several parcels of discontinued ways to the Church Realty Trust and, as stated in Commissioner Flaherty's communication, it was intended that this portion of Belvidere street be included in the original order. I therefore request that this order be heard at the time of the hearing on the order of February 27, 1967, and recommend the adoption of the same by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Improvement Commission,
March 7, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston, and the Boston
City Council.

Gentlemen:

Since submitting my communication of February 14, 1967, with respect to the discontinuance of certain streets in the First Church of Christ Scientist complex, this commission held a duly advertised public hearing this day for the discontinuance of a portion of Belvidere street, Boston Proper, as a public highway, at the intersection of Falmouth street, containing approximately 1,337 square feet, more or less.

It had been assumed that this portion of Belvidere street was actually laid out as part of Falmouth street and had been included in the Falmouth Street discontinuance order of January 17, 1967. However, further engineering studies revealed that this particular portion was laid out as part of Belvidere street under an order of the Public Improvement Commission and Mayor dated June 6, 1962 (as shown on attached plan).

Following the public hearing, this commission has determined that public necessity and convenience no longer requires this portion of Belvidere street for public use and, accordingly, voted to discontinue this portion of Belvidere street at the intersection of Falmouth street. This discontinuance was made excepting and reserving to the City of Boston all existing sewer and water utility rights and easements.

This commission has agreed to accept an offer from Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alvord and George H. G. Caulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, of $5,910 for the discontinued portion of Belvidere street. This price represents payment of $6 per square foot for the land owned in fee by the City of Boston. It is therefore recommended that a sale be made to Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alvord and George H. G. Caulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, for this sum in accordance with their offer of purchase.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY, Chairman,
Public Improvement Commission.

Whereas, By an order of the Public Improvement Commission of the City of Boston dated March 7, 1967, a portion of the highway named Belvidere street was discontinued as a public highway, said discontinued area consisting of approximately 1,337 square feet of land; and

Whereas, The City of Boston is the owner in fee of approximately nine hundred eighty-five (985) square feet of land within the discontinued area above referred to; and

Whereas, The Church Realty Trust is the owner of land abutting the discontinued portion of Belvidere street and desires to acquire the interest of the City of Boston in the discontinued area for the purpose of redevelopment and has offered to pay to the City of Boston the sum of five thousand nine hundred ten dollars ($5,910); and

Whereas, The Public Improvement Commission has determined that the discontinued area of Belvidere street is no longer required for public purposes and has recommended the sale of the City of Boston's interest to the Church Realty Trust for the sum of five thousand nine hundred ten dollars ($5,910); now therefore it is hereby

Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to sell at private sale and to execute and deliver an instrument in writing conveying to Roy Garrett Watson, Lincoln Alvord, and George H. G. Caulton, Trustees of Church Realty Trust, under deed of trust dated second day of May, 1946, recorded Book 6223, Suffolk Registry of Deeds, Page 545, for a price of not less than five thousand nine hundred ten dollars ($5,910) the following described parcel of land subject to the right and easement

of the City of Boston to lay, construct, maintain, repair and renew water and sewerage works as shown on a plan hereinafter described:

A certain parcel of land being the discontinued portion of Belvidere street bounded and described as follows:

Southerly by Falmouth street as discontinued under an order of the Public Improvement Commission and Mayor dated January 17, 1967, eighty-six and 12-100 feet; westerly by the westerly line of Belvidere street as it existed prior to this order, forty-six and 69-100 feet on a curve of twenty-two and 60-100 feet radius; and northerly by another portion of Belvidere street, ninety-eight and 06-100 feet, containing one thousand three hundred thirty-seven square feet, more or less.

The above-described parcel of land is shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Belvidere Street, Boston Proper, March 6, 1967, Frederick L. Garvin, Division Engineer, Public Works Department."

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

To: Henry T. Brennan, Budget Commissioner.
From: Joseph J. Berlandi, Secretary.
Date: March 16, 1967.
Subject: Operating Budget for 1967.

Pursuant to our conversation on Thursday, March 16, it is respectfully requested that an Operating Budget for 1967 be appropriated by the city for the Back Bay Architectural Commission, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 625 of the Acts of 1966.

The commission, at its executive meeting on March 14, recommended and approved the following budget:

Office supplies, etc.....	$1,000
Salaries, etc.....	1,000

-------------	---------

The requested budget of $2,000 is based upon the appropriations granted to a similar commission for Beacon Hill.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

ASSESSMENT OF CERTAIN MASSACHUSETTS PORT AUTHORITY PROPERTY

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Corporation Counsel with reference to your order of recent date requesting the Commissioner of Assessing to assess real estate and personal property taxes on all businesses conducted for profit on Massachusetts Port Authority property.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, March 14, 1967.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

This is in response to your request for my advice with respect to the order passed by the City Council on February 20, 1967, that you request the Commissioner of Assessing to assess real estate and personal property taxes on all businesses conducted for profit on Massachusetts Port Authority property.

With two exceptions hereinafter noted, section 17 of chapter 465 of the Acts of 1956 creating the Massachusetts Port Authority provides not only that "the Authority shall not be required to pay any taxes or assessments upon any project or any property acquired or used by the Authority under the provisions of this act" but also that "no property of the Authority shall be taxed to a lessee under section three A of chapter fifty-nine of the General Laws." Even in the absence of such express statutory provisions, the Supreme Judicial Court recently reached the same result in Board of Assessors of Newton v. Pickwick, Ltd., Inc., Mass. Adv. Sh. (1967) 143, where the Metropolitan Transit Authority had leased the former Newton Center Station for a retail clothing store. Accordingly, I must advise you that it would be improper for you to request the Commissioner of Assessing to assess real estate taxes to lessees of the Massachusetts Port Authority unless one of the two explicit exceptions applies, i.e., the land lies within the Commonwealth Flats in South Boston or was subject to taxation on the assessment date next preceding its acquisition by the Port Authority.

I understand that businesses conducted for profit on Port Authority property are currently assessed personal property taxes to the same extent as other businesses conducted for profit, so that there is no need for your Honor to request the assessment of personal property taxes.

Respectfully,
J. J. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Coun. FOLEY moved that the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to conduct a legal research in depth to determine whether there may exist grounds to appeal this provision of the statutory law of the Commonwealth to the Supreme Court of the United States upon constitutional grounds.

The motion was carried.

The foregoing communication was placed on file.

RESPONSIBILITY OF CITY COUNCIL ON PURCHASE AND SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, March 27, 1967.

To the Honorable the City Council.

Gentlemen:

This is in response to your request for an opinion as to the effect of chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966 on the responsibilities of the City Council and its Committee on Public Lands concerning the purchase and sale of public lands.

Before land can be purchased, an appropriation for the purpose must exist. Under St. 1966, c. 642, s. 14, all appropriations for the purchase of land require a vote of two thirds of all the city councillors passed only after two separate readings and by two separate votes, the second of said readings and votes to be had not less than fourteen days after the first. Prior to St. 1966, c. 642, appropriations for the purchase of land for school purposes were exempt from this provision. See St. 1948, c. 452, s. 17E, as appearing in St. 1951, c. 376, s. 1.

Similarly, before land can be taken, an appropriation for the purpose must exist. Under St. 1909, c. 486, s. 31, as amended by St. 1966, c. 642, s. 12, no land shall be taken by eminent domain until an appropriation by loan or otherwise for the general purpose for which land is needed shall have been made by the Mayor and City Council by a two-thirds vote of all its members. Here again, the 1966 amendment dropped the 1909 exception respecting land for school purposes.

St. 1966, c. 642, makes no change in the provision in St. 1948, c. 452, s. 17E, as appearing in St. 1951, c. 376, s. 1, that neither the City Council nor any member, committee, officer or employee thereof shall directly or indirectly on behalf of the City or of the County of Suffolk take part in the purchase of real estate.

Prior to the passage of St. 1966, c. 642, discontinued school lands were sold by the board established by St. 1906, c. 259; and all property acquired by the City by tax title foreclosure as well as all real estate of the City not held for a specific purpose irrespective of the manner or time of acquisition of such real estate were sold at public auction by the Commissioner of Real Property or his predecessor in function under St. 1943, c. 434, as amended (see especially St. 1950, c. 318). Under St. 1909, c. 486, s. 31B, as appearing in St. 1966, c. 642, s. 12, discontinued school lands, foreclosed tax title property and real estate not held for a specific purpose may be sold by the Public Facilities Commission without further authority than the approval of the Mayor.

Other public lands have been sold under St. 1948, c. 452, s. 17E, as appearing in St. 1951, c. 376, s. 1, requiring a vote of two thirds of all the city councillors passed only after two separate readings and by two separate votes, the second of said readings and votes to be had not less than fourteen days after the first. St. 1966, c. 642, does not change the provision last cited. In fact, St. 1909, c. 486 s. 31A, as appearing in St. 1966, c. 642, s. 12, while empowering the Public Facilities Commission to transfer from one municipal purpose to another, explicitly requires the transfer to be a "specific municipal purpose" to preclude by-passing the provision in St. 1948, c. 452, s. 17E, just mentioned.

Finally, just as St. 1943, c. 434, s. 2A, as inserted by St. 1951, c. 159, authorized the City Council to transfer to the Commissioner of Real Property for sale by public auction land held for a specific purpose but no longer used therefor, so also St. 1909, c. 486, s. 31B, as appearing in St. 1966, c. 642, s. 12, enables the City Council, if it so elects, to transfer such land to the Public Facilities Commission for sale under the provisions of said Section 31B.

Respectfully,
JAMES J. SULLIVAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

On motion of Councillor Foley, the communication was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Coun. PIEMONTE moved that the Clerk be instructed to have copies made of the foregoing communication and that they be distributed to the members of the Council today.

The motion was carried.

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT TO $7,500,000 ORDER FOR CONSTRUCTION OF DEPARTMENTAL BUILDINGS

The following was received:

Hon. Barry T. Hynes,
President, City Council.

Dear Sir:

This is in response to your oral request for my opinion as to the vote necessary to pass the order pending before the City Council to amend a loan order of September 28, 1954, appropriating $7,500,000 for the construction of departmental buildings by striking out the sum of $7,500,000 and inserting in place thereof the sum of $1,750,000. Such amendment would be tantamount to the rescission of the unissued portion of the loan authorization therein.

Although St. 1948, c. 452, s. 17E (as appearing in St. 1951, c. 376, s. 1) required two readings four-teen days apart and a two-thirds vote for the passage of the original order, I am of the opinion, in view of Adams v. Townsend Schoolhouse Building Committee, 245 Mass. 543, 549, that that order may be amended as set forth above on a single reading by a majority vote provided that the provisions of the last sentence of Rule 18 of the City Council are suspended pursuant to Rule 35. It unquestionably is within the power of the City Council to suspend, waive or modify its rules of procedure if it sees fit. Braconier v. Packard, 136 Mass. 50, 52. It is essential, however, that the vote appear to be treated as the final action of the City Council. Bennett v. New Bedford, 110 Mass. 433, 438.

Respectfully,

J. J. SULLIVAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

Coun. LANGONE, for the Committee on Appropriations and Finance, submitted the following:

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I submit for your approval the Report of the Committee on Appropriations and Finance concerning our findings regarding the 1967 Annual Budget of the City of Boston.

It was not the committee's intention to arbitrarily cut the budget at the expense of effective and efficient municipal services. Instead, a great portion of the time during the hearings was spent in an investigation of the general over-all policy of the various departments.

After full discussion and careful consideration, your committee recommends that the Appropriation and Tax Order for the year 1967 as submitted by the Mayor be passed with reduced items as shown on the attached schedule.

For the Committee,

FREDERICK C. LANGONE, Chairman,
Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

TREASURY DIVISION, TREASURY DEPARTMENT

49 Item—$3,500

It is recommended that the amount for Land Court Fees (Sec. 50B, Chap. 60 of the Gen. Laws) be reduced by $3,500 based on an anticipated 345 cases at $45 per case.

CITY DOCUMENTS

29 Item—$15,000

It is difficult to project the cost of this account on an annual basis, but previous experience indicates that it can be reduced by $15,000.

REAL PROPERTY, BUILDINGS DIVISION

26 Item—$5,000

A reduction of $5,000 in this account will still provide more than was allowed in 1966. The head of this department stated that barring unforeseen emergencies that the amount remaining should provide for the proper maintenance of the buildings under his control.

29 Item—$5,000

$5,000 is recommended to be deducted from the 29 Item as it has been ascertained that this sum is sufficient in view of the work that has to be done.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

27 Item—$5,000

A reduction of $5,000 for the servicing of automotive equipment based on the fact that a considerable amount of said equipment will be purchased during the year, thus effectively reducing the amount of repair work to be done.

49 Item—$25,000

It is recommended that $25,000 be reduced from this item, since the new computer which was budgeted for a full year will not be installed until July.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

27 Item—$5,000

This department will also receive a considerable amount of automotive equipment, therefore, a reduction of $5,000 is recommended in the account for servicing automotive equipment.

TRAFFIC AND PARKING DEPARTMENT

27 Item—$1,000

For the same reasons indicated in the Police and Fire Departments relative to the purchase of new automotive equipment the committee feels that it is consistent to reduce this item.

29 Item—$20,000

It is the considered opinion of the committee that $80,000 is entirely adequate for the painting of white lines and crosswalks for 1967.

BOSTON REDEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

29 Item—$120,000

Community Renewal Program.....	Requested	$140,000
Suggested reduction.....		(40,000)
Revised Amount.....		100,000

The city's share of Community Renewal will total approximately $300,000. Council approval of revised amount above should cover costs to be incurred during calendar year 1967 without interference to the program.

Campus High School.....	Requested	$250,000
Suggested reduction.....		(60,000)
Revised Amount.....		190,000

It is felt that this amount should enable the Authority to carry out essential planning, engineering and appraisal work currently needed. Contingencies and other services have been eliminated with this reduction and only essentials remain.

Transportation Studies.....	Requested	$70,000
Suggested reduction.....		(20,000)
Revised Amount.....		50,000

Reduction represents funds originally requisitioned as necessary for research studies on a matching basis for federal monies. Federal grants at this time appear speculative and above reduction should not hamper the remaining suggested studies.

PUBLIC WORKS

27 Item—$15,000

It is recommended that the amount appropriated for the repair of automotive equipment be reduced by $15,000.

29 Item—$40,000

It is recommended that the amount appropriated for street cleaning be reduced by $40,000 because of the 17 additional sweepers that will be on the street in 1967.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT

27 Item—$1,000

It is recommended that the amount appropriated for the repair of automotive equipment be reduced by $1,000 because of the new equipment this department is to purchase this year.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT

Hospital Division

26 Item—$50,000

It is recommended that $50,000 be deducted from the amount requested for the repair and maintenance of buildings. This program will not be implemented until May and the figure originally presented to this Body was based on a full year's program.

29 Item—$5,000

In this item the department requested $15,000 for an engineering contract for a full year. Since this contract has not yet been implemented it is recommended that it be reduced by one-third which would amount to $5,000.

49 Item—$20,000

A reduction in this account of $20,000 seems appropriate since the figure recommended for the rental of a computer was for the entire year and it has been determined that it will not be in operation until June.

Health Division

29 Item—$30,000

It is recommended that this item be reduced by $30,000. This figure is predicated on the fact that since the consolidation of departments many of the services formerly performed by the Health Division have been absorbed by the Hospital Division.

PUBLIC FACILITIES COMMISSION

29 Item—$50,000

It is recommended that this account be reduced by $50,000. This amount to be taken from the School Space Needs Contract, which will leave $100,000 to initiate this survey. Of the remainder, $92,074 is for rentals of school accommodations, graduations, and the Dorchester Y.M.C.A. Swimming Pool.

EXECUTIONS OF COURT, DAMAGE CLAIMS, ETC.

It is recommended that this budget be reduced by $25,000. The allowance of $375,000 will be more in line with 1966.

COMMUNITY CONSERVATION COMMITTEE

$20,000

An amount of $50,000 was recommended for the operation of this program for the entire year. At the budget hearings it was determined that the program will not be implemented until May, therefore, it is recommended that $20,000 be cut.

RESERVE FUND

$100,000

With an additional $50,000 in the court budget for Masters and Auditors, this account can be reduced by $100,000 and actually have more money than in 1966.

HOSPITAL AND INSURANCE PLAN

$50,000

Since this budget was submitted the actual figures have become available. Therefore a reduction of $50,000 is recommended.

MINORITY REPORT

By GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE, MEMBER, BOSTON CITY COUNCIL

Boston may be winning its battle abroad but is steadily losing ground in its battle at home.

This year's budget is meaningless as an indicator of Boston's fiscal statement for the year. A budget should properly reflect the expenditures for the year of the current operating expenses as well as for capital outlays and the relation to the current revenues for the same year.

The budget as presented in itself is meaningless. It does not give a full picture of Boston's proposed expenditures for the year. In addition, it is incomplete because it fails to provide an estimate of what the revenues are expected to be for the year. How can the City Council properly evaluate the budget unless the Mayor tells the Council all of the expenditures and from all sources — loans and otherwise — and unless he also tells the Council what the estimated revenues will be from all sources. Without these the Council is merely analyzing one piece of the total 1967 fiscal picture for Boston; and not even given the tools to do this adequately.

The councillors are handicapped in evaluating last year's experience of each department with the moneys provided last year with this year's request. As of this date the final figures of each department for the year 1966 have not been finalized. And though three months of 1967 have gone by, we are unable to obtain the experience of the city for these three months. It is obvious that this information would be of considerable help in evaluating this year's budget which was made up in December of 1966.

Then again the transfer of moneys appropriated for the various departments in 1966 and transferred from one department to another or even intradepartment is not available. This, too, would be of great value in a proper evaluation of the budget.

Also, after December 10 of each year, the Mayor may without any approval of the Council transfer moneys from one department to another and from one account to another in order to balance out for the year. This information, if it were made available, would also be of tremendous value.

With data processing as advanced as it is in the country today, we should be able to know how much the city has spent in any account as of the moment the information is requested. The citizens of Boston never get an account of what the city has really spent and how much it has collected each year. The progressive cities put out this information in simplified and self-explanatory form.

Another reason why the budget is meaningless in getting a true picture of the city's financial experience each year is the device used by the city in the form of loan orders to pay for current operating purposes such as for welfare, repairs of buildings, and equipment. For example:

March 14, 1961	Departmental Equipment Loans.....	$3,000,000
December 31, 1963	Departmental Equipment.....	$1,854,000
November 4, 1964	Welfare Loan.....	$4,500,000
August 11, 1966	Departmental Equipment.....	$300,000
October 25, 1966	Welfare Loan.....	$2,000,000

If for no other reason than the perilous financial position, Boston finds itself in with a soaring debt load of over one hundred seventeen million dollars ($117,000,000), Boston must revamp its entire approach to budgeting.

The President, for example, with the federal budget has requested that all departments adopt the latest in budgetary concept, a system calling for planning and programming.

The budget hearings disclosed many opportunities to get a full dollar's value for every tax dollar spent going unheeded. For example:

No attempt is made toward realizing dollar savings that go with volume purchasing; there still is no program or directive from the administration to correlate the total quantity of like supplies or equipment by the various departments of the city for the purpose of effecting the savings that accompany volume purchasing.

As a matter of fact the library division of the city which does its own purchasing pays much less for standard stationery supplies than the city does through its regular purchasing department; in some instances the city pays as much as 20-30 percent more.

During 1966 the City Hospital treated 151,777 emergency patients; 304,339 outpatients.

Despite the fact that today so many people are covered by Blue Cross-Blue Shield or some other form of hospital or medical insurance, no attempt was made to collect for the medical services rendered by the city and not one cent was collected.

Data processing which is an integral part of every well-run business is still an orphan in Boston's business administration as is evidenced by the lack of any direction or coordinated program.

STATEMENT BY COUNCILLOR

PETER F. HINES

Upon receiving unanimous consent to make a statement, Councillor Hines stated that this administration has had available 53 million dollars for school construction for three or four years, has 115 million dollars for construction of any new building since chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966 was passed, yet they have obtained authorization to spend 1 million dollars for 38 shacks for temporary school buildings.

He stated that now that school construction funds are no longer being held up by the State Board of Education, there is no justification for these temporary buildings, the use of which is opposed by school administrators and teachers alike.

He further stated that the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations and Finance should be commended for his tremendous work on the annual appropriation and tax order; that the City Hospital staff has done a tremendous job in reorganizing their bill-collecting procedure; that 300 to 400 additional police officers should be restored to the Police Force.

STATEMENT BY COUNCILLOR PIEMONTE

Upon receiving unanimous consent to make a statement, Councillor Piemonte stated that upon checking with the City Auditor for final figures for 1966, he was unable to obtain a report on the expenses or unexpended balances of each department despite the fact that almost three months have elapsed. He further stated that this is no way to operate a city government.

RESCISSION OF PART OF 1954 LOAN ORDER FOR CONSTRUCTION OF CHRONIC HOSPITAL

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 29, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

On January 23 of this year, I submitted an order to your Honorable Body for an amendment to a 1954 loan order because the 1954 loan order is having an adverse effect upon the city's borrowing power. In my message I asked that the City Council act to rescind $5,750,000 of the 1954 order for the reason that bond counsel had held the 1954 authorizations so outdated that bonds could not be issued under it, and also for the reason that the city's borrowing authority in 1967 would require this action if it is to be sufficient to support our 1967 capital improvements program.

My order of January 23, 1967, was rejected by the City Council. Subsequently, I resubmitted the order on March 13. After further delays, your Honorable Body chose not to act on the order. In the absence of this special meeting, the order would become moot as of April 1, i.e., before the next regular session of the City Council.

The order which I resubmitted on March 13 is presently before the City Council, no action having been taken on it. If it is to become effective, I am advised that two votes are necessary. The first vote required is to suspend Rule 18 of the Council. The second vote required is on the order itself. I am further advised that six votes are necessary to suspend the rules, while only five votes are necessary for adoption of the order.

Members of the City Council have been supplied, on several different occasions, with documents, memoranda and testimony in evidence of the necessity for and urgency of this order. I should like briefly to explain once again the urgency of the problem.

Acting under my responsibility as the Mayor of Boston, I have planned capital improvements for 1967 in the amount of $13,140,000 within our debt limit. These improvements include (1) $4,500,000 for additions to our street cleaning equipment, new fire trucks, and other departmental equipment; (2) $3,000,000 for needed repairs and alterations to our schools; and (3) $5,640,000 for new streets and sewers as well as modernization of four police stations. In addition to these planned expenditures, we require a reserve borrowing authority of approximately $2,500,000 as a matter of sound fiscal policy.

Without action by the City Council on this order, we will be able to borrow, in 1967, only about $9,900,000. If the Council takes favorable action on the order, however, we will have the necessary borrowing authority of about $15,700,000.

Clearly, refusal of the Council to act before April 1, the deadline for establishing our debt limit, will place an unnecessary burden on our taxpayers. Either the capital improvements will be financed by cash, which means an approximate $4 increase on the 1967 tax rate, or the needed capital improvements will have to be delayed. In effect, this would mean an expenditure of only $1,000,000 on school repairs this year instead of the $3,000,000 we have planned. It would mean an expenditure of about $1,000,000 on new streets and sewers instead of the more than $3,000,000 planned. Four police stations would not be modernized at all.

I do not believe the City Council intends, by its inaction, to delay necessary improvement to our schools, our streets, and our police stations. May I therefore respectfully urge your immediate adoption of the order which is before you.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Placed on file.

On direction of the President the order was read.

Ordered, That the order appropriating $7,500,000 for the construction of departmental buildings which order was passed, by the City Council once on September 7, 1954, and again on September 27, 1954, and approved by the Mayor on September 28, 1954, be, and the same hereby is, amended by striking out the sum of "seven million five hundred thousand dollars ($7,500,000)" and inserting in place thereof the sum of "one million seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($1,750,000)."

Coun. McDONOUGH moved to call up the unfinished business on the Calendar today, and moved the suspension of Rule 18 of this Body, specifically that portion of the rule which requires two separate readings and votes on the order now before us, and moved passage of the order.

The question came on the suspension of Rule 18, and the rules were not suspended, yeas 5, nays 4:

Yeas—Councillors Hynes, Iannella, Kerrigan, Langone, McDonough—5.

Nays—Councillors Craven, Foley, Hines, Piemonte—4.

The question came on passage of the order, and the order was read once and passed, yeas 5, nays 4:

Yeas—Councillors Hynes, Iannella, Kerrigan, Langone, McDonough—5.

Nays—Councillors Craven, Foley, Hines, Piemonte—4.

Assigned for fourteen days for final action.

The purpose for which the meeting was called having been accomplished, adjourned at 3.50 P.M., on motion of Councillor Piemonte.

CIVIL DEFENSE DISASTER PROGRAM FIXES DEPARTMENTAL RESPONSIBILITIES

(In view of recent tornadoes and floods in other parts of the country the "City Record" believes an over-all review of Boston's "Civil Defense Operations Plan for Emergency Use Only" may be timely for consideration of its readers.)

Following are the salient parts of a recent directive from the Mayor to all department heads outlining their general responsibilities in event of a disaster):

Civil Defense Policy

The basic policy of the City Administration with regard to Civil Defense will be to maintain an organization and facilities that are practical to discharge local responsibility in the Federal Civil Defense programs. The character of the local programs will be determined by the nature of the federal programs and the extent to which federal programs are supported by appropriations of the Congress.

The programs, generally, will be confined to measures designed to reduce the effects of natural disasters (flood, hurricanes, etc.) and enemy attack on the city and to relieve the distress resulting therefrom. Inherent in the program will be three major responsibilities, viz.:

1. To adopt measures designed to ensure the continued functioning of the City Government under emergency conditions. (See Appendix 1, Continuity of Government Plan.)
2. To plan to utilize all of the facilities, personnel, and equipment of the city to protect the citizens, minimize damage, and relieve distress resulting from natural disasters and enemy attack; also, within practical limitations, to furnish additional facilities required for the protection of the citizens and minimizing of damage to property or to aid in the more effective utilization of the Civil Defense forces.
3. To provide information and guidance to the citizens to assist them in adopting measures designed to improve their individual circumstances and to relieve their distress, in the event of a natural disaster and of enemy attack on the city.

Civil Defense Director's Responsibilities

The Director, under direction of the Mayor, is authorized to assemble and utilize the Civil Defense forces. The Director of Civil Defense will at all times keep the Mayor apprised of his actions in the exercise of this authority, and will avail himself of the judgment and experience of department heads in making determinations affecting their departments.

This plan will not relieve any department of its normal responsibilities, nor will it deprive a department of any of its authority or control of its personnel or resources. It is meant to ensure that the utmost cooperation and coordination will exist among the city's protective services in the development and carrying out of the Civil Defense program.

Trouble And Teens

"Trouble and Teens" is the title of a new booklet recently released by the Boston Youth Activities Commission. This booklet deals with the problem of juvenile delinquency, its consequences and its prevention. Also discussed within this booklet are the job of the policeman and the Juvenile Court.

This booklet is designed to be beneficial to teen-agers in helping them set up some basic guidelines to the law to follow.

Requests for this booklet have come to the Youth Activities Commission from Juvenile Courts, Probation Officers, and School Guidance Counselors in the City of Boston, and from Youth Officials in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in Washington, D.C., along with California Youth Authority.

Many favorable responses to the booklet "Trouble and Teens" have been received.

Pauline Winnick, a Public Library Specialist for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in Washington, D.C., found the booklet to be a "helpful guide."

Commissioner of Probation C. Eliot Sands found the booklet "simple in approach and informative" and "very appropriately directed."

Director Ernest Jacoby of the North Bennet Street Industrial School found the booklet "an excellent piece to hand out."

The post pays an annual salary of $9,000.

During the swearing in of Mr. Fitzgerald, Mayor Collins took time to pay what he termed, "A well deserved tribute to Miss Pfau."

"During Miss Pfau's long career in the Election Department," Mayor Collins said, "she has served with honor, integrity, and distinction. We shall miss her and we wish her well in all her future endeavors."

Defense Program . . .

Development of Civil Defense Plans

In a form consistent with the plans of State and Federal Civil Defense Agencies, the Director will develop Civil Defense plans for the City of Boston. The plans will delegate responsibilities to various city departments and describe, generally, the manner in which they shall be discharged. Emergency duties assigned to city departments in order to combat and minimize the effects of a natural disaster or enemy attack, shall be consistent with, or analogous to, the normal duties of such departments.

Coordination of Emergency Operations

Whenever Civil Defense forces are engaged in combating the effects of a natural disaster or enemy attack, or whenever such forces are engaged in combating a situation that threatens to attain the proportions of a natural disaster, the Director of Civil Defense shall coordinate the activities of such forces.

Department heads will cooperate with the Director of Civil Defense in the matter of staffing Civil Defense Headquarters, 115 Southampton street, Boston, which shall be the central control of activity, and shall keep the Director apprised of progress of their work and their anticipated needs over and above that which is normally available to their departments.

The following plan designates various city departments which will constitute the Civil Defense forces pursuant to chapter 639, Acts of 1950:

- Civil Defense Department
- Police Department
- Fire Department
- Public Works Department
- Department of Health and Hospitals
- Welfare Department
- Parks and Recreation Department
- Traffic and Parking Department
- Building Department and other departments as the need may arise.

General Responsibility of All Departments

All city departments are directed to cooperate with the Civil Defense Department in the development and carrying out of all Civil Defense programs. They will ensure that the utmost security is provided for the public, and its employees shall take all measures practicable to safeguard the property, vital records and resources of the city government.

In consonance with the basic Civil Defense policy as hereinbefore stated, departments will make their facilities, personnel, and equipment available for use in emergency to relieve distress among the people.

Services To Plan For Dispersal

All services should plan for the circumstances that would prevail in the event of a Strategic Warning¹ if an attempt is made to disperse their forces before an Actual Warning² is received.

If such dispersal is deemed advisable, and practicable, services having mobile equipment essential to disaster relief operations will attempt to disperse the equipment to dispersal points (See Appendix 2). Upon arrival instruction will be available depending upon circumstances at the time.

This Operations Plan for Emergency Use Only is sufficiently flexible to allow for any contingency.

City Sq.-Leverett Span

The Massachusetts Port Authority formally accepted a $9.3 million plan which called for the construction of a high level bridge between Leverett Circle in the West End and City square, Charlestown.

Fire . . .

They shall respond to such other alarms or emergencies where the Fire Alarm Office has received a request for their services from the officer in charge at the fire or emergency.

V. RETIREMENT

The following retirement, in accordance with the provisions of section 7 and 94 of chapter 32 of the General Laws, which will become effective at 8 A.M., May 1, 1967, is hereby announced:

Fire Fighter Edward J. Casey, Ladder Company 25.

Fire Fighter Casey was appointed to the department on January 22, 1947, and he leaves the department with the best wishes of his associates.

VI. CHANGE IN TIME

Sunday, April 30, 1967, is the date required by law to make a change in clock time. In order to conform with the law, clocks in department stations will be set ahead one hour at 2 A.M. All tower clocks maintained by the department will be set ahead one hour at 6 A.M. or as soon thereafter as is practical by the men regularly assigned to wind clocks.

Incinerator Renewal

Boston will seek a $1.4 million federal grant to improve its incinerators at the South Bay plant. Mayor Collins announced on April 25.

The city's share of the cost is $720,000.

The money would buy electric burners expected to reduce the pollution from the city's six furnaces by 95 percent and increase burning capacity 33 percent.

The $2.1 million would also pay for a machine that can process up to 400 tons of refuse a day. This heavy-duty shredder and grinder would enable the city to rip up items such as furniture and wood which cannot be done now.

Public Works Commissioner John F. Flaherty said the application will be reviewed by the U. S. Public Health Service before being sent to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

ALL STUFFED UP

A phone operator asked a customer, "Do you have the Area Code?" "No," came the sniffling reply. "Just a bad case of hay fever."

BCH Probe Welcomed

Commissioner Andrew P. Sackett of the Department of Health and Hospitals welcomed the recent announcement that a legislative committee would conduct an investigation into the affairs of Boston City Hospital.

"Although the direction the hearings will take is not yet clear, I welcome the concept of state interest in our problems," he said. "The authorization specifies certain areas that should be covered but hearings need not necessarily be confined in the areas which are specifically mentioned.

"We are pleased that a man of the stature of Senator Beryl Cohen, with his record of a positive approach to social and medical problems, will be in charge of the hearing. The same can be said of the other members of the committee. This encourages us to believe that the hearings will be of a constructive nature and will be helpful in continuing the thrust for improvement of the City of Boston Department of Health and Hospitals.

"A tremendous amount has been accomplished in a comparatively short period of time, as anyone who has had anything to do with the hospital could attest. Impressive improvements have been made in the physical plant, outmoded though it is in basic layout. The former Departments of Health and of Hospitals have been merged into one department under a unified management. This puts us in the position of having a strong base from which to develop programs that reach out into the communities that make up the City of Boston. Thus, we have the entire spectrum of services, from those located in satellite operations in the community, such as well-baby clinics, to the complex and sophisticated procedures that are carried out in operating rooms, such as brain surgery or heart surgery. It is, of course, extremely important that the trend toward improvement be continued and that momentum be accelerated."

ESSA Surprise

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce said on April 24 that it was "significantly surprised" by the announced decision of the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) to locate a proposed $10 million East Coast Oceanographic Center at Dodge Island-Virginia Key, Miami, Florida.

Chamber President Frank S. Christian said that the Chamber had been advised that a decision would not be made until late spring or early summer because of the magnitude of the site evaluation problem.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce hosted a visit of the ESSA Site Selection Committee to eleven sites in Boston Harbor and four along the North Shore last December. The Committee visited a number of sites along the Atlantic Seaboard during December, January, and February.

"The decision represents a considerable departure from the announced location criteria which emphasized the availability of academic support, a marine-oriented industrial complex, ship repair facilities and an experienced labor force for ship crews, and other features," Christian noted.

"The Miami decision tends to indicate that the established site criteria was flexible enough to accommodate locations of less stature," he said, "it also clarifies the type of activities to be undertaken—the Oceanographic Coast and Geodetic Survey will be more operational than research and development-oriented."

Christian said the ESSA announcement is only a recommendation at this stage. In due course it must be acted upon by the Congress. The Chamber was notified of the decision by Secretary of Commerce Trowbridge.

Lomasney Way

On April 25 the Public Improvement Commission voted to rename West End's Lowell street in honor of the late Martin Lomasney, for many years one of Boston's dominant political and legislative leaders.

Healthy Quarter

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce monthly newsletter, "Boston Business Conditions," notes in its April issue that over the first quarter of 1967 Greater Boston was among the more favored urban regional economies in the nation in employment, incomes, and construction activities.

The newsletter, prepared by the Chamber's Research and Development Department, says that defense and military expenditures still favor selected areas of the country. "Massachusetts has maintained its high ranking as a recipient of such federal contracts and the outlook—even if peace is achieved in Vietnam—is not too bleak a prospect due to the nature of the work; electronic specialties, missiles and communications," the report says.

Recent military procurement figures, released by the Defense Department, show an increase for Massachusetts from $1 billion in fiscal 1964, to $1.1 billion in 1965, to $1.3 billion in 1966. Procurements and prime contracts for Massachusetts range between 4.0 and 5.5 percent of the national state totals and the share has been increasing in dollar amounts as the total contract allocations increase. Navy and Air Force contracts account for more than 65 percent of the Massachusetts contract awards.

Defense Program . . .

1. Strategic Warning—This warning from the Federal Government of a very threatening war situation would require immediate and strong action by the City of Boston according to prearranged plans so far as possible. Such action will include the following: Issuance by the Governor of a Declaration of a State of Emergency as provided in Executive Order 31. This action will be communicated to all State agencies and to all municipalities over the Massachusetts Warning System (MAWS), and to the public through all public information media — along with previously prepared instructions as to what the public in the City of Boston should do.

2. Actual Warning—A warning that enemy attack is actually under way and that information on the probable time remaining before the attack. The Director will direct the action which shall be taken within the City of Boston based upon arranged standards. If the probable period before attack is relatively short, the direction of movement to shelter areas will be sounded and all units and persons in Boston should seek the best possible shelter with such exceptions as the Director may specify.

MPA Tax-Free Status

Emmett J. Kelly, a 37-year veteran in the Boston Assessing Department, criticized the tax-free status of the Massachusetts Port Authority at a State House hearing recently.

The Port Authority's property accounts for 10 percent of all tax-exempt acreage in the city, Kelly claimed, valuing port property at roughly $100,000,000.

In the past seven years, he said the Port Authority has paid out nearly $6 million in interest to its bondholders, but nothing in taxes to Boston.

Summer Exploration

There's no time like summertime for exploring the wide world out of doors, and this summer, Boston's Museum of Science offers a golden opportunity for junior naturalists to do just that. It's the special young people's Summer Explorers course, beginning July 11 at the Museum and appropriately based on the theme, "Exploring Natural History."

This program introduces youngsters aged 10 to 15 to plant and animal life in its various forms, including even the tiniest animals, visible only through a microscope.

Sticker Deadline

"Spring motor vehicle inspections must be completed by midnight, Monday, May 15," drivers are reminded by Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin.

"Under a new feedback reporting system, we have found that over 5,000 cars have been denied inspection stickers for various reasons. The greatest number were rejected because of defective or excessively worn front end components, with obscured number plates the second largest violation.

"Available manpower to make necessary repairs becomes a problem as the deadline nears, but equally important is the matter of the availability of parts which may be required to correct defects.

"With only two weeks remaining in which to obtain the orange inspection sticker, time is of the essence," said the Registrar.

As a public service, Registry Equipment personnel are placing blue reminder cards on windshields of vehicles which do not yet display the new spring sticker.

On Tuesday, May 16, the operator or owner of all cars bearing a rejection sticker, the old blue sticker, or no sticker will face court action plus possible action on license and registration.

SOMETHING PERMANENT

A sedentary friend, unimpressed by the physical-fitness fad, remarks, "Muscles come and go; flab lasts."

VETERANS' SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Expenditures for veterans' benefits for February, 1967, show an increase of $159,593.55 in comparison with expenditures for the corresponding period of 1966.

The 1,747 cases aided during the month of February, 1967, represented a total of 3,503 individuals benefited through the facilities of the Veterans' Services Department.

There were 98 cases closed during the month of February, 1967, because of obtaining employment, having been awarded unemployment compensation, receiving social security, and becoming eligible to receive financial assistance for miscellaneous reasons.

During the month of February, 1967, the department collected $851.75 which represents refunds by former beneficiaries of veterans' benefits who were found to have drawn aid under circumstances which warranted its return to the City of Boston.

Welcome Here!

The U. S. State Department recently announced that its policy on business and tourist visas would be relaxed so that the United States might take advantage of this year which has been designated as International Tourist Year by the United Nations.

People of 24 countries, most of which are located in western Europe, are eligible for this new program provided they can meet the other requirements needed for a visa to America.

The plan calls for "indefinite, multiple entry visas . . . good for a lifetime" which would be issued for business and tourist visits but not to immigrants. Last year, 1,163,000 business and tourist trips were recorded by the United States Travel Service. Most of these people came from the 24 countries that will benefit by this program.

This is expected to encourage travel this year to America. The 24 countries were so chosen due to the fact that they do not require visas or visiting permits for Americans who are visiting their country. Any other country that relaxes its own laws will be added to this list of twenty-four. The object is to develop reciprocal travel.

Boston Now Has Complete, Up-To-Minute Detailed Maps of Entire City

Walter Bennett, director of cartography and graphics of the BRA, is firmly convinced that Boston is the best-mapped city in the country. A visit to his big shop in City Hall Annex will convince any Bostonian he is right.

Not too long back it wasn't. In fact, with the city's widespread redevelopment program blotting out old streets and coming up with new streets, ways, and lanes, no one seemed to care much. Any map that showed Bunker Hill, Boston Common, and Washington and Dudley streets in proper juxtaposition to each other was considered good enough. City departments like Public Works, the Fire and Police, and Traffic didn't agree with such complacency. Neither did Mayor Collins. Neither did Walter Bennett.

As the pace of the redevelopment stepped up Boston's needs map-wise kept climbing. However, like almost all major cities, Boston found the cost of map making prohibitive. Like other cities Boston kept putting off the task. Then came Mr. Bennett and his staff into the picture.

It was with justifiable pride, therefore, that Mayor Collins announced that through a federal grant of $500,000 the BRA has been able to complete the gigantic task of mapping the entire city—block-by-block and street-by-street. And it's all in detail that's amazing.

Depending on your needs you'll be able to get maps which show street numbers and building outlines. You can even get maps showing the topographical peculiarities of any given section.

The Mayor said that for a long period of time the city explored the possibility of updating maps used by various departments in the conduct of daily business. The program, delayed because of the high cost, became possible when federal funds became available.

Mayor Collins has requested the Director of Administrative Services to inform all city departments to procure new issues and to discontinue utilizing obsolete maps.

The primary purpose of the mapping project, the Mayor said, was to provide a complete picture of all physical, structural and topographical features of the city. At one time in the early 1950's, 15 different types of maps were being used by various departments.

The introduction of these new maps throughout the city departments, will result in uniform reporting of conditions pertaining to health, fire, police, housing inspection, building and assessing operations and other aspects of every block or small geographical area throughout our entire city.

Mayor Directs Law Drive on Tax Evaders

Mayor John F. Collins on May 5 requested the Law Department to initiate an intensive drive against all personal property tax evaders in the City of Boston.

At the same time Mayor Collins emphasized these taxes are assessed against commercial and industrial holdings of personal property and not against residential property owners.

Corporation Counsel James J. Sullivan, Jr., head of the Law Department, said that the total amount of evasion over the past three years amounts to more than $800,000. Corporation Counsel Sullivan said the Treasury Department has exhausted all administrative means for collection.

Corporation Counsel Sullivan said a special task force has been established in the Law Department "to go ahead forthwith with court proceedings including attachments and liens on whatever property of the evaders which can be located."

The Law Department Chief said that Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles MacPhee and Ashe Senopoulous have been assigned full time to bring the amount due plus interest into the City Treasury.

Interdepartmental operations would become more businesslike, discussions between departments on specific municipal functions would be most helpful in pinpointing problem areas requiring special emphasis, and the up-to-date data should be of inestimable value in planning, hospital and school construction, and highway construction.

Law enforcement, traffic administration, zoning, health and sanitation studies, industrial development, and many other operations that are common in the everyday life of a metropolis will also benefit from the new maps.

Parking Lot Licenses Revoked After Hearing

A complaint from a law associate of former Governor Endicott Peabody led on May 3 to the revocation of two Boston parking lot licenses and a promise by Traffic Commissioner Thomas F. Carty of possibly more revocations to come.

Traffic Commissioner Carty announced the revocation of licenses issued to parking lots at 132-136 State street and at 57 Chatham street, both in downtown Boston.

The Traffic Commissioner said an investigation by his department resulted when irate motorists wrote or telephoned his office to complain that they had received police parking tickets—and in at least one instance a court summons—for parking offences of which they had no knowledge.

"Further investigation," Commissioner Carty said, "disclosed that a motorist would pay to park his car on a private parking lot—that the car would be moved to a public street by parking lot employees. It would then be tagged by police but the police tag would be removed by 'unknown persons.'" "Often the first knowledge the motorist would have of the offence," Commissioner Carty said, "would be when he received a summons to appear in court for not paying a parking fine he never knew he incurred."

The investigation began last March upon receipt of a letter from Attorney Burton Peltz, an associate of former Governor Endicott Peabody, in the law firm of Roche & Leen.

Attorney Peltz told Commissioner Carty that his father had parked on the State Street lot and later received a court summons because of failure to pay a parking violation.

Attorney Peltz said in his letter that he had checked with the police and was told "occurrences such as this happen with a good deal of frequency. Since the individual normally does not keep his parking stub for several months, he has no way of proving that he actually parked his car in the lot on that given day. The individual must, therefore, pay the fine and hope to recover same from the parking lot which, as you well know, would not be worth the time it would require nor would the results be by any means certain."

"It was suggested that I write this letter to you so that your office would have a record of this occurrence and perhaps might be able to check or ascertain whether or not similar complaints have been lodged against same lot.

"In addition, it was suggested that your office might be able to take some action which would prevent citizens of the City of Boston from paying fines for illegally parking their cars when they had actually paid private concerns for the privilege of parking their cars.

"The fact that the lot operator removed a parking ticket from the windshield of an automobile, a criminal act in and of itself, should also be of concern to your office.

"I trust that you will be able to look into this situation and help correct it so that an individual will not have to worry about receiving a parking ticket if he has paid to have his car parked."

Commissioner Carty said a hearing was held and the licenses issued to Frank Maher Auto Parks were revoked on that date.

Commissioner Carty said his department would continue to investigate and invited motorists to call him or write him should they have similar complaints.

Hyde Park Program

The Hyde Park Police and Community Relations Council, a program designed to foster better relationships between the Police Department and the community, is conducting a survey among students at Hyde Park High School.

The plan, formulated by George Nedder, Council Cochairman, is geared toward determining what the teen-agers want from their community and what they will and can contribute toward bettering the community. The Council is interested in getting to the heart of the problems of teen-agers from the teen-agers themselves.

McNamara Chosen for New 5-Year Term

Mayor John F. Collins announced on May 4 the reappointment of Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara for a term of five years.

The Commissioner was first appointed in 1962 when the Police Department was returned to city regulation and control by legislative enactment. He was sworn in for his new term in the mayor's office before a large gathering.

In announcing the reappointment of Mr. McNamara, Mayor Collins said:

"Upon assuming office as the first home-rule Police Commissioner since 1885, Police Commissioner McNamara was called upon to implement the recommendations made by the International Association of Chiefs of Police in their comprehensive report of department procedures. His experience gained as a result of sixteen years of service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation enabled him to provide a close liaison with these professional police consultants.

"As a result, the Police Department was reorganized and restructured, grouping all police functions according to their specific purpose and providing for a unity of command that was previously lacking. Every sound principle of modern police management was instituted to insure the most effective utilization of men and equipment.

"Under Police Commissioner McNamara a Tactical Patrol Force was recruited to saturate areas of high crime frequency. Women School Traffic Guards were recruited to permit regular police officers to be deployed to crime control duties. Trained police dogs were secured to assist patrol officers. An Internal Affairs Unit was created to provide a readily accessible means for any citizen to bring a complaint of police mistreatment or misconduct. A Planning Unit was established to maintain a constant interchange of ideas and information with other law enforcement agencies.

Radio Communications

"The best available radio communications system was installed during Commissioner McNamara's term. The Police Academy was reactivated on a full-time basis to provide every officer with the quality of training necessary to perform his duties in these difficult and sensitive times. Operation 16 was instituted to prevent car thefts and to impress upon our young people the damaging effect a criminal record can have on their future careers. Motor scooters were introduced to provide more visible police patrol. A computer operation is being programmed to take every advantage of modern technology in the battle against crime.

"I am convinced that under Commissioner McNamara the Boston Police Department has made every effort to provide the highest level of safety, security, and service for the citizens of this city.

"I am particularly pleased that the recent survey by the President's Crime Commission reported that Boston is notably absent from the list of those cities cited as potential danger spots for police-minority group tensions. This is a tribute to the active Police-Community Relations Program, to the professional competence of our Boston police officers and to the good judgment of our citizens.

"The recent Police Department recruitment program to encourage vigorous, well-motivated, young men from minority group neighborhoods to join the Police Force had my complete approval and this program will be expanded in the future. I also am pleased that many of the recommendations suggested in the National Crime Commission Report have already been instituted or are now under way in the Boston Police Department under the leadership of Commissioner McNamara."

The Mayor concluded, "The police have the responsibility to enforce the law and to protect the right of every citizen to live in peace. They cannot accomplish this without the active cooperation and assistance of the people they serve. The Police Department and the citizens of our city must join together in partnership if the police are to be truly responsive to the needs of our changing society."

P. O. Annex Bid OK'd

The Post Office Department accepted on May 4 the $24 million bid of a Milwaukee firm to build a new South Postal Annex in Boston.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said the building will have 636,500 square feet capacity. It will adjoin the present post office at Dorchester avenue and Summer street. He said the $24 million figure was a preliminary estimate of construction costs.

The building will be privately owned but built to the specifications of the post office. Thus it will stay on the local tax roll. The post office will pay $1,792,476 a year in rent.

Postmaster General O'Brien said the building will be highly mechanized and will have nearly $10 million in modern mail-handling equipment installed.

Occupancy is planned for late 1970 or early 1971. "At that time, operations at the leased Boston Post Office truck terminal at West Fourth and E streets will be merged into the new postal complex on Dorchester avenue, eliminating costly and time-consuming shuttling of mail between the two buildings," Postmaster General O'Brien said.

Capt. Doocey Honored

Boston Police Captain Edward A. Doocey will receive the Citizen of the Year award from the South End Federation of Citizen Organizations on May 13.

Under Captain Doocey, who heads Division 4 (Warren avenue), "the crime rate in the South End has gone down markedly," said Christopher Hayes, SEFCO president.

Good Police-Community Relations Prime Modern Need

(Following are the remarks of Mayor John F. Collins before the Northeastern University National Police Seminar at Northeastern University on Friday, May 5):

Any discussion of the police challenge in our contemporary society must begin with the invisible barrier that insulates the police in many urban communities from the public they serve. This is particularly true in the high density core cities where social conflicts have now added a new dimension to the already existing police task.

We are living in an age of rising expectations, where people are no longer content with the old order, and as a result our society is producing ever-increasing duties and responsibilities for those in the police service. The police picture is changing from day to day with new developments often occurring in rapid succession.

By the very nature of their duties, the police are drawn into many problems and many grievances which they, as police officers, cannot solve. They are often placed in the very sensitive position of being the mediators of neighborhood dissension.

They are often the key figures in either preventing or aggravating community conflict. In this atmosphere of change and turbulence the police have the continuing responsibility for maintaining stability and good order while the total community works out solutions to the deeply rooted problems of intergroup relations and social injustice.

These added responsibilities imposed upon the police are difficult enough but they are further complicated by the fact that the role of the police and police themselves are often misunderstood by the general public. Most of these misunderstandings arise from a lack of knowledge as to the powers and duties of the police and their proper function in our society. Too few people are aware of the limitations and restrictions of police authority and why the police must take certain courses of action in carrying out their duties.

The police officer is also the most visible representative of municipal government readily available to most of our citizens. He has a close, personal, and direct relationship with the people of the district to which he is assigned. As a result, he is the nearest accessible target for the discontented and the aggrieved in that community.

At a time when the demands made upon police resources have never been greater, we find the image of law enforcement being impaired in a growing lack of respect for the law and for those who enforce the law.

Police work has now become one of the most perplexing and sensitive tasks in modern government. Unlike business and industry, the police do not deal with a tangible product which can be presented to the public in an attractive package. They deal, instead, with the problems of human behavior, an area that is most difficult and most complex.

To accomplish the police purpose in these socially sensitive times, the police need the assistance and the support of the entire community. To obtain that high degree of cooperation they must improve their lines of communication with the public and create a climate of mutual understanding and respect with all the people of the community.

Police and Community

The primary requisite for good police-community relations is the obvious need for equal treatment for all citizens within the framework of law and justice.

This is fundamental and, yet, most police problems in intergroup relations result from the belief by some members of the community that they do not receive equal and effective service and equal interpretation of the law. Whether their belief is real or fancied, it creates the same degree of hostility towards the police officer. There is a real need for the police, by their words and their actions, to overcome this lack of understanding and lack of trust which separates them from some of the people they serve.

The Boston Police Department is presently engaged in a six-month program, with funds provided through a federal grant, to determine the local problems of communication between the police and the community and to find the best means of opening and maintaining these two-way channels of communication.

The active participants are selected citizens from the Roxbury district, representing a cross section of that community, together with police officers assigned to the district. In their group discussions the police are being informed as to the conditions in that community that affect police services as well as citizen reaction to police procedures and practices.

The community members, on the other hand, are obtaining a far better understanding of police problems from the officers who face the realities of everyday police service in the community. This pilot study is aimed at developing a standard plan for use in other neighborhoods throughout the city and in other metropolitan areas.

Competent Instruction Need

In earlier days, police work was a relatively simple occupation. No particular training was given to police officers, nor was such training considered necessary. Police education was left to the traditional, but inadequate, "school of experience." You cannot begin to provide a high quality of police service under these old concepts of police management.

Recent events have accentuated the need for all officers to increase their abilities through the study of modern police methods and procedures. Your presence here at this National Police Seminar is evidence of your own personal desire to increase your level of professional competence in the field of law

WHERE WERE WE?

"I think of heaven," says science writer William L. Laurence, "as a place where I can meet the people to finish the conversations that were interrupted at cocktail parties."

enforcement. Your attendance reflects great credit upon the police service.

Competent instruction, particularly in the area of human relations, is an absolute necessity for the police officer who must perform his duties in the present-day climate of social unrest. Human relations training goes to the very heart of modern police work as it is in its relations with the public that a police force will ultimately be judged.

Good police-community relations, therefore, is the indispensable prerequisite to the maintenance of law and order in a free and democratic society. The enforcement of the law is a community problem, not just a problem for the police alone. The public must accept its full share of this responsibility. In a democracy, the police power rests with all of the people and the police are only their agents. We must break through the barrier of public apathy and indifference which now separates the police and the public.

Only in this way can we provide the quality of police service required in a modern community.

Only in this way can we meet the "Police Challenge of 1966" and in the years to come.

Program . . .

Capt. Richard Chausse and the Boston Police Department are interested in the needs and wishes of the young citizens of the community and the program is aimed toward setting up a program in which the youth is interested.

George Nedder is in the process of forming a teen-age automotive club. "Young people have indicated they are interested in this type of club and one will be starting in the near future," he said.

Nedder, Cochairman of the Council, has been active in civic and fraternal organizations for many years. He is a member of the Hyde Park Board of Trade, and Past President of the Hyde Park Kiwanis Club.

Boston City Hospital Psychiatry Service Director Tells of Skyscraper Mental Health Center at Prudential

A college mental health center located in a 52-story metropolitan office building and available to over 100,000 persons 24 hours a day every day of the year sounds like a projection into the super age of the next century.

Operational in Boston since September, 1966, and housed on the 43d floor of Boston's new Prudential Center since January, 1967, "The College Center" serves the student-faculty mental health needs of some fifty Boston Metropolitan area colleges. The essence of such a facility—a cooperative venture by means of pooling the financial resources of many small colleges—was first conceived a decade ago by Dana Farnsworth, M.D., Head of Harvard University Health Services, in his book, Mental Health in College and University.

With the exception of psychoanalysis and inpatient care, the Center offers all generally accepted mental health and treatment services: (1) Education and prevention; (2) Diagnosis and consultation; and (3) Therapy.

Presently, the financial arrangement of the nonprofit Center with member colleges is on a basis of an administrative charge of $1 per student per year, plus billing for actual services provided at the going rate for private psychiatrists. The College Center policy favors the establishment of a fee for prepaid mental health coverage in subsequent years.

"Plans are being made for research to study the problems of colleges as well as the problems of the college students," said Dr. Philip Solomon, President of the College Center and head of the Psychiatry Service at Boston City Hospital in a paper describing the activities of the Center presented May 11 at the 1967 Annual Meeting of the American College of Psychiatry in Detroit.

"The population covered primarily consists of people whose function is to study or to bear some necessary relationship to the function of learning carried out by students," he explained. "The student population is viewed as in transition from dependence on family to independent participation in the community as responsible citizens. The transition period represents a crisis phase during which students are particularly vulnerable but are hopefully also able to make use of opportunities for growth and maturation. Limited help given early can be extremely effective during this phase.

"Additionally, if growth of the Center is normal," Dr. Solomon said, "within two or three years the College Center should become a training center for mental health professionals specializing in college psychiatry."

Widespread Network

The key to the College Center's organization is a network of liaison psychiatrists, coupled with a central service area located in the heart of Boston, the authors pointed out. The liaison psychiatrist provided by the College Center for each member college is the most crucial person in the organization. It is his task to recognize the ecology of his college, to see the personality of his university with its strength, weaknesses, and foibles, and to feel the dynamic forces at work.

This consultant comes from outside the system with which he consults because, the authors feel, "if he is part of the same system, absorbing the prevalent system of values and codes regarding what is taboo, and if he is paid by higher officials within the system at a rate known to others in the system, his effectiveness as a 'change agent' with respect to the system is greatly reduced."

One additional advantage of the Center that seems to be highly valued, Dr. Solomon noted, is that it offers relative anonymity to the students or faculty members seeking aid.

World Fair Officers

Gilbert H. Hood, Jr., elected president of 1975 World Freedom Fair, Inc., on May 10 announced the election of officers and directors of the corporation.

Elected as officers of Freedom 75, the proposed world's fair and international exposition for Boston, besides Hood, chairman of the executive committee of H. P. Hood & Sons, were treasurer, Ephron Catlin, Jr., senior vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, and clerk, James G. Kelso, executive vice-president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

All-Out Fight Urged To Keep Hub Naval Dist.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce urged all-out community support for legislation now pending in Congress to prevent the consolidation of the First and Third Naval Districts with headquarters in New York.

Admiral David L. McDonald, USN, chief of naval operations, has informed local naval officials that the implementation plan previously announced, for combining the two district commands, will be held in abeyance pending congressional consideration of H.R. 7936.

The bill introduced jointly by Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D.—S.C.) Chairman of the House Armed Forces Committee, and Representative William H. Bates (R.—Salem, Mass.) ranking minority member of the military panel prescribes geographical limits of naval districts and provides that commandants shall be an officer not below the rank of Rear Admiral.

"Successful enactment of this measure would negate the Navy's intention to reduce naval activity in the New England area to merely fleet support and receiving station functions and would result in the saving of a number of jobs," Chairman Arthur F. F. Snyder of the Chamber's Federal Agencies Committee, pointed out.

60-Plus Fiesta

The retirement party is over. You've said goodbye to envious fellow workers. Suddenly you find yourself with time on your hands and perhaps 20 years ahead to do what you want.

Will it be a satisfying, creative, and productive retirement? Or like so many, will you be lost without a nine-to-five job to go to?

Senior citizens from throughout Greater Boston will demonstrate how the retirement years can really be "golden years" as they mark National Senior Citizen Month with the seventeenth annual 60-Plus Fiesta, Thursday, May 25, at Boston's Horticultural Hall.

Several hundred of Boston's liveliest old people will exhibit and demonstrate their hobbies at this day-long show, which is sponsored by United Community Services, Health and Welfare Planning Council for Metropolitan Boston.

The Fiesta, which is the major event marking May as "Senior Citizen Month" in Greater Boston, will give persons of all ages an opportunity to learn how productive and satisfying the retirement years can be.

The youngest exhibitor at the Fiesta will be over 60, and the oldest will probably be Mrs. Harriet C. Hobart, a painter. Mrs. Hobart, who lives at the Frederika Home in Boston, will be 101 in June.

A popular feature of the show is "Ageless Fashions," a senior citizen fashion show. Forty models, all over 65 and including the handicapped, will display the fashions. The fashion show is being staged this year with the cooperation of Raymond's of Boston.

Show Coordinator Arthur T. Noren announces that a concession will provide refreshments and throughout the day an organist will play old favorites for singing and dancing. Admission to the show is free and the public is invited to attend from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M.

Fin. Com. Urges Legislature To Grant Cities MDC Advisory Council Voice

(The following letter has been addressed to the House Ways and Means Committee by the Boston Finance Commission):

There is currently before your Honorable Committee a bill, H-2245, which provides for the establishment of an Advisory Council to the Metropolitan District Commission. This bill provides that the several municipalities served by the MDC shall be represented on this Advisory Council and, through it, have a voice in the future developments and improvements of the MDC system.

The Finance Commission of the City of Boston considers this an important piece of legislation and one that has been badly needed for some time.

As you know, the MDC functions in three areas: Water, Sewer, and Parks. All three areas are matters of concern, but the principal area of concern at this time, is the Parks District. Boston's share of the Metropolitan District Net Debt in the Parks area has increased by 500 percent since 1960, moving from $2,032,976 to $12,461,777.

The following brief table showing Boston's share of the Metropolitan District Debt in 1960 and 1966 is revealing:

Sewer.....	$10,547,508 20	$16,088,728 80
Water.....	48,407,593 94	58,042,797 41
Parks.....	2,032,976 22	12,461,777 35
	$60,988,078 36	$86,593,303 56

There has never been the equivalent of a council, comprising representatives of the affected municipalities, which could even provide a forum for discussion of proposals, let alone exercise any power of approval.

There are already two local precedents for such a Council concerned with Metropolitan matters: the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (Chapter 668 of 1963) and the Advisory Board of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (Chapter 161-A, Section 7, General Laws).

In fact, across the country, 19 Intergovernmental Cooperation Councils have been set up to solve metropolitan problems by joint action.

It has been demonstrated in many metropolitan areas that municipalities can work together and determine their own best interests, as well as the interests of the metropolitan area as a whole, in such matters. Certainly, these Greater Boston municipalities acting collectively should have some voice in the matter of where and when they want additional metropolitan facilities.

The Finance Commission, which has urged in several reports since 1960 some form of Advisory Council, believes that H-2245 meets a long-standing need and respectfully recommends that it be favorably reported and supported.

Convention Plans

Mayor Collins last week flew to Williamsburg, Virginia, for a two-day conference to plan for the annual convention of the National League of Cities.

The convention will be held in Boston, July 29 to August 2, and is expected to attract more than 3,500 municipal officials. Meetings of the group will be held in the Boston War Memorial Auditorium and in the Sheraton Boston Hotel at the Prudential Center.

Current Affairs Films

The Boston Public Library has set up a procedure for organized groups to borrow more than sixty subjects in the Current Affairs film-strip series made available as a free public service by the Boston Record American and Sunday Advertiser.

The 5-foot long 40-frame strips accompanied by a discussion guide include such titles as "Alaska—Twentieth Century Frontier," "The Race to Outer Space," "Conservation," and "City and Suburb—Crisis and Opportunity."

The local Hearst newspapers donate the strips each month during the school year to 500 schools in Massachusetts, plus the Boston Public Library Audio-Visual Department. They are useful for both teenage and adult discussion groups and are prepared under the direction of recognized and accredited educational authorities.

The complete series will be listed in a new film catalogue to be issued shortly by the library.

New Life and Beauty Goal of Modern Lighting Study

Mayor John F. Collins announced the Boston Redevelopment Authority will sponsor a new study of the creative use of outdoor signs and lighting, leading to some new guidelines for Boston and other cities in the nation.

The Mayor said signs and lights have great unexploited potential for making cities more beautiful and more exciting. An application to make this project part of the national Urban Beautification Demonstration Program is being forwarded by BRA to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. If approved, the federal government will cover 90 percent of the $330,000 cost.

The proposed project, Mayor Collins said, will combine research and design with the building of experimental light and sign installations in one or more areas of Boston. The study will also produce policies and standards for the control and design of public and private signs and lighting throughout the city as well as prototype designs for signs and light in crucial areas such as along a highway, in a shopping district or entertainment center, or on the city skyline. The local businesses and responsible public agencies will be brought together to coordinate these plans and designs.

The Cambridge architectural firm of Ashley, Myer & Associates, winner of the 1964 international competition for the Boston Architectural Center, has been appointed prime consultant for this study. John R. Myer was design consultant on the Downtown Waterfront and the Boston Government Center Renewal Project, and the firm has been active in large scale housing projects and architectural research.

For this project, Ashley, Myer & Associates has combined with a group of experts from MIT and from the Joint Center for Urban Studies of MIT and Harvard. Stephen Carr, who will head the project, is Assistant Professor of Urban Design at MIT. Mr. Carr is both a designer and a leader in research in the new field of environmental psychology.

Chief consultant on urban design will be Kevin Lynch, Professor of City Planning, MIT, foremost expert on urban design in the country. Gyorgy Kepes, painter and Professor of Visual Design at MIT will also serve as consultant. Mr. Kepes is especially known for his work on the creative use of light.

MacDonald Barr, staff member of the Joint Center for Urban Studies, will coordinate the efforts of the many contributors to the project, including the Joint Center itself.

The Center has an extensive background of research and publications in the field of urban design, and has devoted considerable effort during the past year to help bring this study to Boston, Mayor Collins said.

Serving as co-chairmen of the gathering were James Farrell and Joseph Beth.

Downtown Skyscraper To Be Started In Fall

Announcement was made on May 16 of plans for the construction of a second $25 million 40-story office tower at Washington, Court, and State streets, opposite the Old State House.

Prime tenant will be the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company. The development firm, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, said construction will begin probably in November on a 46,658 square-foot site.

The new building will be almost diagonally across from Cabot, Cabot & Forbes's initial 40-story office building project, the new headquarters for the New England Merchants National Bank.

President William W. Wolbach, of Boston Safe said the trust company's growth "has been closely linked with Boston's role as a major, expanding, financial center."

The firm, together with its parent organization—The Boston Company, Inc.,—will occupy about 30 percent of the proposed 685,000 square feet of space, according to President Gerald W. Blakeley, Jr., of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes.

Demolition of the two existing structures—199 and 209 Washington street—will begin within the next few months.

The trust company only recently completed a major renovation program at its Franklin Street headquarters. The new building, to be set back from Washington street, will be called "The Boston Company Building."

It was designed by Pietro Bel-luschi and working drawings are being prepared by Emery Roth & Sons of New York.

Finds Boston Welfare Dept. Ranks Highly

(Following is a report made by Deputy Director Doris L. Burke who attended a Workshop on Community Organization in Public Welfare, conducted by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in Washington, March 20-22):

By DORIS L. BURKE

Under auspices of the Welfare Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, representatives from most of the states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, convened in Washington, March 20-22, to review developments in community organization and public welfare and to chart new directions.

Format of the program combined didactic presentations to the total delegation with a breaking up of the over-all group into small units. These discussion groups were very interesting, and from the writer's viewpoint, extremely encouraging. It was evident that in many parts of the country, public welfare programs and their administration are not abreast of recent public welfare trends and developments as is the Boston Department of Public Welfare in the matter of effective programs and general over-all achievement.

Community Planning Essential

Dean Charles I. Schottland of the Florence Heller Graduate School, Brandeis University, addressed the group on the "major social issues facing public welfare." He outlined the complexities of modern government and its impact on public welfare. Massive amounts of coming legislative material, he feels, will require tremendous genius to implement to insure that the goals of such legislation will be achieved.

He views community planning as essential in the development of services to people. He envisions a shift from the early concepts of community organization emphasis to planning involvement. Dean Schottland believes that local planning bodies alone are not able to accomplish what they did in the past because: (a) They do not control resources, and (b) The tight money market is controlled by national policy. (Example: cutbacks in Office of Economic Opportunity funds.) He sees a need to develop a community planning model which must include local planning and local bodies taking control over resources. Such planning must include social action and coordination of health and welfare councils with authority and power to direct programs.

Standard setting at local levels has to be mandatory in any model. He emphasized that to be effective, planning in the welfare field must be related to political issues. He pointed to the growth of multi-service centers as one method of coordinating and delivering integrated services to the people in a community who need them. This method, the Brandeis dean believes, will bring about the optimum utilization of services already available and offer opportunities to develop others. He feels the major issues in public welfare are the standards and its image, and that the approach in Congress must be one which will compel states to meet in their grants their own standards for needy citizens. "States rights shall not rule as to who shall eat any more than the states say who shall vote," he declared.

HUD Program

Of significant interest was the presentation of Assistant Director Bernard Russell of the Demonstration Cities Program, Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). He described the initial phase of the Demonstration Cities Program would be the planning process which will continue from the present to June 30, 1967. He estimated that from six months to one year will be required to enable cities to gather data about the problems "following the submission of their proposals;" establish a rationale for attacking the programs, and develop programs to reach these goals. Complexities will include a wide range of social as well as fiscal problems.

In the second phase, plans will be presented for action programs and the Model Cities Program will fund a substantial portion. It is expected that funding will include other sources in addition to the MCP. Departments already established at federal level with related responsibility and expertise will continue to deal with these problems within the broad plan. Mr. Russell sees public welfare assuming the major responsibility. He said that this is in recognition of the fact that certain agencies have particular resources and knowledge and that Model Cities Program's role seeks to enhance these operations.

Small amounts of money will be made available to cities which would not normally be available, because of legislative restrictions, including financial restrictions which have prevented people from improving blighted areas, or to forestall emigration from these areas. The suggested guidelines emphasize that funds should be used to illustrate what can be accomplished. The Model Cities Program hopes to have a full range of programs in operation from which evaluations will determine what is successful and how to increase knowledge.

It is not expected that Model Cities Program can evaluate every program in depth. It will look to the universities to conduct evaluations and it is hoped to interest outside foundations as well.

Demonstration Cities Program is in contrast to the Poverty Program as it is to be conducted in one neighborhood, to run for approximately a five-year period with the goal of being picked up by the city and state as an integral part of their operations.

Mr. Russell anticipates that the number of applications to be approved will be approximately 70 projects this year and in 1968 an additional 70. He indicated that guidelines would be made available by the newly established community service center within the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Ad Hoc Committee Asks School Budget Cut

HON. JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The undersigned members of the Ad Hoc Committee, appointed by your Honor, to review the Boston General School Purposes budget and to make recommendations thereon submit the attached report.

Your committee suggests that the School Committee's appropriation request for $5,296,966 be reduced by $2,487,508. This will allow funds for General School Purposes for 1967 amounting to $54,334,439, some 11.5 percent or $5,591,562 more than was provided for the same purposes last year.

It is significant that almost 38 percent or $937,245 of the total General School Purposes reduction represents overestimated costs. This means that recent payroll experience projected over the course of the year indicates almost one million dollars in funds that the citizens should not have to raise.

It is further significant that although some $430,000 in reductions in academic salary requests are suggested, remaining funds will permit establishment of one of the most attractive teacher salary schedules in the Commonwealth. The suggested reduction still permits a $6,000-$10,000 and a $6,500-$10,500 salary schedule for Boston teachers. Only enough funds would be cut to prevent telescoping the present eleven-step salary schedule into ten steps.

With collective bargaining still under way with some nonacademic employee groups and as a result of generous nonacademic salary increases granted by the School Committee in the last two years it is suggested that no funds be allowed for further nonacademic salary hikes in this year's budget.

The $200,000 reduction in connection with Public Law 874 does not decrease school spending by that amount. It merely says that $200,000 more in Public Law 874 funds will be available and that source would be used rather than City of Boston tax moneys.

One major remaining recommendation involves $118,000 in supplies and equipment, bringing allowances in certain areas down to last year's expenditure levels while still permitting the increase requested in per capita amounts for instructional supplies.

Another recommendation eliminates the $7,933 which would permit additional nonteaching assistant principals and headmasters in the system.

It is finally suggested that the School Committee be asked to reduce its request of the assessor for Alterations and Repairs from $2,474,586, the statutory limit, to $1,800,000. The Department of Planning and Engineering is geared to spending only $1.8 million this year. Moreover, $1 million in loan funds will also be available for extraordinary repairs. It would be irresponsible to ask the Boston taxpayers to raise $674,586 more than could be spent just because the law gives the School Committee the power to appropriate up to $2,474,586. There is no valid argument for raising the extra $674,586 this year.

The General School Purposes recommendations would result in a tax rate savings of $1.75. The Alterations and Repairs suggestion if accepted by the School Committee represents another 45 cents on the tax rate. Total tax rate savings could amount to $2.20.

Center Garage Bids

Bids were opened on May 4 for construction of what may be the largest garage in Boston by the Boston Real Property Board.

Low bidder for work on the 2,000-car Government Center facility was Joseph Rugo, Inc., Boston, who submitted a price of $6,348,000.

The garage, planned for the Haymarket Square area, suffered a setback last September when initial bids came in several hundred thousand dollars over the Real Property Board's budget.

Joseph Alecks, Real Property Board Commissioner, expressed satisfaction with the latest bids and immediately scheduled a meeting of the Board to discuss the possibility of making an award.

Commissioner Alecks said that when he first took office several months ago, Mayor Collins charged him with the responsibility of getting the garage work under way as soon as possible.

He said that following the rejection of the initial bids the architects were directed to revise their specifications. Several changes have been made, mostly in the foundation design, but, said Commissioner

Alecks, the garage space was not decreased and would still be able to house 2,000 cars.

The second lowest bidder was Thomas P. O'Conner Company, $6,650,000. The third bid from Vappi Construction Company of Cambridge came in at $7,774,000 which is about $100,000 higher than the low bid rejected last September.

PROPOSED INCREASE IN SOCIAL SECURITY PENSION PAYMENTS

The following was received:

United States Senate,

March 22, 1967.

Mr. F. O'Donnell,
Assistant City Clerk.

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

Thank you very much for your correspondence advising me of your interest in legislation to improve and expand our social security system. As a member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging and as Chairman of the Aging Subcommittee, I share your deep concern in this area.

Social security benefits are not adequate. They have not kept pace with the times and, as you are well aware, the result is that more and more of our elderly simply cannot make ends meet on their pension checks. For these people social security has still not lived up to its original promise to avert economic insecurity in retirement. We must undertake a basic overhaul of the benefit structure in order to lift millions of older Americans out of poverty and into a retirement of dignity and self-respect.

To begin what must be a thorough and prompt reevaluation by Congress of the benefit structure of the social security system I cosponsored legislation to provide what in my judgment are the minimum improvements that are necessary now to respond to the needs of our elderly. This bill, which Senator Robert Kennedy introduced would more than double the minimum benefits payable, provide a 50 percent increase in benefits for those whose earnings were between $1,200 and $3,000 yearly and from 39 percent to 45 percent increases in the benefits of those whose earnings were slightly higher, authorize an automatic adjustment of benefits geared to the cost of living and entitle widows of beneficiaries to the same benefits as their husbands. I hope we will be successful in obtaining approval of this legislation in the near future.

I was also encouraged by the action of the President in his State of the Union message in calling for legislation to increase benefits by at least 20 percent, to extend medicare to disability recipients, to increase the amount of money a retired person can earn, and to guarantee every worker who has participated in social security for at least 25 years a minimum of $100 a month when he retires.

I want you to know that I consider legislation regarding social security benefits to be of the highest priority. It will have my full support and in this connection your own observations and suggestions will be most helpful to me in working to see to it that we provide millions of Americans with the assurance that they will receive an adequate income in retirement.

Sincerely,

EDWARD M. KENNEDY.

$400 Million Plan for Downtown Revitalization Called Creative, Bold, Realistic

On May 18 plans for the revitalization of Boston's downtown area with a target date for 1975 were made public and a model dramatically spelled out for viewers' eyes the extent of the far-reaching plans. The over-all program attracted attention not only from Boston and the entire metropolitan area but other major cities across the country as well.

Following are the comments of Mayor John F. Collins, with the start of whose administration the planning got under way; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Lally, chairman of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, and Attorney Charles A. Coolidge, president of the Committee for the Central Business District, Inc.:

MAYOR COLLINS:

This is one of the most significant events to take place in Boston for some time.

Planning Started in 1960

This plan, which has been painstakingly developed over a four-year period, is one which properly reflects a balance of interests and needs in the Central Business District. The improvements that are proposed in the way of traffic circulation and parking garage proposals, will increase accessibility to Downtown Boston. The new developments—office, commercial, and retail—will add new strength to downtown, an area which until recently, has sorely lacked any growth.

The plan shown is the final redevelopment proposal contemplated under the original development program set out by this administration in 1960.

We have come a long way since that time. Over $800 million in new construction has been undertaken or committed in the last seven years as compared with $660 million in the 14-year preceding period.

The original development program was designed to strike a balance between the need for new housing and community facility development in the city and the need for a strengthened and broadened tax base.

We recognized then, and we recognize now, that sound renewal of a city requires a comprehensive approach. We now are meeting many of the needs in the blighted residential areas of the city, although there are many needs that we simply do not have the resources to meet at this time.

But, with the strengthening of Boston's economic base that projects such as the Central Business District, the Waterfront, and the Government Center will provide, I know we can look forward to further serving the community.

I recall in 1960, asking the business community to work with the city to help us revitalize. I doubt if there is another city in the country that has received the kind of response that we have.

$8 Million Morgan Memorial Complex

Plans for an $8 million building construction program comprising new housing, a day care center, and boys' school has been presented to the Boston Redevelopment Authority for its approval.

The proposed development by Morgan Memorial Goodwill Centers and its affiliate, Massachusetts Housing Association, calls for construction in the South Cove Urban Renewal project area of:

A 20-story and two 12-story apartment buildings containing over 200 units of moderate income apartments to cost about $6 million.

A $750,000 Goodwill Day Care Center to replace one Morgan Memorial's South End day nursery scheduled to be taken by the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

A $1,250,000 Charles Hayden Goodwill Inn School for troubled boys to replace a similar unit taken by the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority in connection with the toll road extension into Boston.

The proposed complex will occupy a site bounded by the Massachusetts Turnpike, Tremont street and Shawmut avenue.

According to Henry Helms, approval of Morgan Memorial, as developer by the BRA, would enable his agency immediately to launch a fund-raising drive for some $700,000 needed to finance the nursery and boys' center.

TB-Diabetes Tests

Tuberculosis and diabetes detection were main themes at the Health Fair at the Warren Prescott School, Charlestown, May 11-13.

Community Health Services of the Department of Health and Hospitals set up a booth for testing by doctors and nurses. Dr. Samuel C. Cohen, Director of the Department's Tuberculosis Clinics, directed activities of the tuberculosis finding area, and Dr. Frederic F. Maloof, Director of the Community Health Services Division, was in charge of the diabetes detection section.

Dr. Cohen spoke in the school auditorium on "Tuberculosis detection and the functions of the Boston Department of Health and Hospitals Tuberculosis Clinics."

Dr. Nicholas Fiumara, Director of Communicable Diseases, State Department of Health, and lecturer on social problems, spoke on "Sexual and nonsexual problems of adolescents."

Deputy Community Health Services Commissioner Leon Taubenhauz said that diabetes detection services will be offered to Boston residents as an additional adult health program at the Charlestown and Harvard Street Health Units.

70-Year-Olders Aided

Commissioner of Assessing Francis X. Cuddy announced on May 11 a change of procedure in the filing of applications for tax abatements for property owners over 70 years of age.

Commissioner Cuddy said that in order to eliminate long waiting lines, applications will be mailed to all persons over 70 who have previously received an abatement.

All questions on applications should be fully answered and returned to the Assessing Department as soon as possible. It will not be necessary to apply in person, Commissioner Cuddy said.

Applicants applying for the first time this year must apply in person at Boston City Hall.

Disastrous Choice

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce has indicated strong disapproval of the proposed location of the University of Massachusetts Boston Branch in Copley square.

Chamber President Frank S. Christian labeled the choice of the Copley Square site as "idealistic but highly impractical for both the City of Boston and the University."

In a statement, the Chamber cited exorbitant construction costs, expropriation of a prime commercial area, and serious access and parking problems as major reasons why the site would be a disastrous choice.

Birth Defects War

Addressing an assembly of directors of many New England Nursing Education and Nursing Services, a lecture team of medical personnel emphasized the fight against the threat of birth defects not only in the research laboratory, but also by close attention to logical, fundamental practices by the mother-to-be in her prenatal plans.

The dual approach to the problem of birth defects, afflicting 6,000 Massachusetts babies each year, was described at Boston College recently under the sponsorship of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation - March of Dimes.

E. Boston APAC Voting

Elections to choose members to the Area Planning Action Council (APAC) for the East Boston area were held May 23 from 1 P.M. to 9 P.M. at polling places in the housing projects at Maverick street and Orient Heights and the district's four Boston Fire Department stations.

The APAC is the local organization which will handle the anti-poverty program in East Boston under requirements set up by the East Boston Steering Committee, ABCD, and the Office of Economic Opportunity. The fire stations are located at Engine 56 and Ladder 21, 1 Ashley street; Engines 15 and 11, 360 Saratoga street; Engine 9 and Ladder 2, 60 Paris street, and Engine 40, 260 Saratoga street.

Sallies Spent $1,856,000

The Salvation Army last year spent $1,856,000 on various programs in the Boston area, Richard D. Hill, president of the First National Bank of Boston, reported at the annual dinner meeting of the Salvation Army Association of Greater Boston.

BPL Officers Re-elected

President Lenahan O'Connell, Vice-President Erwin D. Canham, and Clerk Elizabeth Brockunier of the Boston Public Library were re-elected at a meeting of the BPL Board of Trustees, May 12.

Construction Go-Ahead

A construction go-ahead was given on May 18 to the $5.7 million Christian Science Church administration office tower to serve as the church's world headquarters.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority approved foundation plans for the 26-story tower on Huntington avenue near Belvidere street and the Prudential Center. The tower has been designed by I.M. Pei and Partners of New York.

West Enders' Reunion

West End House alumni will hold their annual spring dinner dance on Saturday evening, May 27, at the Blue Hills Country Club in Canton.

The West End House Boys Club, founded by the late James J. Storrow in 1906, serves boys of Greater Boston, aiding in scholarship grants and summer camp for many needy boys.

Dance committee chairman is Samuel London and co-chairman is Michael Kaplan.

Sox Aid Job Drive

The Boston Red Sox are doing their part to assist in the President's Youth Opportunity Campaign, a drive to find employment for youngsters between 16 and 21, who are looking for work this summer with little hope of finding any.

A pledge by an employer to hire a youth for the summer entitles him and a youngster to free admittance to Fenway Park when the Minnesota Twins and Sox play on Thursday, June 1. For each additional job pledged, another young person will be admitted free as the employer's guest.

Employers may obtain tickets by writing or visiting the nearest Massachusetts Division of Employment Security Office. They should list the number of young people they intend to hire this summer.

WGBH Auction

Channel 2 (Station WGBH) will hold its second annual TV Phone Auction, Memorial Day Week, May 29-June 3. Last year's auction realized $130,000. This year it is hoped to raise the figure to $200,000. The station is a nonprofit, educational organization.

Revitalization . . .

Cooperation of Business Cited

Business organizations have worked and are working with us in the Waterfront Project Area, the Back Bay Planning Area, and the Central Business District Area, in the same manner as the community organizations are working with us in the residential project areas.

This combination of imaginative government and farsighted business and community leadership, is one that cannot be matched anywhere. I am proud of the programs that we have undertaken, I am proud of Boston's residential and business community, and I am most enthusiastic about the Central Business District plan.

Everyone here should recognize that there are a number of businessmen, all of whom have full schedules, who have devoted many hours over the last four years to working with the Redevelopment Authority on this plan. They are too numerous to mention and for fear of forgetting anyone, I will just say, "Thank you."

But I cannot fail to give a personal vote of thanks for a tremendous job well done by Mr. Charles Coolidge, president of the Committee for the Central Business District. All of us in Boston have benefited from his splendid sense of public service. His exceptional judgment and great integrity have inspired confidence on the part of all who have reconciled their diverse interests to put this great plan together.

It is a great day for Boston and for all of you who have done so much to make it possible.

* * * *

MONSIGNOR LALLY:

Our process of planning with the communities affected by our urban renewal proposals works and is most gratifying to me personally. It is by blending the varying interests that must be considered in this renewal program that we achieve the proper balance between that which can be accomplished, that which reflects the interests and needs of the community, and that which reflects the requirements of the city at large.

It has taken us a long time to reach this point in the Central Business District renewal program. This is a recognition that the renewal of the business heart of the community must be carefully studied so that all concerned are satisfied with the proposals and understand the range of problems that must be attacked in the revitalization process.

We have a long way to go in renewing the Central Business District, but we have made a good start. A new department store for Raymond's will be under construction by September and other major developments throughout the area are firm. Just as we can look at the Government Center and see massive major new construction under way, I know that in a few years we will look at the Central Business District with the feeling of amazement that so much could be accomplished in a relatively short period of time.

I would like to pledge the cooperation of the members of the Authority in a plan that is essential for the great future we all foresee for Boston.

Farsighted and Realistic

The plan unveiled is the result of a special kind of coordination and cooperation of which the BRA is very proud. The Redevelopment Authority, the Committee for the Central Business District, and the Authority's consultants have worked together for over four years to develop a plan which is creative, bold, farsighted, and realistic.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

Revitalization . . .

CHARLES A. COOLIDGE:

Back in 1960, when Mayor Collins presented his Development Program for the City of Boston, he made two challenges to the business community. One challenge was to the Chamber of Commerce, to raise money and start preliminary planning for the Waterfront. The Chamber accepted that challenge, and as you know, the Waterfront Plan is in the early stages of implementation.

The second challenge was to the Retail Trade Board, to do the same thing for the Central Business District. The Retail Trade Board did not respond directly, but those interested in the Central Business District, including retailers, formed a nonprofit corporation called the Committee for the Central Business District, Inc.

Raised $235,000

This corporation raised some $235,000, retained the internationally known firm of city planners, Victor Gruen Associates, and initiated preliminary planning for the Central Business District. This was begun some six months before the Boston Redevelopment Authority itself entered into a contract with the Gruen firm for further planning. The CCBD has actively participated in the planning activities since then.

I speak to you as the President of CCBD, one of your hosts for this important occasion.

The big problem in the planning of the renewal of the Central Business District was to come up with a plan that proposes changes which are dramatic, but which are not either too costly or too disruptive to business within the district. The retailer's business must continue or else the retailer may be forced out of business by his customers going elsewhere.

This means that the plan must keep relocations at a minimum, and that great care must be exercised to see that appropriate relocation quarters are available at the right time for those who must move.

I believe the plan now being unveiled meets these requirements. The changes it proposes are dramatic. The proposed pedestrian areas on Washington street, and on several of the cross streets in the so-called "Ladder Blocks" running between Washington and Tremont streets, are dramatic. Dramatic also is the proposed development of the South Station and lower Summer street. While the underground delivery systems and the widening of Chauncy and Arch streets will not in themselves be dramatic, they make pedestrian areas possible.

Also the plan represents a long-range goal and, as such incorporates an element of flexibility which will permit accommodation to changing circumstances, and, even more important, will permit the plan to be carried out in accordance with carefully prepared staging schedules. This not only should help in obtaining federal funds by spreading out our requests, but it also will make it possible to minimize disruption of business within the district.

The future role of CCBD will be much concerned with this vital factor of ensuring that execution of the plan will result in the least possible interruption and inconvenience to normal business activity. In this effort, we expect to continue our close working relationship with the BRA.

The committee has participated actively in the preparation of the plan, and after careful consideration has, by unanimous vote of its Board of Directors, approved the plan in principle, and commends it to the citizens of Boston.

For High School Boys

High school students will be given free golf privileges three days a week at city operated golf courses under a plan announced by Mayor John F. Collins in a directive to Park Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr.

The Mayor said a study showed that high school students interested in taking up golf often are unable to afford the sport. In order to encourage these golf fans, Mayor Collins said, he was directing that students be allowed to play free of charge on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays at either the George Wright or Franklin Field links.

Commissioner Tierney said headmasters of Boston schools will be requested to submit the names of students interested in playing golf. The Park Department, in turn, would supply the students with membership cards.

Shriners Burns Center To Open Jan. 1, 1968

The $4.2 million medical center for the treatment of children suffering from severe burns will be opened in Boston next January under sponsorship of the International Shriners in cooperation with Harvard Medical School and Massachusetts General Hospital.

Opening day target date announcement was made by the Imperial Potentate, Orville F. Rush of Washington, D. C. The Boston center is one of three facilities in the nation presently under construction.

Mr. Rush will return here July 1, to lay the cornerstone for the new building within the Massachusetts General complex at Blossom and Cambridge streets. The structure, a three-story affair, is being erected by the Volpe Construction Company.

As in the case of the 29 orthopedic hospitals financed and operated by the Shriners, the Burns Center will administer patients free of charge. More than 150 employees will be needed to staff the 30-bed facility affording around-the-clock care.

National American Legion Convention, Aug. 25-31, To Draw Tremendous Throngs; 8-Hour Parade

More than 60,000 Legionnaires from outside Massachusetts, plus guests, are expected to attend the 49th annual American Legion national convention in Boston, August 25-31.

This state has 80,000 members. Including families and friends, this means a potential attendance of more than 200,000 at the various events, according to H. Vincent Strout, secretary of the American Legion Convention Corporation of Mass.

Plans call for a parade August 28 that will last more than eight hours, with at least 20,000 participants covering the two-mile route through Back Bay and downtown.

Floats and musical units from all over the country will take part. Efforts are being made to find 5,000 billets at Fort Devens or other nearby installations for the musicians and other young people. The Legion will pay any charges for accommodations.

Ernest Henderson, chairman of the board of the Sheraton Corporation and president and general chairman of the convention corporation, said, "Boston will be a sounding board for the opinions of men from all parts of the country" during the convention.

Legion leaders met with military representatives to plan the affair. All branches of the military have promised full cooperation.

A National Legion Convention was last held in Boston in 1940.

General sessions will be held in War Memorial Auditorium, and committee meetings in the Sheraton Plaza Hotel. Chief military speaker will be Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Jr., head of the Marine Corps.

The United Fund Depends on You

7-Day BPL Rule

Loan periods for all Boston Public Library books and recordings will be reduced by seven days, effective June 1.

John M. Carroll, chief librarian of the home reading and community services, in making the announcement said library materials will become more readily available to a larger number of borrowers.

The present 21- to 27-day periods will be reduced to 14-20 day intervals. The due date will continue to fall on Wednesdays.

Career Day At BCH

Career Day for 80 students from Cardinal Cushing High School was held in Cheever Amphitheatre, Boston City Hospital, May 18.

The program, under direction of Mrs. Alice M. Lyons, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, gave students an opportunity to learn about various health careers available to high school graduates and those who will pursue post-high school studies.

Big Raytheon Award

Raytheon Corporation in Lexington has been awarded an estimated $150 million contract for development of a new missile system.

A company spokesman said most of the money will be spent in the Boston metropolitan area.

The $150 million represents the initial phase of a $1 billion project to replace the Hawk missile system with a SAM (Surface to Air Missile) system.

Since 1965, the number of Raytheon employees has dipped from a high of 43,000 to a low of 36,000 and climbed back up to the 43,000 mark at the first of this month.

"I expect there will be some hiring with this contract," the Raytheon spokesman said, "but it's too early to say how much."

LOW WATER

British engineers feared they would have to replan completely the Dungeness nuclear power station in Kent, after studying a special model showing the flow of rivers and estuaries in the area. Then they discovered the reason for the puzzling variations in the model's water level. An office cleaner had been filling her bucket from it each day.

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, April 10, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HYNES in the Chair. Absent, Councillor Piemonte.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Merciful and gracious God, this day and every day we accept as a gift, an opportunity for high endeavor and noble public service, a call and a challenge to build a better society. With this moment of fervent prayer we now undertake our work and with the assurance of Thy promised help the problems will be less difficult to face and the burdens easier to bear. If we pray in an ordinary day we will know how to pray with conquering power when days of crisis and adversity come upon us. When the way is dim, the road rough, and the weather stormy help us to rely on Thy greatness and Thy goodness. May Thy divine benediction rest upon the president and members of this Council and upon the people in whose service we gather in this Council Chamber.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

Gentlemen:

I am resubmitting herewith for your consideration two appropriation and loan orders in support of the Government Center and Washington Park Urban Renewal Projects. These orders were originally submitted to you on February 6, 1967, as part of the 1967 Capital Budget but were rejected without prejudice on April 3, 1967.

Funds from these loans in both instances will be needed in 1967 and are necessary to the continuing progress of urban renewal activities in both project areas.

I respectfully urge favorable consideration and adoption of these orders.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Ordered, That it be, and hereby is, estimated that the cost of certain project improvements required for the development of the Government Center Urban Renewal Area in Boston in accordance with the approved Government Center Urban Renewal Plan which will not be met by loans, contributions or grants from the federal government, or otherwise, will be two million eight hundred and five thousand dollars ($2,805,000) in excess of prior estimates; and be it further

Ordered, That to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized under the provisions of section 26CC of chapter 121 of the General Laws, as amended, to issue from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Ordered, That it be, and hereby is, estimated that the cost of certain project improvements required for the development of the Washington Park Urban Renewal Area in Boston in accordance with the approved Washington Park Urban Renewal Plan which will not be met by loans, contributions, or grants from the federal government, or otherwise, will be four million nine hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars ($4,925,000) in excess of prior estimates; and be it further

Ordered, That the sum of four million nine hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars ($4,925,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be expended, in addition to all sums heretofore appropriated, in aid of and with the approval of the Boston Redevelopment Authority and in accordance with the approved Washington Park Urban Renewal Plan and Cooperation Agreement by and between the City of Boston and the Boston Redevelopment Authority for defraying such part of the development costs of the Washington Park Urban Renewal Project as will not be met by loans, contributions, or grants from the federal government, or otherwise; and be it further

GRANT TO POLICE DEPARTMENT OF $30,200 UNDER ENFORCEMENT ASSISTANCE ACT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of the attached communication from the Commissioner of the Boston Police Department relative to a grant of $30,200 from the office of Law Enforcement Assistant, U. S. Department of Justice, to be expended by the commissioner under the provisions of General Laws, chapter 44, section 53A, as inserted by chapter 99 of the Acts of 1964.

Before this grant award may be expended by the Police Commissioner, General Law, chapter 44, section 53A, requires that your Honorable Body approve such expenditure. Accordingly, in order that this much-needed program may be started in the near future, I recommend that your Honorable Body adopt at an early date the order transmitted herewith.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Police Department, April 3, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Police Department has received a grant of $30,200 from the office of Law Enforcement Assistance, U. S. Department of Justice, under the "Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965." This grant will have as its particular objective the study and development of an integrated communications and information system for this department.

The effectiveness of the police response to calls for service depends to a large measure upon internal communications and the processing of information. It is expected that the results of this survey will provide a more simplified reporting system, a reduction of the workload in our central records unit and an estimate of the ways in which electronic data processing can increase the efficiency of our police operations.

I respectfully request that the Boston Police Department be permitted to expend these federal funds under the provisions of General Laws, chapter 44, section 53A, as inserted by chapter 99 of the Acts of 1964.

Respectfully,

EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

Ordered, That it be, and hereby is, voted to approve the expenditure by the Police Commissioner of the $30,200 grant award under the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965 (PL 89-197) for the purposes of such grant, to wit, a police-community relations program.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

LOAN ORDERS FOR PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT AND SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 7, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works requesting funds for highway and sewer construction with accompanying loan orders, and in addition, I am resubmitting a request from the School Committee at a figure reduced to one million dollars for making extraordinary improvements or repairs to school buildings.

You will recall that I had previously requested your approval of similar loans to meet these programs, but because of the statutory limitation imposed upon the city, I was forced to withdraw those orders on March 13, 1967.

The accompanying orders, you will note, are resubmitted at a reduced amount of more than three million dollars.

In the event these orders are approved, the city will have less than one half million remaining available within its borrowing capacity, under chapter 44 of the General Laws, to meet any unforeseen emergencies during the remainder of 1967.

I respectfully request your Honorable Body's approval of the accompanying loan and appropriation orders as expeditiously as possible, to avoid any further delay in construction programs for highways and sewers.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department.
April 7, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Because of the limited availability of borrowing within the debt limit I have reviewed the proposed 1967 Public Works Construction Program for Highways and Sewers as originally prepared and find that for our immediate needs the highway and sewer programs can be reduced by $500,000 each.

Out of the highway construction program dated February 16, 1967, we propose to reduce $250,000 for chapter 44 general reconstruction of streets and $250,000 for chapter 90 state aid-major streets which would require a loan of $2,650,000 and an appropriation of $142,500 for a total of $2,792,500. Out of the sewer construction program we propose to defer the construction of brook enclosures for one year estimated to cost $1,000,000 and accordingly would require a loan of $1,400,000 and an appropriation of $28,000 for a total of $1,428,000.

I enclose a table similar to the one dated February 16, 1967, which sets forth a new summary of the 1967 Public Works Construction Program.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,

School Committee, January 19, 1967.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mayor Collins:

The School Committee recently discussed the condition of our school buildings and the urgent need for continuing the program of repairs.

It was brought to the attention of the members that chapter 215 of the Acts of 1965 authorized the City of Boston to borrow $5 million for making extraordinary improvements or repairs to school buildings, but of that sum, bonds have been issued for only $2 million.

Inasmuch as the $2 million authorization has been depleted and the need for repairs continues, the School Committee has directed me to request that you present to the City Council an order appropriating the $3 million balance authorized by the Legislature. This amount, together with the appropriations made annually under the Alterations and Repairs budget, will enable the School Committee to show considerable progress towards improving the school plant.

Respectfully,

EDWARD J. WINTER,

Secretary to the School Committee.

Ordered, That the sum of one million four hundred thousand dollars ($1,400,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated for the construction of sewers for sanitary and surface drainage purposes; and be it further

Ordered, That to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized under the provisions of clause 1 of section 7 of chapter 44 of the General Laws to issue from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Ordered, That the sum of two million six hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($2,650,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated for the original construction of public ways or the extension or widening thereof, including land damages and the cost of pavement and sidewalks laid at the time of said construction, or for the construction of stone, block, brick, cement concrete, bituminous concrete, bituminous macadam or other permanent paving of similar lasting character; and be it further

Ordered, That to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized under the provisions of clause 5 of section 7 of chapter 44 of the General Laws to issue from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Ordered, That the sum of twenty-eight thousand dollars ($28,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be raised by taxation to be expended for the construction of sewers for sanitary and surface drainage purposes, in accordance with the provisions of the first sentence of section 7 of chapter 44 of the General Laws as amended.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred forty-two thousand five hundred dollars ($142,500) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be raised by taxation to be expended for the original construction of public ways or the extension or widening thereof, including land damages and the cost of pavement and sidewalks laid at the time of said construction, or for the construction of stone, block, brick, cement concrete, bituminous concrete, bituminous macadam or other permanent pavement of similar lasting character, in accordance with the provisions of the first sentence of section 7 of chapter 44 of the General Laws as amended.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 215, of the Acts of 1965, the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) be, and the same hereby is, appropriated for remodeling, reconstructing, or making extraordinary improvement or repairs to school buildings owned by the city, and that to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or notes to said amount.

Severally referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

APPLICATION FOR MODEL NEIGHBORHOOD

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1967.

The Honorable City Council.

Subject: Model Neighborhoods in Demonstration Cities.

Boston needs the benefits of the Federal Model Neighborhood Program. I am sure you will join with me in the hope that our city may be one of the first seventy selected for this new program.

In my judgment, the Model Neighborhood Program is an important extension of concepts already well established here in Boston. The emphasis of rehabilitation and citizen participation in our urban renewal program, the efforts to rebuild our capital plant in the Public Facilities Department, the efforts of the Action for Boston Community Development to combat the social ills of deprived neighborhoods—all of these things are in the direction which the President and the Congress have suggested we move in the Model Neighborhood Program.

The first stage of the Model Neighborhood Program is the submission of an application for a planning grant by the Mayor of the city, with the authorization of the City Council, to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for planning moneys to plan a Model Neighborhood Program. The application is for a grant of $240,000 for a planning period expected to last nine months.

The application before you recommends an area surrounding the Washington Park Urban Renewal Project. It is an area which is presently deteriorated and which in my judgment can be saved, with the kind of comprehensive and well rounded approach of the Model Neighborhood Program.

The improvement of our own city services will be a major objective in the development of this program and we hope the proposed model neighborhood legislation will make this more feasible than would otherwise be likely.

Citizen involvement is also a key element in the success of any program and this process is already under way.

We are informed by the appropriate federal officials that our application must be formally submitted by May 1, 1967, if it is to be approved in the first round of cities in this program. Since these are the only cities for which money is now available for planning, I think it is very much in our interest to submit an application by that time.

I urge that you give this matter your full and favorable consideration and am arranging under separate cover that the City Council receive copies of the application for a planning grant.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOSTON CITY COUNCIL APPROVING REQUEST FOR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO PLAN AND DEVELOP A COMPREHENSIVE CITY DEMONSTRATION PROGRAM

Whereas, The City of Boston desires to undertake a comprehensive program to rebuild or revitalize large slum and blighted areas and generally improve living conditions for the people who live in such areas; and

Whereas, The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to make grants to, and contract with, City Demonstration Agencies to pay 80 percent of the costs of planning and developing such city demonstration programs: now therefore be it Resolved, By the City Council of the City of Boston, as follows:

Approval is hereby granted (1) for the submission of a request for financial assistance for the planning and development of a comprehensive city demonstration program; (2) for the provision of any information or documentation concerning the preparation and content of such program as may be required by the Department of Housing and Urban Development; and (3) for the representation by Roy Hamilton, Office of the Mayor, as the authorized representative empowered to act on behalf of the City of Boston in connection with all matters pertaining to the request for financial assistance.

COMMUNICATION FROM SENATOR EDWARD W. BROOKE

The following was received:

United States Senate,
Washington, D.C.,
March 30, 1967.

Mr. F. J. O'Donnell,
Assistant City Clerk.

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

I have read your thoughtful and deeply felt letter about increased Social Security benefits with sympathetic interest. But you will have, I promise you, much more than my sympathetic interest when this legislation reaches the Senate floor for discussion, debate, and disposition.

I favor and will vote for a substantial increase in Social Security benefits.

In addition, I shall actively work for repeal of the present earnings exemption. Any man or woman who can and wants to work after reaching 65 years of age should be encouraged to do so without any penalty whatsoever.

Since the House of Representatives will consider this problem before the Senate can act, it is now impossible to predict the form or content of the bill which will come before the Senate for action. It is my hope, however, that both the House and the Senate will agree to correct and improve the present law in the following additional areas: ironing out inequities insofar as the relation of pensions and Social Security benefits are concerned—coverage for widows and the handicapped—the extension of benefits to farm workers—and an over-all reappraisal of the Social Security system so that it is responsive not only to the needs of those it serves in 1967 but will be flexible enough to serve the needs of the coming decade as well.

As a freshman United States Senator, I need the guidance which letters like yours provide. Thank you for writing. You can count on my help and support.

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD W. BROOKE.

Gentlemen:

I am submitting under separate cover all necessary material relative to the City of Boston's application for a Federal Demolition Grant.

I respectfully request your speedy consideration and adoption of the resolution.

Very truly yours,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

(Attached hereto is the supporting data.)

Referred to the Committee on Urban Renewal.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOSTON CITY COUNCIL AUTHORIZING SUBMISSION OF APPLICATION FOR DEMOLITION GRANT.

Whereas, Under section 116 of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, the Housing and Home Finance Administrator is authorized to make grants to municipalities and counties to assist in financing the cost of demolishing structures which under state or local law have been determined to be structurally unsafe, unsound, and unfit for human habitation; and

Whereas, By reason of the existence in the City of Boston of structures which constitute a public nuisance and a serious hazard to the public health, it is in the public interest to carry out a program of demolition of such structures on a planned neighborhood basis with grant funds authorized under section 116; and

Whereas, It is recognized that the grant of funds pursuant to section 116 will impose certain obligations and responsibilities upon the City of Boston among which is the obligation to assure that any persons who may be displaced as a result of the demolition activities are relocated into decent, safe, and sanitary housing, in accordance with the regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator; and

Whereas, Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator effectuating that title, provide that no person shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to, discrimination in the undertaking and carrying out of any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance under Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended; now therefore be it

Resolved, By the City Council of the City of Boston:

1. That an application be filed on behalf of the City of Boston for a grant under section 116, Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, of two thirds of the cost of undertaking and carrying out a program of demolition in an area or areas to be designated in such applications, which cost is now estimated to be $946,000 and that the Mayor of Boston is hereby authorized and directed to execute and file such application, to execute such commitments as may be necessary for the grant applied for, to execute and file requisitions for funds, to approve all claims for relocation payments made in accordance with the applicable regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator, to provide such information and furnish such documents as may be required by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and to act as the authorized representative of the City of Boston in the accomplishment of the demolition program.

2. That the United States of America and the Housing and Home Finance Administrator be, and they hereby are, assured of full compliance by the City of Boston with regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Agency effectuating Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

3. That there exists in the City of Boston decent, safe, and sanitary housing which is available to persons displaced as a result of the demolition activities to be performed with the federal grant, at prices which are within their financial means and which are not generally less desirable in regard to public utilities and public and commercial facilities than the dwellings of the displaced individuals and families, and it is the sense of this Body that such displacees, if any, will be relocated in accordance with applicable regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Refuse Disposal Problem Reaches Acute Stage, Fin. Com. Reports to Mayor

(The following is the first installment of a report addressed to Mayor Collins by the Finance Commission concerning the pressing problem which finds Boston sharing with other major cities across the country in a shortage of disposal areas for refuse. The report will be concluded in the next issue of the "City Record"):

To the Honorable the Mayor.

The City's thorny refuse disposal situation is becoming increasingly serious.

Boston's bind is dramatically exemplified by the fact that the City is now in a captive situation with respect to the disposal of refuse from the East Boston area.

The cost of the dumping privilege at a private dump in Saugus, the site used for disposing of refuse collections from East Boston, has increased from $10,800 in the 1956-57 period to $57,240 in the 1966-67 period. The City has recently had to accept a new increase imposed by the contractor who owns the dump, under which the City must pay $67,200 for the 1967-68 period.

The following table presents a picture of increasing cost to the City for the use of the Saugus dump for refuse disposal purposes:

Costs at Saugus Dump

YEAR	Yearly Amount	Increase	Percent
1954-55.....	$8,400
1955-56.....	10,800	$2,400	28.6
1956-57.....	10,800
1957-58.....	10,800
1958-59.....	20,000	9,200	85
1959-60.....	24,000	4,000	20
1960-61.....	24,000
1961-62.....	24,000
1962-63.....	24,000
1963-64.....	24,000
1964-65.....	30,000	6,000	25
1965-66.....	42,000	12,000	40
1966-67.....	57,240	15,240	36.3
1967-68.....	67,200	9,960	17.4

The dismal fact of the matter is that the City is "over a barrel" and has had to submit to this arbitrary increase in price. There is no acceptable alternative open to the City but to accept the $67,200 figure which represents an increase in cost of over 500 percent in six years.

Distinguished Visitor

From Portsmouth, England, the Boston Welfare Department is expecting a visit from the wife of a former Lord Mayor, associated with social welfare work with the elderly. The imposing letterhead clearing the way for this visit indicated that it had been sent from the "Lord Mayor's Parlour" and was addressed to "His Worship the Mayor of Boston, Mayor's Parlour." This should be a mutually interesting visit—"hands across the sea" in the true meaning of the words.

Adult Education Plans Summer Sessions

The Department of Adult Educational and Recreational Activities has announced that it will extend the Adult Basic Education school year through the summer months. The program is free and all adult Boston residents who have not completed the eighth grade are welcome and urged to register. It will be of assistance to all who wish to improve their reading, speaking, spelling, writing, or arithmetic skills.

The Problem

The refuse disposal problem facing Boston may be sketched out in rough form by citing some relevant statistics and observations.

The South Bay Incinerator presently takes care of the combustible waste disposal needs of 450,000 people, approximately two thirds of the population of the City. The land-fill dump at Gardner Street provides for the needs of 200,000 in Hyde Park, West Roxbury, Jamaica Plain, and Brighton. A private dump located in Saugus meets disposal needs of 43,000 in East Boston.

The South Bay Incinerator, however, does not represent a complete disposal operation, inasmuch as large unit combustibles cannot be accommodated in the furnaces; non-combustibles obviously cannot be accommodated, and the incinerator itself generates a 10 percent to 15 percent residue which must be disposed of.

Gardner Street represents the most inexpensive acceptable type of disposal operation, namely, the land-fill method. This dump site, however, like all old dump sites, is approaching the limit of its service life in terms of meeting the needs of the area served.

Boston is running out of dumping space. Much low-lying and rocky land in Boston which for years could find no purchaser, and could have been considered suitable for dumping, has now been acquired by developers.

Gardner Street Dump

Gardner Street alone represents the only remaining land-dump site in the City. The Calf Pasture and Hallet Street Dumps have been closed to the disposal of refuse.

The Public Works Commissioner, realizing the importance of getting the greatest space potential out of the Gardner Street Dump, has purchased a Sanitary Fill Compactor which, by effectively compacting refuse deposited, makes it possible to accommodate much more fill in a given area. It is also contended that such compacting to a greater density eliminates insects and vermin and reduces fire hazard.

There is another element in the situation, however, which has important implications for prolonging the life of this dump.

The disposal charge at the Gardner Street Dump is relatively so low that those contractors who are required to pay for disposal of refuse select this dump over the South Bay Incinerator or dumps outside the City.

A charge is made for disposal of refuse except when collected by a contractor within the district for which he holds a contract.

The volume of refuse brought to the Gardner Street Dump by those contractors who are required to pay has increased by over 300 percent during the past two years.

One result of this situation is that the remaining span of years left to the Gardner Street Dump to function as a disposal point is being exhausted at a faster rate than necessary. Since Gardner Street is the only available dump left in the City, this poses a serious problem.

The reason contractors prefer to use Gardner Street instead of the City's South Bay Incinerator is clear from the following example:

A 20 cubic yard packer truck, at 25¢ per 100 weight, would cost a contractor between $25 and $30 for disposal at the Incinerator; at the Gardner Street Dump this same truck would be charged a flat fee of $12.

This points up the immediate need to employ all means available to extend the life of this land dump.

A small incinerator, moreover, at this site would be helpful in providing for the needs of the area served and would also be available as a back up, if needed, for the South Bay Incinerator.

Situation Not Confined to Boston

Publications in the field document the fact that large cities and metropolitan areas throughout the country are faced with a similar problem and are bending every effort to meet the situation.

The refuse disposal problem is intensifying, not only in Boston but in the metropolitan areas as a whole. The Metropolitan Area Planning Council reports that the average amount of refuse generated annually per person in the Boston region is 1,000 pounds and this is growing at the rate of 2 percent per year.

One of the problems that must be kept in mind in planning a system of disposal methods in Boston is to provide sites for the inevitable non-combustible materials and incinerator residue. Incineration is adequate for combustibles, but non-combustibles pose a special problem and require land dump sites. According to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, the total refuse produced shows a range of 60-80 percent for combustibles and 20-40 percent for noncombustibles (by weight). Domestic refuse composition runs 85 percent combustible and 15 percent noncombustible.

If the City is not to find itself overwhelmed by the mounting refuse disposal problem, an immediate and economic solution must be found.

(This report will be concluded in next week's "City Record.")

Protect Them

Park Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr., requests police and Boston residents to help stop vandals who are ruining trees planted throughout the city.

He urged Boston residents to notify police if they see any such vandalism.

BULLFIGHTERS' FRIEND

In Spain many streets and monuments are named "Dr. Fleming," for the discoverer of penicillin is beloved throughout the country. Thanks to the doctor's drug, bullfighters who might have died of wounds received from bull horns live to fight another day.

Central City Model

The Boston Redevelopment Authority's plan for a $400 million facelift of the city's central business district is on public display in the lobby of 151 Tremont street.

Scale models of new buildings, shoppers' malls, and revised traffic routes and large architectural drawings make up the exhibit, which will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

BRA staff members will be on hand to explain details to visitors.

BCH Alcohol Study

A unit at the psychiatric service of the Boston City Hospital will be activated July 1, under a million-dollar federal grant, to study the causes of alcoholism. Behavioral research in determining how drinking patterns are established will be conducted by a psychological team. A special six-bed study unit will permit investigation of the roots of alcoholism on both a physical and an emotional basis and of the interaction of alcoholics in social situations.

The findings of a recent study showed that Metropolitan Boston has one hundred and seventy thousand alcoholics, a larger number than any city in the nation except San Francisco. One out of every fourteen Greater Bostonians over the age of eighteen is an alcoholic.

Prudential Exhibition

More than 40 of New England's best known sculptors are exhibiting their work in a show sponsored by the New England Sculptors' Association at the Prudential Center in Boston's Back Bay.

Sculpture Festival, 1967, has 30 invited pieces from New England's sculptors and 18 sculptures selected by a panel of judges from a pre-exhibit competition. The show runs from May 20 through June 16.

Abstract, figurative, and realistic interpretations will be displayed with subjects ranging from Harris Barron's 8-foot wood construction to Lucille Stubbs' 10-inch highboy done in bronze.

Nearly a third of the sculptures will be arranged out of doors on a flagstone terrace adjacent to Prudential's second floor gallery in the 52-story Prudential Tower.

Dimes March Misses 1967 Campaign Goal

The 1967 March of Dimes campaign in the Massachusetts Bay Chapter has fallen short of its goal by approximately $13,000 it has been announced. John V. Harvey, Volunteer Campaign Chairman, reports that $380,000 has been collected during the present campaign as opposed to $393,000 collected at this date last year.

Money contributed by Greater Boston residents to the March of Dimes is used for research, medical treatment, and a program of professional and public education in the field of birth defects. In thanking one and all for their contributions, let all be assured that the monumental task of fighting and ultimately defeating this second greatest destroyer of life in America today is being continued daily in the same spirit that ultimately conquered polio.

Robert Jenney Honored

President Robert M. Jenney, of the Jenney Manufacturing Company, was given a Distinguished Community Service Award for "continuing dedication and outstanding contribution to the community" by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Jenney was cited at the Chamber's 58th Annual Meeting for his efforts in seeking solutions to the problem of urban traffic congestion. He serves as chairman of the Chamber's Committee on Mass Transportation and has been active in regional highway and transit planning and in the planning for the proposed high-speed train between Boston, New York, and Washington.

READY-MADE SCREAMS

"Screams" are on sale in Brisbane, Australia. They come in a handy plastic case resembling a flashlight and cost about four dollars. When a woman is frightened and clutches the case, it emits a spine-chilling scream—enough to scare away the most determined of attackers.

Mayor Declines 3rd Term; Reviews Stewardship; Urges Continued Progress

(On June 6 Mayor John F. Collins announced at a press conference in his office that he would not seek reelection. On the evening of June 6 in a TV address broadcast on Station WHDH-TV he delivered the following address):

Ladies and Gentlemen — My Fellow Bostonians.

It is a pleasure to visit with you once again in your homes, homes which you have allowed me to enter as a friend on many occasions.

I have cherished these visits and that is why once again I am greeting you in your living rooms—talking directly to you the people who are so responsible for the progress and prosperity of this great City of Boston.

The message I bring to you tonight could have been delivered from a number of places, in a number of ways.

I could have spoken from my office at City Hall, from my home, or from a hotel function room.

This message could have been released exclusively to the newspapers at a press conference—or condensed into a thirty-second or sixty-second television film. It could, perhaps, have been taped for radio listeners.

None of these places, none of these methods, would have been entirely correct.

For, it is with you, the people, with whom I wish to share my thoughts in person.

I speak to you tonight with a mixture of both sadness and gladness.

Sadness, because this is one of the last times that I shall address you as your mayor.

As I said earlier today, I have decided not to seek reelection.

Alive, Vibrant, Respected, Envied

My feelings as I speak to you tonight also are buoyed by gladness—happiness with the knowledge that you and I successfully have traveled a long and difficult road in the last seven and one-half years.

Not only have we—you and I—given the New Boston a new look, but we have instilled in our city a new hope and a new purpose.

Eight years ago, you will recall, the health of Boston was not the best.

Today the city is alive, vibrant, respected, and envied by every major city in America.

I know of no period in Boston's history to compare with the last eight years in terms of moving Boston forward in every desirable direction.

During this time, we regained our heart, our courage, our vitality and our confidence.

This confidence, I'm happy to report, became contagious as business and industry beat a path to our door, sparking a 2 billion-dollar building boom.

ABCD, B. U. Medical School to Establish $1.46 Million Medical Center in Roxbury

Boston University School of Medicine has been designated the delegate agency for a comprehensive health services program funded for $1,462,510. The funds will be used to establish a neighborhood health center, to serve the Roxbury-North Dorchester area of Boston.

The community action program grant made possible under a 1966 amendment to the Economic Opportunity Act will provide out-patient medical, dental, and mental health care, including specialty services, drugs, transportation and hospitalization, where no other payment mechanisms are available for the poverty population of the area estimated at 30,000. Although the project will seek to serve, ultimately, the entire 30,000, by the end of its first year of operation the target group will be restricted to the intake of the currently operating multiservice center, and will total approximately 5,000.

As part of the project, the Boston University School of Medicine will establish an academic department to be known as the Department of Community Medicine whose professor and chairman will be based in the health center.

An extensive training program will offer work experience to residents of the target area in a variety of subprofessional roles. Training will be undertaken with a view towards placing persons in jobs which will enable them to upgrade their careers.

Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., will be the sponsoring agency. ABCD will assume the fiscal audit responsibility for the program. However, the Roxbury-North Dorchester Area Planning Action Council, which has responsibility under ABCD for the area, will act as the area coordinating agency.

The team concept of providing health care services to family units will be utilized. Each family care team will be headed by an internist or pediatrician, and will consist of community physicians, public health nurses, social workers, dental hygienists, and health aides.

Back-up facilities for specialized out-patient services and in-patient care will be provided by the Boston City Hospital and other available teaching hospitals.

A broad dental and oral health program will be provided for both adults and children. Community organizations will be stressed to insure maximum community participation, community knowledge of the program, and coordination of the activities of various community agencies to avoid duplication of efforts. The Project Director will be Dr. Henry J. Bakst, who has been the Director of the Division of Health Conservation of Boston University Hospital since 1960, and the Associate Dean of the Boston University, School of Medicine, Department of Preventive Medicine, since 1965.

The legislation authorizing the development of comprehensive neighborhood health centers is contained in a 1966 amendment to the Economic Opportunity Act, which was introduced by Senator Edward M. Kennedy. The first neighborhood health center in the United States was opened in the Columbia Point Public Housing Project, and centers are now operating in many locations across the country. One of particular interest is operated under the guidance of the Tufts Medical School, and is located in Bolivar County, Mississippi.

In announcing the grant, Senator Kennedy, speaking for himself and Speaker John W. McCormack, said that "The Neighborhood Health Centers have proved to be a revolutionary development in delivering health services to the poor. In Columbia Point, for example, 72 percent of the adult population had never had a medical checkup before the Center opened. After only a short period of operation, more than 5,400

Thank You to "Record"

To the Editor of the "City Record."

This is a word of thanks from the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of The National Foundation-March of Dimes to you and your paper, March of Dimes volunteers in the community and, of course, to the general public.

Our past successes and future hopes have depended and continue to depend upon understanding of the problem—birth defects—which we now combat and the resources at hand to carry on that combat—in short, an informed public. You have been instrumental in bringing that understanding about by carrying information relative to the cause of The National Foundation and, furthermore, by carrying an occasional reminder to contribute to The March of Dimes, you do more than a little to hasten the defeat of the greatest health threat to young children in the world today. For this, I certainly wish to thank you.

Of the volunteer, it is safe to note that a health organization such as ours, no matter how impressive its record, far-reaching its resources or good its administration, is no better than its cornerstone, the volunteer—that neighbor up the street or around the corner—who labors in its behalf. The zeal exhibited by March of Dimes volunteers is no less than exemplary.

To the public, our heartfelt thanks for your response to our 1967 campaign and we wish to assure one and all that, while we are now committed to a fight that makes our struggle against polio seem small by comparison, the same spirit of endeavor remains. Birth defects, 7,000 worth in the Commonwealth each year alone, will be beaten.

Sincerely yours,

RAYMOND G. PATEN, Executive Director, The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, 2 Park square, Boston.

SHORT-SHORT STORIES

From the Sidney, Neb., Telegraph:
"For Sale: Exceptional set of ladies' golf clubs. They have had lessons."

Mayor . . .

Yes, we have made a good beginning, an important beginning, and an encouraging beginning. And we have done it together.

I like to think that when historians look back on the past eight years they will refer to this period as Boston's "Decade of Dedication."

Indifference Bulldozed

Together, you and I succeeded in breaking a log jam of municipal hypochondria and apathy that had gripped our city for far too many years.

Together we began an endless quest for excellence.

Ours became an economical but efficient administration consistent with good municipal services. We pruned, we pared, we consolidated, we eliminated, we dedicated our days to the pursuit of good government.

Our critics are quick to say that we used the bulldozer too often.

I don't agree.

In my recollection the only thing this administration ever bulldozed was the graveyard of indifference and indecision in which Boston was mired.

In doing so we built the foundation upon which the New Boston stands today.

The Milestones

If I may, I would like to take you on a few minutes' journey recalling some of the events and milestones that marked my seven and one-half years as your Mayor.

In 1959 when I first offered myself to you as a candidate for Mayor, I made three pledges:

The first was to lower taxes—this we have accomplished in five of the last seven years. Today's tax rate is even lower than that of 1959. This is a feat unequalled by any other major city.

Prior to this administration, Boston's tax rate had been soaring at a rate of $7.85 per thousand dollars of assessed value.

Had this skyrocketing trend continued, Boston's tax rate today would be a staggering $156.15 per thousand.

Just imagine—a small homeowner with an average 5 thousand-dollar assessment would be reeling under a tax bill of $780.15!

And if that were not a tragedy by itself, picture the owner of a two-family dwelling with a $9,000 assessment going bankrupt as he attempted to meet a tax bill of $1,405.35!

My second pledge to you was to seek overdue state revenue to relieve the tax burden on the homeowner and the rent payer. This, too, has been accomplished. Although the state has not yet honored its promise to pay all welfare costs, we expect the Governor and the Commonwealth to honor that pledge.

And finally, in 1959, I promised to "Build and Renew Boston." You have only to look around you to see that this pledge, also, was fulfilled.

Proud Achievements

In place of eyesores, tumbling buildings or littered lots, a New Boston is emerging.

Downtown, uptown, all around the town—from the waterfront to the homefront, a New Boston is taking shape. When it is completed it will stand as a monument to you and your generation for scores of years to come.

Just think of some of the new names that now beautify the Boston skyline:

The Prudential Center with its neighbors

The Sheraton-Boston and

The War Memorial Auditorium

Metropolitan Area Planning Council Regional Plan; Increase in Capacity of Hub Incinerator Under Study

(Following is the second and concluding installment of the report made by the Boston Finance Commission concerned with Boston's waste disposal problems):

Proposals

Fortunately, a newly proposed solution has just appeared on the horizon. It is a dual solution as far as Boston is concerned: (1) the recently announced Regional Plan of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, and (2) the expansion of capacity and enhancement of facilities at the City's South Bay Incinerator.

The MAPC, which views this matter as a metropolitan problem, has just completed a study of solid waste disposal in 79 cities and towns in the Boston region and made recommendations for meeting the alarming situation which the study has found. The MAPC would set up a system of nine regional incinerators and eight sanitary land-fill operations to handle the solid waste of these cities and towns.

The Metropolitan District Commission would be the agency to design, construct, and operate such a system, cooperating with an Advisory Board representing the communities; the municipalities would pay for these services on a use basis.

The City, on its part, has filed an application for a Federal Demonstration Grant under which a mechanical operational change will be undertaken to demonstrate that the capacity of the South Bay Incinerator can be increased—from its present theoretical capacity of 900 tons per day (in actual practice near 500 tons a day) to a capacity eventually of 1,200 tons per day. The total cost of this demonstration project is estimated to be $2,150,000 with the City contributing $720,000. The Federal law under which this demonstration grant is authorized is Public Law 89-272, Sections 202-A and 204-A. This was enacted by Congress on October 20, 1965.

"The objective of this project is to demonstrate that through recently acquired techniques it is practical and desirable to convert existing incinerator facilities to meet present-day demands, including handling of new types of refuse and meeting requirements of contemplated rigid air-pollution control legislation." The new techniques are:

1. The processing by a hammermill of bulky refuse such as furniture, mattresses, stoves, stumps, and other objects not now incinerable as well as processing by grinding all refuse to determine extent of improvement in the burning operation.

2. The use of a water walled, continuous feed incinerator.

Plans according to the City's application for the Demonstration Grant, call for the removal of two 150-ton batch-fed furnaces and one waste heat boiler at the present South Bay Incinerator. Plans would include the furnishing and installing of a heavy-duty shredder and grinder for processing up to 400 tons per day of refuse or for handling bulk objects not suited at this time for incineration; furnishing and installing a 400-ton per day water walled furnace, all to be installed in the space now occupied by the aforementioned two furnaces and waste heat boiler.

At some later date, and in work not to be included in this project, the remaining four furnace units of the plant would be removed and replaced by two 400-ton units. This would increase the capacity of the South Bay Incinerator to 1,200 tons per day, instead of the 550 tons per day now realized.

The handling of bulky waste at the incinerator may make possible a very substantial saving to the City.

Eire Workers

Several hundred Irish students are arriving in New York in a special project permitting their employment in hotels, resorts, and restaurants on the east coast.

The project is sponsored by the National Employment Services Institute in Washington, in conjunction with the Irish Student Union. The Institute for the past several years has worked with the American Hotel & Motel Association by listing summer employment needs in a catalogue for college students and teachers.

This year, under the joint project with the Irish, the State Department has granted a special blanket visa permitting the Irish students to visit the U. S. and cut travel and maintenance expenses by working.

S.S. Numbers

The Registry of Motor Vehicles is now in process of assigning the Social Security number as the motor vehicle operator's license number because of the ever-increasing difficulties in positive identification of individuals due to rapidly shifting addresses and the growing duplication of common names.

This same problem has been experienced in all the major states and Massachusetts is merely one of the several states moving to the Social Security number as a universal means of identification.

Registrar McLaughlin pointed out that all of the Armed Forces will adopt the Social Security number as the military serial number effective July 1 of this year, also. The Registrar said, "This will not only be a valuable contribution to governmental efficiency and economy but, moreover, will represent a convenience to the individual since it is obvious that the trend to the use of the Social Security number is growing. It is easier to remember one number than a dozen or more."

Registrar McLaughlin said that the Registry had refused the use of fingerprints as the alternative identification means. He said that he felt there would be great public resentment of such a method of identification.

"Individuals not holding Social Security numbers will be assigned Registry identification numbers in lieu thereof," he said.

Helmet Regulations

In accordance with the provisions of section 7 of chapter 90 of the General Laws as amended by chapter 13 of the Acts of 1967 following due notice and after a public hearing, the following minimum standards for protective headgear are hereby prescribed by the Registry Department:

Every person operating a motorcycle or riding as a passenger on a motorcycle or in a sidecar attached to a motorcycle shall wear protective headgear, with a suitable retaining device in position, designed and manufactured to protect at least the area of the wearer's head above a reference plane 2.36 inches (60 mm.) above and parallel to a plane defined by the level of the external ear openings and the lower rim of the eye openings against rapid deceleration upon impact.

Effective January 1, 1968, such protective headgear shall be labelled by the manufacturer or its duly authorized agent on the outer surface above the base of the rear of the helmet with legible letters or numbers indicating the manufacturer's name and the model name or number and be designed and constructed so as to meet the penetration test requirements, retaining system test requirements and acceleration test requirements (for initial impacts only) of the United States of America Standards Institute, Standard Number Z90.1-1966.

Impact of the Plan of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council on Boston

This proposed alteration of the South Bay Incinerator has a twofold value. After the Metropolitan Area Planning Council's plan is adopted, enacted into law, and implemented by the construction of regional incinerators and the acquisition of dump sites, the alteration of the South Bay Incinerator would fit into the MAPC plan which assumes such an expansion of capacity. The latter plan also calls for a new regional incinerator to handle refuse from Chelsea, East Boston, Everett, Malden, Melrose, Revere, Saugus, and Winthrop. This is the long-range plan and could take care of East Boston. Since so many municipalities are now dependent on the Saugus Dump, and its life expectancy is short, the construction of this particular regional incinerator is given high priority in the MAPC plan.

The full realization of the MAPC plan, however, is in the indefinite future since to enact legislation, set up the administrative machinery and design and construct incinerators would take a substantial period of time. The estimated time period for the first alteration of the South Bay Incinerator is three years. This could, incidentally, include the disposal of East Boston refuse and resolve the Saugus Dump impasse.

Other Provisions of the MAPC Plan Affecting Boston

Under the MAPC plan, Boston's refuse disposal problem will be affected eventually not only by the proposed 1,200-ton incinerator to be constructed north of Boston to serve the eight municipalities previously mentioned, but also by an incinerator to the west of Boston proposed to serve Charlestown, Arlington, Belmont, Cambridge, Medford, and Somerville. Still another is proposed to serve Allston-Brighton, Brookline, Newton, Needham, Waltham, and Wellesley. The MAPC plan also looks to the alteration of the South Bay Incinerator and to the construction of a 1,800-ton per day incinerator centrally located, to serve southwest Boston and the communities of Dedham, Milton, Norwood, and Westwood.

Confronting a Pressing Problem

The MAPC proposal and the application by the City for a Demonstration Grant to enhance the facility of the South Bay Incinerator should focus public attention on a problem that calls loudly for solution.

As the MAPC puts it:

"The metropolitan areas from Maine to Florida and from New York to California are faced with an avalanche of solid waste which is approaching 165 million tons per year . . . as volumes of waste are increasing, vacant land space available for disposal purposes is rapidly decreasing."

Unlike more dramatic municipal problems, such as those involving police and fire protection, as well as schools and hospitals, the problem of refuse disposal evokes little public response until a clear emergency develops. Immediate action is essential on both these proposals (the MAPC plan and the South Bay Incinerator plan) if such an emergency is to be avoided.

Summary

1. Boston is in a captive situation with respect to the disposal of refuse from East Boston, hauled to a privately owned Saugus dump.
2. The Public Works Department has two points of disposal in the City: the South Bay Incinerator and the Gardner Street Dump. The potential of both of these facilities must be maximized if Boston's serious disposal problem is to be met.

3. The potential of the incinerator will be substantially increased if the Federal Demonstration Grant is forthcoming and the alteration program is carried out. The potential of the Gardner Street Dump can be increased through a change in rates charged to contractors.

4. The proposal of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council of a regional network of incinerators and dump sites offers a promising regional approach to the worsening refuse disposal problem in the Boston metropolitan area.

of the project's 6,000 residents had received at least some service from the Center. This dramatic increase in health services indicates that all Americans—rich or poor—can have the health care they need.

"Another benefit of the Health Centers is employment for poverty-area residents. For example, the Columbia Point Center is providing employment for 30 residents of Columbia Point. They are working as nurse's aides, ambulance drivers, secretaries, and switchboard operators.

"The Roxbury Neighborhood Health Center can bring the same benefits to the residents of Roxbury and North Dorchester. The tuberculosis and infant mortality rates in this area, for example, considerably higher than the rates in more prosperous areas. The reason is simply stated: lack of medical care. The Center will bring this care to Roxbury and North Dorchester."

MODERN ART

A Boston mother was pleased but puzzled with the Christmas card her son brought home from kindergarten. It showed a scraggly looking tree with presents dangling from it, and in the center something that looked strangely like a bullet. Explained the youngster, "It's not a Christmas tree—it's a cart-ridge in a pear tree."

Diabetes Detection Tests

Early detection of diabetes is the aim of a new adult health program to be offered the citizens of Boston by the Department of Health and Hospitals.

Diabetes screening tests will be available at the Harvard Street Health Unit each Tuesday from 1 to 2 P.M. (starting June 13) and at the Charlestown Health Unit each Wednesday from 1 to 2 P.M. (starting June 7).

"Diabetes affects about four million people in the United States," said Dr. Leon J. Taubenhaus, Deputy Commissioner for Community Health Services. "Of these four million, one million six hundred thousand don't know they have diabetes."

"Found early enough," he continued, "diabetes can be controlled—but overlooked or neglected, it can quickly lead to serious trouble."

Although anyone may become diabetic, the condition is found more often in women than men; in people with a diabetic relative; in people over forty, and in people who are overweight.

Symptoms of diabetes may include: excessive thirst; excessive urination; hunger; loss of weight; pain in fingers and toes; easy tiring; slow healing of cuts and bruises; changes in vision; intense itching; and drowsiness.

In mild cases, however, only one or two of these symptoms may be present, and even where there are no such symptoms, diabetes may be present for years without recognition—unless tests are made.
